ESTAB. 1927—VOL. 4—NO. 67 TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1929 THREE CENTS

Today

A Shock for Wall Street.
One Drunk, One Dead.
Bombs Far Apart.
Our President as Rajah.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE Supreme Court, which upholds contracts, surprised Wall Street yesterday. New York City supplied money to build subways. Private individuals, allowed to operate the subways, wrote into their contract with the city a five-cent fare agreement. The late Thomas F. Ryan told this writer that this was put in at the special request of the subways operators, for, said he, "We could have carried passengers profitably for three cents," then.

BUT wages went up, outrageous overcapitalization made a five-cent fare apparently unprofitable.

"We want seven cents, please," said the subways.

STOCK speculators, were short when the Supreme Court replied, "You must keep your five-cent contract with the city, as the city would keep a contract with you."

Old-timers in Wall Street, "loaded" up with subway stocks, acted quickly as usual. They spread a report that the Supreme Court had decided in favor of a higher fare, and sent prices up while they "unloaded."

WHEN the truth came out, "Interboro" dropped from $55 to $30, and B. M. T., the Brooklyn subway, fell from $78.50 to $66. The lambs were the shock absorbers.

NEW YORK is picturesque, especially along the South street waterfront, visible from the room in which this was written, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. On the right the fine old Brooklyn Bridge sweeps across the river. Farther south, among the towers of Wall Street, you pay 20 per cent for your money.

JUST north of Brooklyn Bridge for some time a big steamboat has been tied up. Somebody found whisky on it.

On a big beam in front of Dock No. 28 of the Bridgeport line, a miserable man about 50 lies on his back, dead drunk, the sun streaming on his face.

Twenty yards farther to the north, in front of the barge Wood Cliff, a grim figure is stretched out at the water's edge. It's a dead man, the face and the upper part of the body covered with a black tarpaulin. Somebody pulled him out of the water many hours ago. He still lies there on his back. Somebody will take him away presently.

LATER, at a quarter to five, the dead man was still lying beside the river. A friendly policeman had covered him from head to foot with white paper to keep off flies on a hot day. The authorities, questioned by telephone, replied, "We have only one dead wagon and that's been busy running all day. We'll get around to that man on the dock by and by."

The march of progress and morality seems to make more than one dead wagon necessary.

TWO bombs in the day's news, one not formidable or dangerous, mailed in New York, addressed to Gov. Roosevelt.

The other, far away in India, exploded in the Indian Legislature at Delhi, injuring six. Sir John Simon, head of a committee attempting to improve conditions in India, was not hurt, although the bomb was intended for him.

THE British, controlling plagues and famine, have increased India's population by 100,000,000. As the population pressure increases, the Britons may agree with the Afghans, that Britain is breeding more Hindus than the world needs.

AN exciting day generally. Eighteen American flying machines, moving above the Mexican border, have orders to shoot down any rebel plane crossing the border.

We don't show those gentlemen the politeness that we show the Britisher who brought his "I'm Alone" rum smuggler to defy the laws of the United States along the Louisiana coast.

SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON, using that "I'm Alone" incident as a text, asks his fellow citizens to imagine what would happen in such a case if this country were in the World Court, outvoted 10 to 1, or worse yet, in the League of Nations.

Washington is receiving haughty notes from our little northern friend, Canada, on the subject of the "I'm Alone" and another ship.

In the League of Nations, Canada would have one vote, the same as the United States. Britain would have a separate vote, other fragments of the British Empire would have votes. This country would have a fine chance. Mr. Hoover would have left about as much power, internationally, as an Indian Rajah.

WITH "appropriate ceremonies," the United States Shipping Board flag was hauled down on the big ship Leviathan yesterday and the flag of a private owner hauled up. A 15-year-old girl, Joanna Chapman, hoisted the new flag. That was the "appropriate" part.

A GIRL of 15 might easily show more ability managing a steamship line than the United States government has been able to show.

Getting its ship from Germany for nothing to start with, it couldn't make a financial success of one of the finest ships in the world.

EDWARD E. BEIDLEMAN

E. E. BEIDLEMAN DIES OF HEART ATTACK

HARRISBURG, April 9.—(AP.)—Edward E. Beidleman, 56, former Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, died early today at a local hospital from a heart attack suffered while speaking at a meeting here last night.

While addressing a parent-teacher meeting at the Edison Junior High School, Mr. Beidleman coughed and collapsed. Four physicians were summoned from the audience and resuscitated him with first aid measures, following which he was taken to the hospital. Early this morning physicians at the hospital reported him to be fully revived and resting comfortably.

RISE IN POLITICS

Born in Harrisburg, July 8, 1873, and educated in the Harrisburg public schools, he read law under Samuel J. M. McCarrell and was admitted to the bar in 1898.

His rise to prominence in the State Republican organization was rapid. He served as a member of the House of Representatives during the sessions of 1905, 1906 and 1907 and was elected to the State Senate in 1912. He was re-elected

REPORT BRITISH FLIERS FOUND

SYDNEY, N. S. W., April 9.—(AP.)—The airplane Southern Cross, missing for nearly 10 days with Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and three companions on an attempted flight to England from Sydney, was reported by the Drysdale Mission Station in Western Australia today to have been found on the coast 30 miles southwest of the station.

A boat was standing by to take off the aviators, according to the Mission report which was forwarded by way of Derby.

Capt. Chater, who has been prominent in the search for the missing Southern Cross, expressed some skepticism as to the authenticity of the report.

Relief expeditions composed of airplanes, launches and native runners have been searching for the Southern Cross since Capt. Kingsford-Smith sent out a radio message on March 31 saying the airplane was making a forced landing in the wild Australian bush "about 100 miles east of Wyndham."

The Drysdale Mission Station had informed airplane searchers that an airplane had passed in a southwesterly direction over the station on March 31.

Borah Flouts Style, To Wear Straw Hat

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—The "hat season" tradition holds no terrors for Senator Borah, of Idaho. Uncomfortable from the excessive heat, he inquired yesterday when straw toppers were in order. Informed that May 15 was the date, he announced "that precedent is going to be laid aside" and that he intends to displace his broad-rimmed felt hat for one of straw now.

Dawes in London Post Seems Certain

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(INS.)—Formal inquiries have been made of the British foreign office as to whether Charles G. Dawes is persona grata to the British government as American ambassador to London, it was learned authoritatively here today.

A favorable reply is expected, and Gen. Dawes' appointment to the Court of St. James probably will be announced as soon as it is received.

Gen. Dawes will succeed Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton, who is returning to the United States on April 27.

PRINCIPALS MISSING; NO TRIALS

The wheels that revolve in the cause of justice were spinning idly today, so far as the so-called racketeers were concerned.

Two important trials in Federal Court and three in Criminal Court were postponed because witnesses or defendants had disappeared.

If searches were being conducted to apprehend the lost ones, those searches were fruitless today. And the roll of lost, strayed or stolen included:

ALFRED W. FORNEY, best known as the purported boss of the slot-machine racket.

ABIE BERKOWITZ, confessed bootlegger, star witness for the government against the North Side rum defendants.

WILLIAM HANSON, Forney's reputed rival in the business of collecting millions from slot machines.

CONSTABLE H. G. HISER, of Greentree, accused of defrauding a girl to settle a morality charge.

TWO UNNAMED WITNESSES wanted by the government to testify against Joe Engelsberg, political leader of the Hill, but also charged with smashing the prohibition law.

In addition to these, the prosecution of the alleged rum ring of police, politicians and racketeers in the "Strip" was postponed in Federal Court for the third time—because the defense lawyers were busy elsewhere, it was explained.

"NO TRACE OF FORNEY"

"We have no trace of Forney," District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner admitted of the man who jumped his bond several weeks ago.

"A bench process was issued for Constable Heiser today," Gardner explained.

"I have been assured Hanson will be here next week," Gardner explained. He would not reveal the source of the assurance.

ABIE BAFFLES MEYER

United States Attorney John D. Meyer had no progress to report in whatever search is being made for Abie Berkowitz. Police Inspector Charles Faulkner and eight others are the defendants against whom Berkowitz was to testify.

There was little known about the missing witnesses in the government's prosecution of Engelsberg. The Hill political leader is accused of sale, manufacture and possession of liquor from November, 1925, to December, 1927.

The postponements brought to an end the special April term of Federal Court until May 20.

GANG ROBS 80 IN SYNAGOG

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP.)—Five snarling, cursing bandits, masked and armed, held up 80 members of the First Rumanian Synagog congregation last night, taking $7,000 in money and jewels. It was the first instance in Chicago police records of a holdup inside a place of worship.

For nearly half an hour the robbers, some with pistols, some with shotguns, moved among the congregation which had been ordered to line up against a wall.

From the arms and hands of the women the robbers snatched bracelets and rings. The men's pockets yielded billfolds and watches.

A special meeting was being held to hear Victor Phillips, of Bucharest, representative of the Rumanian government, on the tenth anniversary celebration of United Rumania to be observed in Bucharest in May.

While Phillips was speaking, the

Vare Starts North, Able to Walk Alone

FORT PIERCE, Fla., April 9.—(AP.)—United States Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was en route to Pinehurst, N. C., today after spending four months recuperating from a paralytic stroke at his winter home at St. Lucie, near here.

Vare, who had to be carried from a train when he arrived here last December, had recovered to such an extent that he was able to walk alone when he started his trip to Pinehurst. After five days at Pinehurst he plans to go to Atlantic City.

"JUST A LITTLE SPREE"—HEFLIN

NEW YORK, April 9.—(INS.)—"Everything is so faded. I can't recall a thing." Thomas Heflin, Jr., speaking—speaking from his bed at the Hotel McAlpin, where he tried to remember just what happened on that rather joyous voyage up from Panama.

J. L. Thornton, secretary to young Heflin's father, the militant dry senator from Alabama, was there, too. The house physician came in once or twice, but wouldn't say why. Heflin said he will be able to leave today for Washington to face Senator Heflin.

"What are you going to tell father?" he was asked.

Heflin grinned feebly and shrugged his pajama-clad shoulders.

Thornton threw up his hands and muttered:

"Terrible! Terrible!"

When the youth was asked about the extent of his drinking on that

LAWRENCE WINS $108,000 SUIT

David L. Lawrence, Allegheny County chairman of the Democratic party, won a verdict of $107,919.40 against E. N. Gillespie, former prominent oil operator, in Common Pleas Court today in Lawrence's suit to recover the value of stock which Gillespie bought for him and others in 1920.

The jury awarded Lawrence all that he asked—$80,500 with interest from 1920.

Immediately Gillespie's counsel, George W. Wick, moved that the verdict be set aside as improper, illegal and void. Judge Harry H. Rowand refused.

It was a sealed verdict, reached late yesterday afternoon, and opened today.

Lawrence contended that the pool, which included prominent Pittsburgh politicians, had never re-

PROWLER, WITH WRENCH AS GUN, CAUGHT AT WAKE

A wake was being held last night at 6324 Marchand street, East End. In the parlor Matthew Daugherty lay in his coffin. In the kitchen, at the time, were his two sons, Matthew R., 31, and William J. Daugherty, 37, and a cousin, Catherine Dorsey, 19.

It was 2 a. m. Asleep, upstairs, was a roomer, John Bell. The noise of a window being raised awakened him. Somebody was crawling through the window.

"I've got you covered," a voice announced, and Bell thought he saw the bright reflection of a revolver.

Cautiously the intruder walked down the stairs to the first floor. In the parlor he saw the coffin. He started for the kitchen.

Meanwhile Bell had sent another roomer down the rear steps to warn the Daughertys.

Miss Dorsey saw the weapon for what it was—a nickel-plated tire wrench. She grabbed for it. Her cousins pushed her aside, grabbed the intruder and held him.

In Frankstown Avenue Police Court today the intruder said he was Lachlan McKinnon, 23, married, of Allison Park. He testified he was drunk last night.

Magistrate William J. Soost held the prisoner for investigation while police determine whether he had a part in recent East End house burglaries.

FIND CLUE TO TORCH VICTIM

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 9.—(AP.)—The Greenville police today expressed the belief that they had established the identity of the woman whose burning body was found near the Cranford (N. J.) Golf Club on February 23 last.

The victim, they think, was Mrs. Richard M. Campbell, formerly Mrs. Mildred Mowry, of Greenville, widow of Benjamin F. Mowry.

The police here became interested in the case recently, when they recivd a circular from Elizabth (N. J.), authorities saying the victim's shoes, one containing an arch support, might have been purchased in Greenville.

DESCRIPTION TALLIES

Yesterday they obtained a full description of the murdered woman, and they found that it tallied in detail with Mrs. Campbell—5 feet 5½ inches tall, weighing 155 pounds, light brown hair shot with gray, dental bridgework in the upper jaw, eyes blue, and the left shoe fitted with an arch support.

Mrs. Mowry left Greenville February 1, 1929. On August 28, 1928, she had married Richard M. Campbell, of Baltimore and New York, who was known as a "doctor" and later as a building contractor. The marriage took place at Elkton, Md.

GET POSTCARDS

Friends here received postcards from her from New York City on February 15 last. A few days later they received cards from her from the Chester, Pa., Y. W. C. A. All efforts to trace here from Chester have failed.

The victim of the New Jersey killing had been drenched with gasoline and set on fire after she had been shot in the top of the head and the head crushed with a heavy instrument.

SOUGHT HUSBAND

Friends recalled that after marrying Campbell, the woman returned here, expecting her husband to follow her. He did not appear, and in February of this year she went East to search for him.

Advised that rings, found on the crippled finger of the New Jersey victim, contained the initial "M," friends said Mrs. Campbell's ring finger was crippled and that her rings contained the initial of her previous name, Mildred Mowry.

Sunningdale Golf Again Lures Wales

SUNNINGDALE, England, April 9. — (AP.) — The Prince of Wales again has picked this Berkshire spot as his golf headquarters. Starting May 1, he will occupy the house he had last year as a week-end golfing center. The residence has 12 bedrooms, library and suite of reception rooms. The grounds of this private country club cover three acres and are only 27 miles from the Prince's London house.

P. R. R. Stockholders Ratify Big Issue

PHILADELPHIA, April 9. — (AP.)—The stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in annual meeting today, ratified the proposal for the issuance of $100,000,000 additional stock, to be issued from time to time at the discretion of the board of directors.

MRS. MINNIE KENNEDY

SUES MOTHER OF AIMEE FOR HEART BALM

SEATTLE, April 9. — (AP.) — Charges that Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, made "violent and passionate love" to him and then refused to marry him were on file here today in a $50,000 breach of promise suit by the Rev. H. H. Clark, middle-aged minister of the Christian denomination here.

The minister, who filed the suit yesterday, alleged that Mrs. Kennedy came into his life under the assumed name of Mary E. Clark last December in Seattle.

RENTED APARTMENT

Mr. Clark averred that Mrs. Kennedy rented a hotel apartment here where they could "talk undisturbed."

The suit set forth that while they talked of establishing a tabernacle for Mr. Clark in Seattle and outfitting a "gospel ship" for missionary work in Alaska and along the Pacific coast, Mrs. Kennedy persuaded him to visit the apartment and another hotel room.

The minister asserted that Mrs. Kennedy proposed marriage, promising to finance the tabernacle and "gospel ship" after their wedding.

Mr. Clark set forth that he first learned that "Mary E. Clark" really was Mrs. Kennedy when he saw her picture in a newspaper last Febru-

Asks Planes to Hunt Amphibian in Swamp

BURLINGTON, N. J., April 9.—(AP.)—Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington County detectives, today asked the naval authorities at Lakehurst to send aircraft to Hawkins' swamp, between Barnegat and Manahawkin, to run down a clue that the ill-fated Sikorsky amphibian plane, carrying T. Raymond Finucane, Rochester (N. Y.) sportsman, and several others, had nose dived into that dismal stretch of pines more than two weeks ago on a trip from Norfolk to New York.

OPERATORS SMOTHER REFORM

By WILLIAM L. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, April 9.—The coal operators of Western Pennsylvania apparently have succeeded in their efforts to defeat the bills designed to limit the powers of the coal and iron police.

The Musmanno bill, which was drawn up at the request of Gov. John S. Fisher and which passed the House without a dissenting vote, was killed today by the Senate judiciary general committee.

KILLED BY DELAY

A similar measure introduced by Senator William D. Mansfield, which passed the Senate unanimously, is being pickled in the mines and mining committee of the House.

At the meeting of the judiciary general committee today, Senator Mansfield made a motion that the Musmanno bill be reported favorably. This motion was defeated on the flimsy excuse that requests for a hearing have been received and should be granted.

The public hearings already have been held on the measure and, with adjournment scheduled for next Thursday, the delay effectively kills the Musmanno bill.

REPORTING DOUBTFUL

Senator A. F. Daix, Jr., Philadelphia, chairman of the committee, stated after the meeting that the bill would not be reported out before Tuesday.

Even if reported out of committee Tuesday, which seems doubtful, it will have no chance of passing three readings in the Senate before the adjournment at noon Thursday.

Howard F. Reider, Westmoreland County, is chairman of the House Mines Committee. He was summoned home today and his absence makes it certain that no meeting of that body will be held this week to

CHARTER LACKS BID CLAUSE

HARRISBURG, April 9.—Senator M. G. Leslie has not yet made the amendments in the Pittsburgh Metropolitan charter needed to prevent the Allegheny County Commissioners from awarding millions of dollars worth of contracts without advertising for bids.

This was discovered this morning when the charter, amended last night by Representative Joseph C. Marcus, Allegheny, to correct a number of typographical errors, appeared on the calendar for third reading and final passage.

Unless changed before it reaches the governor and is approved, bill will confer almost unprecedented power on the new board of commissioners. The present syst

TEXAS GUINAN, DIAMONDS FLASHING, GOES ON TRIAL

NEW YORK, April 9.—(INS.)—Her diamonds flashing defiance, Texas Guinan, Broadway's blonde Goddess of Liberty, went on trial today in Federal Court for maintaining an alleged nuisance in connection with a night club.

"I could do six months on my ear," said Tex. "But I am as innocent as twins playing the stock market."

She waved her hand here and there to well-wishers in the crowd.

"There's no cover charge today—come right in," Tex wisecracked.

Before they began picking a jury for her case, Tex witnessed a dozen of the waiters in her club, "The Salon Royale," plead guilty. She appeared indignant that they should plead that way.

"They're all foreigners," she said. "They don't know what the prohibition law is all about."

Despite the fact that it was Judge Thomas who sentenced her brother, Tommy Guinan, to jail on a liquor conviction, Texas said that "she liked the looks of the judge."

Tex revealed that she was in Europe entertaining for the A. E. F. when they passed the prohibition law.

"They passed it when I wasn't looking," she said.

Texas, with Helen Morgan, actress and night club hostess, were at first indicted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, but later the indictments were changed to charge them with maintaining a nuisance. Miss Morgan goes on trial after Texas finishes her act.

FISHER O. K. FAILS TO HELP BLUE LAW MODIFICATION

GAS TAX FOES GAGGED IN SENATE

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 9.—In an effort to hamper opposition to the steam roller effort to force the four-cent gasoline tax through the Senate, organization leaders have placed a gag on the roads committee of that body.

The Sterling bill imposing the fourth cent raise, was reported today to the Senate Finance Committee. It is scheduled for first reading today.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman, chairman of the committee, admitted today that he had changed his mind about asking State Treasurer Samuel J. Lewis, arch enemy of the boosted tax, to appear before the committee.

At the same time he admitted receiving a financial report from Secretary of Highways James L. Stuart, which purported to show the need for the additional tax.

KEEPS REPORT SECRET

He flatly declined to make that report public. At the same time, acting solely upon the Mellon-Grundy-Fisher organization figures furnished by Stuart, the committee voted out the administration highway program bills which require an increased expenditure of $13,000,000.

Lewis, during the past months, has insisted that sufficient funds are in sight to put through that program without additional revenue. Stuart claims that he needed not only the four-cent gasoline tax, but the $4,750,000 boost in vehicle and operator license fees proposed in the administration motor code to carry through the program.

"Did you receive a financial report from Stuart?" Buckman was asked.

"I did and I'm going to keep it," he retorted brusquely, "that's final."

"When are you going to hold a meeting of your committee?"

"I don't know."

"Have you invited Lewis?"

"How can I invite a man when I don't know when we will meet," said Buckman.

"Well, you stated last week that you intended to let him and Stuart have it out before your committee."

LEWIS GAGGED

Buckman made it clear that any plan to let Lewis present the figures of the Treasury Department has been abandoned. Reports here that cannot be confirmed charge Gov. Fisher with instructing Buckman to keep Lewis out of the meeting and to keep the Stuart report a secret.

"Did the Governor ask you to prevent Lewis from speaking?" Buckman was asked.

"He did not."

"There is a story that he told you to keep the Stuart report a secret because he did not want the newspapers to keep up the controversy between the Lewis and the administration figures."

"I can deny that," said Buckman.

The Sterling bill boosting the gasoline tax to 4 cents is expected from the Senate Finance Committee late today. The motor code boosting the vehicle and operators fees is expected to appear from Buckman's committee about the same time.

Another 4-cent gasoline tax bill was killed early today. It was the Talbot bill that would collect the tax from 700 wholesale distributors instead of from the 25,000 or more retailer dealers.

CHARTER LACKS BID CLAUSE

advertising for bids on contracts for public works has been omitted entirely from the charter as it was rewritten by city and county politicians.

The present charter does not prescribe in any way the manner in which the board of commissoners must ask for bids for public works. It does say that "contracts for public works of all kinds requiring payments in excess of $500 shall be publicly awarded on the bass of competitive bids to the lowest responsible bidder in accordance with such procedure as the board of commissioners may prescribe by ordinance."

CHANGE NOT MADE

As far as the charter regulations are concerned, the commissioners, by ordinance, may ask for bids in a notice posted on the inside of the courthouse tower, and, by another ordinance, prohibit anyone climbing the tower without a permit countersigned by a majority of the board. At present the commissioners must advertise for bids.

The omission was discovered last week by Senator William D. Mansfield, who called it to Leslie's attention. According to Mansfield, Leslie stated he would have the necessary changes made. Today it was learned that the amendments regulating the awarding of contracts had not been made.

NEW RATE BILL SEEN AS COAL STIMULANT

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 9.—One of the most important measures affecting the bituminous coal industry in Pennsylvania was presented in the Senate today by Senator Chauncey W. Parkinson, Greene County.

The Parkinson bill directs the Public Service Commission to establish, and the Governor and Attorney General to maintain in the courts, fair coal shipment rates on the per-ton per-mile basis on routes within the state.

Supporters of the measure predict that, if passed, it will go far to revive the bituminous industry in Pennsylvania and make Erie and Philadelphia two of the greate coal shipping points in the country. It is said to have the approval of Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods in principle, at least.

The legal questions involved are understood to have been considerably clarified by recent court decision in which the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission over intra-state routes was sharply limited.

One effect of the measure would be to remove the discrimination in the cost of hauling coal, which for years has been upheld by the Interstate Commerce Commission to the benefit of the operators of West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, and which has reacted to the detriment of the industry in Western Pennsylvania.

The Parkinson measure would abolish what Pennsylvania operators believe to be unfair rates from the Pittsburgh district field to tidewater and lake ports. It would permit the establishment of new rates to the ports of Erie and Philadelphia.

ocean trip, he replied it was "only a little spree."

"Oh, yes," interposed Thornton. "Mr. Heflin's drinking is just spasmodic, just spasmodic, that's all."

He added, soothingly: "All that is just a bad memory now. Mr. Heflin is young and, really, I don't see why his acts should cause so much excitement."

Heflin will have a lot of things to explain to his father when he starts home for Washington—probably tonight.

For one thing—the incident which almost landed him in a police station.

FELL ASLEEP IN LOBBY

Young Heflin fell asleep last night on a lounge in the Pennsylvania Hotel and somebody notified the police. An officer was sent from the West Thirtieth Street Station.

Just about the time the policeman arrived Thornton appeared on the scene and explained matters to the satisfaction of the officer, and Heflin left with his father's secretary who thereafter kept close watch on him.

A published report that Heflin was given a black eye by the policeman was news to Sergt. Moran, of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who said that, inasmuch as Heflin was not arrested, there was no record of anything of that nature.

WANTED TO SEE "AL"

Happy, friendly, carefree Heflin, Jr., returned last night from not-so-dry Panama and entertained ship-newsmen with oratory on many subjects as he left the liner Ancon.

"I want to see Al Smith," the Senator's son cried. "I want to show him there's no hard feelings.

"In a dry state I'm dry; in a wet state I'm wet," he continued expansively.

Senator Tom Connolly, of Texas, rescued him from peril of further declamation.

HEFLIN, SR., GRIEVED

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(INS.)—There's going to be a long talk between J. Thomas Heflin, Jr., and J. Thomas Heflin, Sr., when Junior reaches Washington.

Junior, who is 27, arrived in New York yesterday from Panama with a congressional junketing party. Stories were printed in the New York newspapers this morning that the younger Heflin was in exceedingly gay spirits and insisted on the pier that he wanted to go see Al Smith and tell him that "Papa was wrong."

"I am shocked and grieved to learn he got intoxicated," said Senator Heflin today. "He has not touched liquor in a long time.

"In the words of the Scripture, 'Some enemy hath done this.' We will have a talk when he gets home."

bandits dashed in the front entrance.

The robber chief, shouting oaths, ordered everyone to line up against the wall. Three of the band stationed themselves at the exits. The leader and another moved among the congregation, taking what valuables they could find.

In the leisurely search the robbers came to Rabbi Harris Goldstein and took $2 from his billfold. Observing the rabbi's name on it, the leader told his aide to return the money.

J. D. Raynes offered $1.90 to the robbers as they approached him.

"I'm the shamus (janitor)," he said. "Keep it," said the robber chief.

Campbell Camp No. 99, Sons of Union Veterans, and speaks at the organization's annual Appomattox Day banquet tonight in Penn-McKee Hotel. Congressman Clyde Kelly, who greeted him upon arrival, will also be a guest at the dinner.

BROOKHART GLAD SINCLAIR MUST SERVE JAIL TERM

"It is a relief to know that finally somebody will have to pay a penalty in the oil scandal—even though it is only a three-month jail term," declared United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, commenting today on the Harry F. Sinclair case.

Senator Brookhart is in McKeesport today to speak tonight at the annual Appomattox Day banquet of A. B. Campbell Camp No. 99, Sons of Union Veterans, in the Penn-McKee Hotel.

Brookhart and Congressman Clyde Kelly will be the guests of honor at the dinner. They were entertained by the McKeesport Kiwanis Club at luncheon and visited the Homestead Park Gun Club.

Kelly, asked for his opinion of the liquor charge against Congressman Morgan, of Ohio, said: "I think there has been a mistake somewhere in this case. I know Congressman Morgan personally. He is an upright and honest man."

CHECK ON COAL POLICE KILLED

report out the Mansfield bill. Next week will be too late for any action.

As a result, the Legislature will adjourn without having finally passed any measure regulating the abuses that have grown as a result of the coal and iron police system, in spite of the fact that some such bill was asked by the Governor and in spite of the fact that both House and Senate, without a single dissenting vote, passed such measures.

DISAPPOINTMENT EXPRESSED

The Rev. Ralph B. Urmy, editor of the Christian Advocate, said:

"I am deeply disappointed at the killing of the coal and iron police bill, although as it appeared, it contained but slight remedy, perhaps only in the bonding factor. The provision which permitted the coal and iron police jurisdiction within 300 feet certainly gave them a wide field.

"I confess my sense of justice is outraged, for not only from the Governor but the operators had come announcements that the unholy union between the state and the coal and iron police should be dissolved.

"It looks as if both had waited for the excitement following the Borkoski murder to die down and then give their orders to the Legislature."

ceived the stock certificates from Gillespie for its share in the Guffey-Gillespie Oil Company. Gillespie, so Lawrence charged, was to have managed the syndicate in a special account.

Others in the pool included State Senator James Coyne, the late Senator John P. Harris, the late Controller John Moore, Attorney B. B. McGinness, former City Treasurer Larry Goshorn, former County Commissioner James Houlahen.

CLAIMS MONEY LOST

Gillespie's defense was that the market wiped out the pool, that the price dropped and the stock had to be sold at a loss.

In behalf of all those in the pool, with the exception of Goshorn, who had withdrawn, Lawrence sued for an accounting of the funds and charged misappropriation. Lawrence contributed $15,000 to the pool for himself, according to testimony.

AIMEE AIDING MOTHER

ary. Thereafter, he alleged, Mrs. Kennedy abandoned him and about two weeks later admitted her true identity. The minister alleged that Mrs. Kennedy then informed him she would not wed him.

AIMEE BACKS MOTHER

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, came to the defense of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, when informed last night that a breach of promise suit had been filed against the latter at Seattle by the Rev. H. H. Clark.

"The reported charges against my mother are too absurd to even consider," said Mrs. McPherson. "I know my mother and I know that her actions could be nothing but good. If it is true that these preposterous charges have been filed, I will do anything I can to help my mother."

SPEAKS OF BLACKMAIL

PORTLAND, Ore., April 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, last night characterized the $50,000 heart balm suit brought against her in Seattle by the Rev. H. H. Clark as a case of "biting the hand that feeds him."

"I have nothing to say about this case," was her first declaration. Then she augmented her statement in strongly worded phrases with references to "blackmailing" and "hypocrisy."

Efforts to identify the Rev. H. H. Clark as a former minister of the Christian Church here, as reported from some sources, failed today. The Rev. John Ray Ewers, for 20 years a minister of that denomination here, stated that he never had heard of the Rev. H. H. Clark.

DIPLOMATS TO ASK PROMPT RULING ON CURTIS PROTEST

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(INS.)—From the crown of Capitol Hill to the furthermost reaches of Embassy Row, where the diplomats hold forth, Washington was all in a lather today over the question of where Mrs. Gann is going to sit.

Is Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, half-sister of Vice President Curtis, going to sit as the second lady of the land at official functions, or is she going to be relegated, by the present ruling, to a seat below the wives of the diplomats.

There's the question! And to any one who doesn't think it's important, let him or her consider these activities:

The diplomatic corps of Washington, comprising nearly 50 accredited representatives of kings, queens, sultans and plain presidents, held a meeting at the British embassy last night and decided to press the State Department for a decision.

Such a decision already has been demanded by the Vice President himself.

And to make it more serious, the dragons of Capitol Hill are bestirring themselves and threatening to intervene, investigate and, if necessary, put Mrs. Gann in the place her friends and brother claim for her by act of Congress.

Quoth Senator J. Tom Heflin (Dem.), of Alabama:

"I'm not going to have this issue bandied about by a bunch of diplomats, chattering like so many blackbirds. If this issue isn't settled in favor of Dolly Ann before Congress meets (next Monday) I'll introduce a joint resolution making it a matter of law that whoever the Vice President designates as his hostess shall be recognized as his hostess and given all the social rights attached to that position."

And up spake Senator William Edgar Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee:

"I'm for Charlie Curtis."

The diplomats want the issue settled before Thursday night when there is to be a dinner given the Chilean ambassador, to which the Vice President and Mrs. Gann and a number of diplomats have been invited.

Unless a decision is forthcoming by then, Mrs. Gann, under the existing Kellogg ruling, will be seated below the diplomatic ladies.

LABOR WORKING FOR REDUCED WAGE TAX

Representatives of organized labor are working in behalf of the movement for changing the system of taxation that imposes a burden on those dependent on earned incomes.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, declaring that the method of assessing the Federal income tax on wage earners is unjust, commended the efforts made by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers for an appeal to Congress for a revision downward on the tax on professional men, salaried men and women and all wage workers.

SYSTEM UNFAIR

"It is generally agreed that the system of taxing those who work for a living is unfair," said Mr. Murray. "It is apparent to any student of economics that the condition of the community is improved if the tax burden is lessened as it applies to the workers who are the creators of wealth. The government should find some means for lifting the load from the shoulders of wage earners. It is better to encourage the individual who works for his living to own a home and accumulate provision for his old age and hs dependents. This cannot result if he is unfairly taxed."

Professional groups whose ethics forbid formal action of their organizations on matters such as a protest against the present tax on earned incomes have nevertheless given expression of their opposition through petitions signed by individual members. The Allegheny County Medical Society through its officers referred the question to the national medical body and maintained a "hands off" attitude, but scores of physicians individually signed petitions and circulated these among their friends and neighbors.

DENTISTS LEAD

Dentists lead all professional groups among the petitioners in this district in the appeal to Congress to lighten the burden of taxation on earned incomes. Nearly every dentist in McKeesport and the Monongahela valley section has signed a petition, while in the city the same spirit of protest against unjust assessment of taxes on earned income is manifested. Among Pittsburgh dentists who voluntarily joined the movement is Dr. R. A. Wooten, of 2170 Center avenue.

"Men of all professions are heavily taxed," declared Dr. Wooten, who favors united action by dental and medical organizations in asserting their rights before the government. "Professional men have many expenses which should be subject to exemption. The standard of living has much to do with it, and success in any profession depends largely on maintaining the living standard that have been set down. The same applies to a greater or less degree to all salaried persons and wage earners."

E. E. BEIDLEMAN DIES SUDDENLY

to the Senate in 1916 and, having been chosen president pro tempore of that body at the close of the 1915 session, served in that capacity until the end of the session of 1917.

On May 21, 1918, he was named Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the ticket headed by William C. Sproul, and was elected. With the expiration of his term as Lieutenant Governor, he resumed his practice of law and remained a power in local and state politics of the Republican party.

ACTIVE HERE IN 1926

Although Beidleman's political strength lay largely in Eastern Pennsylvania, he became an active and intimate figure in Pittsburgh campaign circles during the strenuous days of 1926.

At that time he was paired, as a candidate for governor, with William S. Vare. John S. Fisher, now governor, defeated Beidleman, while Vare triumphed over George Wharton Pepper, then United States senator and Fisher's running mate.

It was one of the most bitter intra-party fights in the Republican party's primary-torn history.

Beidleman and Vare aligned a strong faction of Pittsburghers behind their cause and against the Mellon-backed Pepper-Fisher ticket.

The then Congressman John M. Morin, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, Alderman John J. Verona, Councilman Charles Anderson, County Superintendent of Maintenance Edward M. Kenna and County Superintendent of Roads John J. Fugassi were leaders in the Vare-Beidleman contingent.

LATE RETURNS BEAT HIM

Beidleman ran a splendid race, his tremendous lead in the east being barely cut down as the western strongholds of the Mellon clan reported in—in some instances two days late in their returns.

Election night it seemed that not only Vare but Beidleman had been elected.

Beidleman dies on the eve of what promises to be another bitter factional battle between Pittsburgh Republicans. And with a few realignments here and there, the faction which supported the Dauphin County gubernatorial aspirant and Vare will again be arrayed against a Mellon choice.

He is survived by the widow, a daughter, Katherine, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Beidleman.

All state flags were ordered to half staff by Gov. Fisher today out of respect for Mr. Beidleman.

"Tax Unjust"

PHILLIP MURRAY

Mr. Murray, international vice president, United Mine Workers of America, says the method of assessing federal income tax on wage earners today is unjust.

CALLES DRIVES TO END REVOLT

MEXICO CITY, April 9.—(INS.)—With his headquarters now established at Mazatlan, Sinaloa, on the west coast, Gen. Plutarco Calles, secretary of war and commander-in-chief of all the government forces, today announced his plans for a campaign in Sinaloa and Sonora which he hopes will end the revolution of Mexico.

Calles hopes to trap the rebels in a three-cornered wedge some place in Sonora. Three Federal divisions will be employed in this maneuver.

The three converging Federal forces total 25,000 men. Gen. Calles predicted that they will subjugate the rebellion in Sonora in two weeks.

ESCOBAR PRESIDENT

JUAREZ, CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 9.—(AP.)—Proclaimed "provisional president" of Mexico by the insurgents, Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel generalissimo, today was on his way to the mountains in Western Chihuahua with 6,000 troops.

Before his departure from here yesterday on a three section train, the "provisional president" said the revolutionists would make a stand in Chihuahua or Sonora, depending upon circumstances, and then put into force a rigid censorship to protect the movement of rebel forces.

U. S. CAVALRY ON MOVE

EL PASO, Tex., April 9.—(AP.)—Two hundred United States cavalrymen at Fort Bliss here were under orders to entrain this morning for Hachita, a small railroad town in the southwestern corner of New Mexico, about 10 miles north of the international line.

The orders for the cavalrymen to proceed to Hachita were issued yesterday by Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, United States Army Eighth Corps commander at San Antonio, Tex. The movement was described as a "protective measure."

I'm Alone Skipper, Crew Freed by U. S.

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—(AP.)—Capt. Thomas E. Randall and his crew of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone, which was sunk by coast guard craft as a rum runner in the Gulf of Mexico, were dismissed today by the United States commissioner at the request of the district attorney.

In requesting the dismissal, District Attorney Edmond E. Talbot said he wished to have it understood that the dismissal did not "in any way prejudice the right of the coast guard to fire upon and sink rum smugglers."

HOUSE BEATS FINAL PLEA FOR BILL

HARRISBURG, April 9.—Gov. John S. Fisher agreed to sign the Wettach bill, modifying the Blue Laws of 1794 to meet modern conditions, if it was approved by the House and Senate.

This statement was made by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, last night in making a motion to discharge the Law and Order Committee from consideration of the bill. The committee, since the bill was introduced February 4, has absolutely refused to grant a hearing.

The Steedle motion to discharge the committee was swamped, the vote against it being 152 to 26. Opponents were aided by the attitude of Speaker Aaron B. Hess, of Lancaster, who, in spite of the protests of Representatives Robert S. Spangler, York, and M. A. Musmanno, Allegheny, ruled that the merits of the Wettach bill could not be discussed.

ALLEGHENY FOR DISCHARGE

Seated in the aisle near Mrs. Ella C. Adams, chairman of the Law and Order Committee, when the vote was taken, were Dr. Homer B. Tope, of the Anti-Saloon League, and Dr. T. T. Mutchler, of the Lord's Day Alliance. The only surprise came when the majority of the members of the Vare organizaton in Philadelphia delivered votes for the blue laws.

The Allegheny County delegation voted 14 to 9 to discharge the committee, with four absent. Voting to discharge the committee were Dietrich, Dunn, Grenet, Hoffman, Lynch, Marcus, McCann, Michel, Muldowney, Musmanno, Purucker, Stadtlander, Steedle and James A. Wettach, sponsor of the bill. Against the Steedle motion were Baldridge, Goehring, Davidson, Grimes, Hagmaier, McClure, Rhodes, Riddle and Storer. The absentees were Bell, Howe, Soffel and Sullivan.

CITES FISHER STAND

"I realize to the utmost that this procedure is not readily digested by the members," said Steedle, explaining his motion. "This bill before introduction was placed was in the hands of the Governor. He read it and informed the committee sponsoring it that if the House and Senate passed it, it would be the only one of the many laws seeking to modify the blue laws that he would sign. It was introduced February 4. I regret to have to say that the chairman of the committee has been anything but courteous to the members of the committee and citizens who called upon her and asked for a public hearing. She turned a deaf ear to that plea."

An effort on the part of Dr. Steedle to explain the Wettach bill was blocked by the speaker on a point raised by representative Philip Sterling of Philadelphia, Vare organization lieutenant, that he was out of order. The ruling was contested by Spangler and Musmanno, but Hess, an avowed supporter of the blue laws, refused to change.

Reunion of Carol, Boy King Expected

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 9.—(AP.)—There were reports in reliable circles today that King Michael would go to Bled, Jugo-Slavia, summer home of King Alexander, in July to meet his father, Carol, who is residing in France. Recently Carol was reconciled with his mother, Queen Marie.

Liner's Mud Bath Will Cost $25,000

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—A bill for one mud bath is expected to run around $25,000. That's the cost of getting the liner Paris off harbor flats. The sum represents the hire of tugs and barges, cost of pumping oil and water, extra fuel, extra food for 1,000 passengers and crew.

300 DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO GREET COPELAND HERE

Three hundred women of Pittsburgh, members of the Jefferson Democratic Club and hundreds of others interested in the revival of Jeffersonian democracy, will play hostess to Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, noted statesman, physician and writer.

Hostess

MRS. ANNE E. FELIX

Mrs. Felix, chairman of arrangements for the Jefferson Democratic club, women's organization, for the dinner to be given Saturday night at which the club will play host to Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Senator Copeland, a staff writer of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be the principal speaker at the first annual dinner of the club, to be held Saturday night in the Roosevelt Hotel. The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Mrs. Anne E. Felix is chairman of the committee on arrangement. Miss Frances Langfitt is president of the organization.

In addition to the women Democrats, many men leaders in the county will attend. The affair is sponsored by members of the board, and Miss Langfitt, Mrs. Felix, other officers including Miss Susan Schief, Mrs. Louis Walsh, Mrs. Rose McGarvey, Miss Stella Anstead, Mrs. Charles Weideman, and others.

Senator Copeland is well known for his humanitarian writings on medical subjects, and his informative column, "How to Keep Well," has been published in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph since the inception of the newspaper. He is also distinguished in Washington as an outstanding senator.

Too Poor to Own Plane, Says Davis

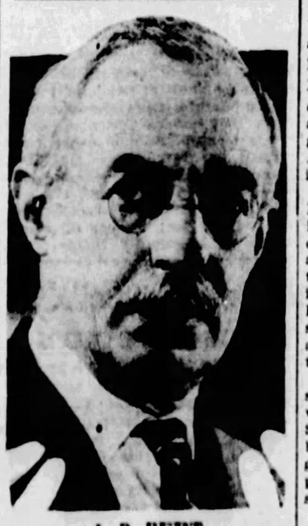
WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Fresh from a week-end flying trip, Secretary Davis of the Labor Department said yesterday that he was prevented from owning a plane only by not being "wealthy enough."

He is a flying enthusiast and was one of the first cabinet officers to use a plane in attending to official duties.

VOTE MACHINE BILL GAINS 'TEETH' BY AMENDMENTS

HARRISBURG, April 9.—(AP.)—Action by the Legislature last night left proponents of better election laws with the voting machine enabler as their mainstay of hope of preventing fraud at the polls.

Speaker



L. D. BERT

Mr. Bert, art chief of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company advertising department, and representative of the largest industrial photographic department in the United States, will speak on methods and systems to the Triangle Photographers' Association at Hotel Roosevelt today.

The Harris bill providing for the optional use of the machines to tabulate the vote was amended on the floor of the House of Representatives to give it more "teeth." The amendments provided some consolation for the action of the Senate Elections Committee several hours earlier in reporting only four bills and killing the backbone of the program of the Pennsylvania Elections Association and other organizations interested in ballot reform.

One of the mendments to the Harris bill prohibits the giving of instruction in the use of the machine after the curtain is drawn and another increases from 600 to 800 the number of voters required for installation of additional machines. Both changes were made at the suggestion of Gov. Fisher and are acknowledged as strengtheners of the bill as reported to the House.

Only two of the measures sponsored by the Elections Association were voted on favorably by the Senate committee. They were the bills of Senator Harris, of Allegheny, to preserve unused ballots at primary elections and to permit inspection of election records.

Among the bills scrapped were those to prevent "chain" voting; to provide central depositories for ballot boxes; to permit appointment of overseers from outside districts; to require workers to sign ballot check lists before voting; to provide permanent registration in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh; to abolish the December assessment and to preserve the unused November election ballots.

Newsboy of 12 Wins Reward For Thrift

Sun-Telegraph Encourages Savings Bank Depositors

To stimulate thrift, the Sun-Telegraph will deposit $25 to the credit of the first bank book in the following list, $20 to the credit of the second, $15 to the credit of the third, $10 each to the credit of the fourth and fifth, and $5 each to the credit of the remainder. If you hold one of these bank books, bring it to the Sun-Telegraph office, Gazette Square, and present it to Robert N. Laughlin, cashier.

Amount.	Name of Bank.	Book No.
$25	Farmers Deposit National Bank	128,000
$20	Mellon National Bank	15,715
$15	First National Bank at Pittsburgh	5,125
$10	Diamond National Bank	44,480
$10	Colonial Trust Company	41,114
$ 5	Peoples Savings & Trust Company	50,334
$ 5	Union National Bank	1,039
$ 5	Pittsburgh Trust Company	8,245
$ 5	Keystone National Bank	4,524

The books designated may be presented during business hours any time within a week, but not later than 5 p. m. Tuesday, April 16.

FIVE years ago, when James Fitzmaurice, Jr., of 7128 Lemington avenue, was 7 years old, a neighbor woman opened a savings account for him in the McGillick Savings & Trust Company with a deposit of $1. He received bank book No. 1,009. James has since added to his savings by depositing part of his profits from the sale of the Sun-Telegraph. And now, to reward him for his thrift, the Sun-Telegraph has deposited $10 to his credit.

JAMES FITZMAURICE

James is but one of hundreds to whom these thrift gifts have been offered as a plan to make the people of the Pittsburgh district think of the importance of saving money. The Sun-Telegraph does not, of course, advocate hoarding money. What this paper does advocate is that all one's money shall not be spent frivolously on things that are not essential to welfare. No one can afford to do that; because sooner or later the time will come when urgent demand will arise for a sum larger than can be provided from the current income, and the only way to meet that demand is to be prudent and save.

H. P. EDISON

"Everybody should have a savings account. We should all be prepared for the rainy day." That is how H. P. Edison, of 1301 Richmond street, phrased it. Mr. Edison has a savings account himself, No. 6,145 in the Duquesne National Bank, and has been rewarded for his thrift with a $5 award.

H. Lamont Schriner, 17, of 43 Perry road, has received a $10 thrift award as holder of passbook No. 1,342 in the Perry State Bank.

SINCLAIR TO BE 'JUST ANOTHER PRISONER'

How Spring Brought Out Blossoms in Only 24 Hours

CONSTANCE CARROLL FINDS PEAR BLOSSOMS IN EARLY SPRING

Miss Carroll, Pittsburgh, motoring along the Kittanning Pike, came across this pear tree, just breaking into blossom and the furthest advanced of all in the orchard.

HELEN FUGH KATHERINE FUGH LILLIS FUGH

And the very next day—24 hours almost to the moment—the three Misses Fugh, in the same orchard find that one of the slower trees, on their father's farm, has broken out as have all the others, with hundreds of blossoms.

Mother's Prayer For Children Closes Will

A benediction for her children concludes the will of Mrs. Kate M. Spear, Baldwin road, Crafton, which was filed for probate today.

"May God guard and keep each one of my dear children in His loving care is the prayer of—mother," the mother wrote in her own hand.

She leaves an estate of $15,000. The income is to be given to her daughter, Irene, during her life. At her death it is to be divided among the other children. They are: Robert, Elizabeth and J. Hall Spear.

The last three are named executors, and are authorized to make any investments believed good for a "long pull."

English Woman Plans Sea Flight

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., April 9.—(INS.)—Mrs. Keith Miller, an Englishwoman, has passed both the written and flying tests for a U. S. pilot's license and contemplates making a round-trip flight from Los Angeles to London, with stops at New York both ways. Her companions, she said, would be Capt. W. N. Lancaster, English pilot, and Capt. Harry Lyon, navigator for the Southern Cross on its successful San Francisco-Australia flight.

Three Firemen Hurt In Aliquippa Blast

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., April 9.—Three borough firemen were hurt when the garage of Louis Cost was damaged by a gasoline explosion yesterday. Edwin Lamb, 29, of 315 Kiehl street; Joseph Yesh, 23, and George Shannon, 30, of 212 Franklin avenue, were treated for cuts and bruises. The blast shattered a display window and the firemen were showered with broken glass. The loss is estimated at $2,500.

Trolley Worker Hurt In Fall from Derrick

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 9.—John Murphy, 43, of South Brownsville, is in the Brownsville Hospital in a serious condition, suffering from a probable broken back and internal injuries suffered when he fell from a high derrick while at work for the Monongahela Railway Company.

RUSH WORK ON PLAYGROUND

Development of Aspinwall's $160,000 playground will be under direction of a commission to be appointed by Burgess L. W. Hagmaier, under a state law.

The burgess is expected soon to announce appointment of this commission. Contracts for grading the tract are expected to be let soon. Acquisition of the ground was authorized by a bond issue jointly assumed by the borough and the school board. Routine business was transacted at the April session of council last night.

Jail Breaker Faces Charge of Murder

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 9.—John M. Gidders, who shot and fatally wounded Police Sergt. William Powell last June, was brought back to Venango County jail today to face arraignment on a charge of murder. Gidders is serving a term of two and a half to five years in the Western Penitentiary for jail breaking and attacking an officer. Powell died about six weeks after Gidders escaped.

Lightning Strikes Well Six Times In One Storm

ROCKLAND, Pa., April 9.—Freak lightning played a vivacious role at a gas well owned by G. I. Hughes here. The contractor, S. J. Ginter, and his assistant, Fred Gates, were engaged in cleaning the well during the storm.

A bolt of lightning struck in the derrick and for a moment there seemed to be dancing fire around the hole. A few minutes later a second bolt descended in the derrick. The men decided it was time to quit work and began to pull the tools. Third bolt struck, severing the two-inch cable and the tools dropped to the bottom with 2,000 feet of cable. The men hurriedly left for the boiler room and looked back just as a fourth bolt struck, setting fire to the gas from the well. This was extinguished just in time to be ignited by a fifth bolt. Again put out, a sixth bolt set the gas afire.

De Palma Warned Not to Hold Up Traffic

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP.)—Deputy Sheriff William Klarkowski pursued a cloud of dust down the highway. Never had he seen a cloud of dust move so fast.

Finally the cloud slowed down to 60 miles an hour and the deputy roared alongside.

"You'll get plenty for this," shouted the deputy to Ralph de Palma—for it was indeed he.

"Who, me?" said the motorist. "Why, mister sheriff, I get paid for driving like this. It's my my life work."

"I guess you got a right to speed," said the deputy. "Step along now; don't be blocking traffic."

Charleston Picks Site for Airport

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 9.—City Council has selected an airport site and has directed the city solicitor to open negotiations for its purchase. If prices asked are too high, condemnation proceedings are to be instituted under authority of a recent act of the Legislature giving municipalities the right of eminent domain over land within their borders and adjacent thereto for use as airports. The site selected is a tract on the Midland Trail near St. Albans, known as the West Virginia Rubber Company tract.

State F. O. E. Leader Dies at Initiation

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 9.—(INS.)—Edmund Bevan, clerk of the courts of Luzerne County, former state and local officer of the Eagles and president of the Bevan Piano Company, died suddenly in Detroit today, according to a telegram received here. He was stricken while on a visit, having gone to attend an Eagles' initiation.

300 Chinese Killed In Fire at Pootung

LONDON, April 9.—(INS.)—Three hundred Chinese died today in a tremendous fire at Pootung, according to a dispatch from Shanghai received by the London Times. Pootung is a thickly populated community opposite Shanghai. Among the victims were many women and children.

SUSPECT HELD IN THEFTS

Thomas Horne, 23, of 4133 Murray avenue, was held for court on two robbery charges by Magistrate W. J. Soost, in Frankstown Avenue Police Court today. He suffered a broken jaw in falling on a concrete garage entrance trying to escape from the rear of the home of Mrs. Harry Moses, 5620 Beacon street, the night of February 29, detectives say. He had been in the Pittsburgh Hospital until today. He admitted entering the Moses home and stealing two pocketbooks, containing $28.30 belonging to Katherine Itswanik, employed there. He also admitted, detectives said, entering the home of Mrs. William Fretsche, 2036 Wendover street, and stealing two pocketbooks containing $7.

Elverson's Widow, Grief-Stricken, Dies

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Eleanore Mayo Elverson, 57, widow of Col. James Elverson, Jr., president and publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, died last night in her apartments in the tower of the Elverson Building. Her death was due to pneumonia and a heart condition. Physicians said grief over the death of her husband on January 21 had weakened her. Mrs. Elverson was the daughter of the late Frank Mayo, one of the most distinguished romantic actors of his day, and was herself an actress before her marriage. Her greatest success was in the title role of "Princess Bonnie."

None But News Films To Escape Censors

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 9.—(AP.)—Pared to apply only to news reels, the Aron bill removing jurisdiction of the state motion picture censorship board was reported to the Senate today. The bill as originally introduced eliminated both sound and news reel films from censorship. It was sent back to the committee on exposition affairs after two readings after a number of persons, including Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, flooded the Senate with protests. The committee today amended it and sent it out on the floor.

Hoover Reception Throng Reduced; 536 Greeted

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—In contrast with the 1,775 persons at the White House public reception last Thursday, only 536 yesterday shook President Hoover's hand.

After the large number in Thursday's line, word was sent from the White House to Capitol Hill that members of the House and Senate should limit themselves to sending 10 constituents to the executive mansion with credentials admitting them to the reception.

Of yesterday's crowd more than 200 were members of the Brotherhood of Jewish Congregations, which is meeting here, and 90 were from the glee clubs of Harvard University and Hanover College. These groups were admitted by special arrangement, so that the number who came bringing credentials from Congress actually totaled less than 250.

Sen. Leslie's Record Praised in Senate

HARRISBURG, April 9.—(AP.)—Tribute was paid last night on the floor of the Senate to Senator Max G. Leslie, of Pittsburgh, on the occasion of his sixty-fifth birthday, which he celebrated last Saturday. Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James, who summoned Senator Leslie to the bar of the Senate chamber, said:

"Any man who in 65 years has preserved his reputation as has Mr. Leslie, has achieved a record deserving commendation and praise of his fellow men."

Bootlegger Slain Before Town Hall

COLCHESTER, Ill., April 9.—(AP.)—Kelly Wagle, 55, reputed bootlegger, was shot to death last night in front of the City Hall.

The victim was driving along the street when a second machine pulled up alongside and the occupants opened fire with shotguns. The assassins escaped. Police immediately began a search for Joseph Moon, said to have been a rival of the slain man for the local liquor trade.

JAIL FAVORS NOT FOR OIL MAGNATE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—From a 40-room house to an 8x10 brick cigar box with a single barred window.

That's the astonishing transition facing Harry F. Sinclair, multimillionaire oil magnate, sentenced to serve 30 days in the District of Columbia jail.

All through the lower and intermediate courts his trial for contempt of the Senate Teapot Dome oil investigating committee has been fought and his conviction finally upheld by the last and highest tribunal, the United States Supreme Court.

TUNE WILL CHANGE

And now, unless his famous "million-dollar defense" can perform a legal miracle, the man who listened nightly to the cream of Broadway's lilting melodies and slept on downy pillows will get what sleep he can on a canvas cot to the croon of "I'se in the Jailhouse Now," as rendered variously by his fellow prisoners.

There'll be no special preparation for Harry Sinclair at 200 Nineteenth street, S. E., where the big red jail stands. It has received many prisoners. It expects the oil magnate in two weeks or a month, depending on whether his counsel elects to delay matters 25 days by making a seemingly futile appeal. Sinclair will be "just another prisoner," according to W. L. Peak, jail chief. He'll have a number, somewhere near the 10,000 mark.

JUST ANOTHER PRISONER

And as "just another prisoner," the millionaire oil man will endure a tedious routine accorded black and white alike.

When he is committed his finger prints will be taken, he'll be searched and washed. Then he'll be assigned a cell, not alone, for the jail is crowded. His cellmates may be bank robbers, bootleggers, almost anything. He will be placed in a cell with two or more white male inmates of approximately his own age. That's as far as segregation goes.

His famous racehorses, Zev and others, fare better than will their master, once he reaches the district jailhouse.

COVERS OTHER CASES

In senatorial opinion, the court's decision will stand as a guidepost in the contempt case against Thomas W. Cunningham, a Philadelphia Vare leader, who defied the Reed slush fund committee. Cunningham's case has been appealed to the Supreme Court on contentions similar to those raised by Sinclair.

The broad scope of senatorial investigations was authorized by the high court in these words: "Undoubtedly the Senate had power to delegate authority to its committee to investigate and report what had and was being done by executive departments under the leasing act, the naval oil reserve act and the President's order in respect to the reserves and to make any other inquiry concerning the public domain."

Congressional leaders pointed out that this ruling would apply to almost any inquiry within reason by merely substituting some other word for "leasing." It could apply as well to "prohibition" act or "interstate commerce" act.

De Molay Chapter Holds Installation

Officers will be installed tonight at the regular meeting of the Allegheny Chapter, Order of De Molay, in the Malta Temple, North avenue and Reddour street. The retiring master councilor, William C. Meisinger, will preside. Those to be installed will be: Master councilor, Carrol T. Norris; senior councilor, John Schnaufer; junior councilor, Ray Haggerty. Delegates will be nominated to the annual conclave of the order.

Col. Fournier, Foch's Son-in-Law, Dies

PARIS, April 9.—(AP.)—Death today for the second time visited the Foch family. Col. Alex Fournier, son-in-law of the late marshal, died after a heart attack similar to that which ended his father-in-law's life. Because of his illness Col. Fournier had been unable to be at the marshal's bedside or to attend the funeral.

FISHER URGES HEALTH CARE

HARRISBURG, April 9.—(AP.)—Enlargement of activities for the preservation of child life was urged today by Gov. Fisher in his annual May Day statement.

May 1 has been designated as May Day-Child Health Day and the sixth annual observance this year is occasion for gratification on the part of the Governor for the improvement in child health which has been noted in that period.

"Each year," he said, "now witnesses definite progress in health matters in this commonwealth. Last year saw a still further reduction in deaths from typhoid fever, tuberculosis, respiratory diseases, enteric affections and acute contagian and notably among the latter diseases, diphtheria and scarlet fever. Especially should attention be called to a distinct drop in the maternal death rate.

"There also were in the last year many more defect corrections in school children than in any previous year."

JEFFERSON TAX APPEAL ARGUED

An appeal of taxpayers in the school district of Sykesville Borough from the judgment and decree of the Jefferson County Court was argued before the Superior Court of Pennsylvania in session here. Owing to the illness of President Judge J. J. Porter, the court is presided over by Judge Frank M. Trexler, of Allentown.

Other cases argued were: Solar Electric Company against the Borough of Brookville, an appeal from the decree of the Jefferson County Court refusing a permit to the electric company; appeal of Clarion River Power Company and Utilities Mutual Fire Insurance Company from decree of Clarion County Court, involving personal injury to William R. Tomlinson; appeal from the decree of the Court of Common Pleas of Erie County in estate of E. W. Constable, deceased, and Truman O. Andrews, surviving executor.

Three Little Girls Take Honors, One for Greatest Height, as School Youngsters Compete With Kites

ASSEMBLING KITES FOR SCHOOL'S FLYING CONTEST

Children of the Community School, 2009 Wendover street, in Schenley Park assembling their many kites for the school's annual kite-flying contest. J. S. Tippett conducted the event and more than 60 children competed.

BETTY COOPER

Betty, 11, Kingsley House; Elizabeth, 10, 5257 Bryn Mawr road, won prizes for having entered the prettiest kites and

FRED MEYERS

Fred, 11, 5502 Raleigh street, won a prize for having the most original kite, made in the form of a woman.

YOUNGSTERS PUTTING THEIR KITES INTO THE WIND

The "field" putting its kites into the wind. And elders helped, too despite the confusion of strings, kites and tails. Frances Sunstein, 6, 5506 Aylesboro avenue, third little girl winner, took the honors for sailing her kite to 900 feet.

COOLIDGE COSMOPOLITAN ARTICLES HIGHLY PRAISED

Under the caption "The Press," the weekly news magazine Time, in its issue of April 8, published the following comment comparing the two Coolidge articles recently presented in popular magazines. It is interesting to note Time's reaction on the fine, intimate story of the ex-president, published in Cosmopolitan Magazine. Time says:

"About Calvin Coolidge's name last week swirled the names of two great publishers and two editors. Mr. Coolidge was, as usual, impassively the center. He was the author. His job had been to write a story for each editor. He did, and each paid him well.

FIRST ARTICLE DYNAMIC

"Of the editors, one was stocky Ray Long whose April Cosmopolitan appeared early in March galvanized by a Coolidge-penned story, swift, personal, moving. The other was Loring Ashley Schuler, whose April Ladies' Home Journal also carrying a Coolidge-penned story appeared only last week. The Schuler-Coolidge story was, of course, dulled because antedated by the Long-Coolidge story. But what really killed the Schuler story was Author Coolidge himself. In the Cosmopolitan he was dynamic, in the Ladies' Home Journal he was tedious, general, rambling.

"But behind the two editors loomed the two great publishers, dictators of policies and style. One was William Randolph Hearst, whose correspondents constantly supply him with expensive but Startling Scoops (*) whose vital pungency has won him more millions of daily readers than any other individual publisher can boast. The other was Cyrus Hermann Kotzschmar Curtis, the white-bearded little 'man from Maine' whose Saturday Evening Post and Ladies' Home Journal are as essentially sound and quiet as the Maine homes into one of which publisher Curtis was born. Last week, had publisher Hearst seen publisher Curtis, he might well have been patronizing. The Hearst editor had won the most exciting journalistic race of the year, although the field was publisher Curtis' magazines.

FITS PROSE TO MEDIUM

"But keen readers of both stories last week were inclined to give Author Coolidge credit for fitting his prose to his medium. For Cosmopolitan readers the Coolidge pen had raced intimately. For Ladies' Home Journal readers it had dealt ponderously with peace, defense, good government. Publisher Curtis might have felt last week that he, like William Randolph Hearst, had gotten just what he wanted for his readers.

BOYS PLAY WITH GUN, 1 DEAD

FREEPORT, Pa., April 9.—Eight-year-old Dell Brown is dead today, victim of an "unloaded" rifle in the hands of his brother, Cleighton, 16, junior and cheer leader of Freeport High School.

The two brothers were playing with the .22-caliber rifle last night in the kitchen of their home. Coroner A. C. Dorsch learned. Cleighton had snapped the trigger 15 times, he said, and it missed fire every time until he began wrestling with his brother with the gun in his hand. The weapon was discharged, the bullet entering Dell's chest and striking the right side of his heart. He died within half an hour.

Mrs. Earl Brown, mother of the boys, was upstairs at the time. The father was at work. Coroner Dorsch returned a verdict of accidental shooting.

FREIGHT WRECK DAMAGES RAILS

MONONGAHELA, Pa., April 9.—Wreck crews of the Pennsylvania Railroad at noon today were completing repairs to a quarter-mile of double track torn up last night when 14 freight cars piled up in the yards near the passenger station here.

Nobody was hurt and no interference to traffic resulted, according to railroad officials.

The cars, attached to a special freight train from Uniontown to Pittsburgh, jammed just south of the passenger station when one of the cars left the rails from an undetermined cause. Passenger trains were rerouted through the yards.

Council to Consider Bills for New Jobs

Ordinances creating six new jobs will be considered today by Council in finance committee. The controller's office has requested authority to employ five bookkeeping machine operators at annual salaries of $1,416, $1,500, $1,560, $1,620 and 1,680. The department of law has requested authority to employ a counter clerk at $1,800.

House Passes Bill For Big Pitt Fund

HARRISBURG, April 9.—The House today passed finally a bill to appropriate $1,200,000 to the University of Pittsburgh. The bill was presented by Representative Muldowney, of the Third Allegheny District. The money carried in the bill is for the biennium starting June 1. It now goes to the Senate for concurrence.

Gondolas Ordered by Erie

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 9.—The Greenville Tank Car Company has received an order for 250 70-ton gondola cars from the Erie Railroad Company.

Boy River Victim's Body Found on Log

The body of Joseph Koehler, 9, of 3224 Penn avenue, who was drowned while playing along the Allegheny River bank during the flood on February 28, was found today on a log below the Tenth Street railroad bridge.

Identification was made at the morgue by the boy's aunt, Mrs. Bertha Charles, of 4540 Penn avenue. Martin Wolfe, engineer for the Allegheny Wharf Company sighted the body.

PLANE MIRED, CHAMBERLIN PERFORMS AIR "MIRACLE"

MERCER, Pa., April 9.—Taking the air with his Crescent plane from an almost standing position, due to mud in the cornfield in which he landed near here, Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, has written a new chapter in aviation history.

Chamberlin with Teressa Rache, German aviatrix and two mechanics, were flying from New York to Detroit. They left New York at noon yesterday, and were forced down at Fredonia at 4 p. m., due to low hanging clouds that prevented visibility.

With his plane loaded, the weight was one ton. He made two attempts to get off and then unloaded the baggage and occupants, to follow in a car to an airport at Sharon. The taking off is described by those who saw it as a "miracle" in aviation, so deep was his plane in the mud.

The German girl will take part in endurance flight at Detroit.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation to our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

BREAK GROUND FOR ST. CYRIL'S PARISH SCHOOL

Ground has been broken for a new parish school at St. Cyril's Roman Catholic Church, Brighton road and Parriss street. The building will have 10 class rooms, principal's office and an auditorium. The school is expected to be ready for occupancy in September. The Sisters of Mercy will be in charge.

Comes & McMullen, architects, designed the edifice, which will be executed in Romanesque style and Indiana limestone. The interior will be furnished in white oak.

The Rev. B. N. Axmacher, pastor, who organized St. Cyril's parish in 1924, is given the credit for the materialization of this project. The Rev. J. A. Nee is assistant pastor.

DR. DUNCAN UPHOLDS DRY ENFORCEMENT METHODS

Islam Grotto members attended services at Emory Church Sunday at which the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan preached the sermon on "The Perils and Possibilities of Social Life." Dr. Duncan said:

"Social life is a broad term. While we think of it chiefly as applying to gatherings of congenial people for friendly fellowship, there is a broader aspect. Community life, public sentiment and democracy are all involved. What people think collectively and the way they act in a community is of vital importance. The chief agencies for the promotion of this type of life are social organizations like yours, the church and the newspapers.

MOULDING SENTIMENT

"The public press moulds our community life and creates public sentiment to a degree almost incalculable. The large degree of accuracy in news items leads us to believe all we see in the papers. The headlines create an abiding impression. Many people read books, but the vast majority read only the newspapers. This majority constitutes the social life of the community.

"Now the problem is to persuade these community-moulding agencies to realize their moral responsibility. These newspapers in Pittsburgh are setting the mental and moral fashions for a million people every day. These newspapers are controlled by non-resident individuals or groups. What William Randolph Hearst, Paul Block and the Scripps-Howard group think and feel morally becomes to an amazing extent the thought and feeling of a million people in the Pittsburgh district. Some of the finest men in Pittsburgh are on the local staff of these papers, but they are largely powerless.

"SLAUGHTER" DENIED

"When yesterday and the day before a million people read of the terrible 'killings' to enforce prohibition the community impression was that in the effort to enforce prohibition we were slaughtering our people by the wholesale. Yet the facts, some of which were published in small type, show that only 15 persons a year on the average were killed in the enforcement of the law, and that last year only 10 persons, the smallest number in nine years, were killed. This out of a population of one hundred millions is simply nothing at all statistically. Every life, of course, is precious, but when armed criminals in plain violation of law attack government officials and lose their lives in such small numbers it is perfectly unfair to feed the community on the impression that decent citizens are being slaughtered through the influence of a fanatical law. This is not news, it is propaganda.

"This obstinate refusal of the city newspapers to play fair with moral reform is bringing a reaction. Even in New York City the decent people are contemplating the establishment of a different kind of newspaper. In Pittsburgh there is an aroused sentiment. A leader of local thought recently said to me, 'I do not find anybody who is strong for the policy of our city papers.' The Christian Science Monitor, which has a different policy, is swelling its large circulation and to it many in all cities are turning for relief. When public sentiment such as the Grotto and other social organizations can create is aroused, it is almost omnipotent."

Seek Bigger Pension For Funston Widow

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—(AP.)—Veterans of the Foreign Wars yesterday started a drive to obtain an "adequate pension" for the widow and children of Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston, who died here in 1917, leaving a small estate.

The veterans' organization petitioned the state legislature and the city government to pass resolutions asking Congress to increase the $100 pension now paid Mrs. Eda Funston, widow of the conqueror of Aguinaldo.

Border Bar Raised To Canada Workers

DETROIT, April 9.—(AP.)—Six hundred Canadian commuters will be barred immediately from crossing the border to work in Detroit, John L. Zurbrick, United States district director of immigration, announced today.

Zurbrick's declaration that the border crossing law will be enforced in its entirety followed the Supreme Court's ruling yesterday that British subjects, residing in Canada, cannot cross daily to work in the United States without an immigration visa issued under the quota.

SAWMILL RUN BLVD. BILLS IN COUNCIL

Extensions to Saw Mill Run boulevard are provided in legislation presented to Council authorizing the improvement of Woodruff street from Kearsarge street to Woodville avenue.

One ordinance relocates Saw Mill Run in the Nineteenth and Twentieth wards between the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway and Sharlersville. Another authorizes the widening of Woodruff street between Kearsarge and Grace streets on the east and a point near the line dividing the Nineteenth and Twentieth wards.

A third measure provides for the opening of Woodruff street in the Twentieth Ward from a point near the line dividing the Nineteenth and Twentieth wards to Wilmerding street. A fourth ordinance provides for the widening of Woodruff street, Twentieth Ward, from Wilmerding street to Woodville avenue.

Property damages for the project were estimated at $107,000. No estimate of the physical work has been submitted.

North Side Man Held After Family Battle

Max Bertram, 43, was beating his wife with the butt end of a revolver in their home at 418 East Lacock street when their attractive daughter, Virginia, 16, interrupted the argument by settling a vase against her father's head, it was testified in Morals Court today. Virginia's sister, Mrs. May Cox, 19, called police. Mrs. Bertram, at Allegheny General Hospital, required four stitches; her husband needed one. Magistrate A. D. Brandon held Bertram for investigation.

Well Strikes Gas In 30-Foot Sand

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 9.—Gas was struck in the 30-foot sand at a well drilled on the Max Plants farm, three miles south of Claysville, by the Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, the production being reported as 500,000 cubic feet daily. Oil in the fourth sand was expected, the striking of gas coming as a surprise. Numerous leases in the district are being optioned.

PENNSY TO RUN CRACK TRAINS HOUR EARLIER

A number of fast trains operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad between Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other cities will be scheduled an hour earlier with the resumption of daylight saving time, April 28, company officials announced today. Local train schedules will also be rearranged.

For the first time since daylight saving has been adopted, the Broadway Limited's schedule will be advanced one hour in departure and arrival. The Quaker City Express, leaving Pittsburgh at 3:10 p. m., will be made a through New York and Boston train, and is to be known as The New Englander. It will leave Pittsburgh at the same time as at present and arrive at Boston at 8 a. m., Eastern standard time.

Other important changes will be made in the schedule of both through and local train service, it was announced.

Equitable Announces Personnel Changes

Changes in the personnel of officials of the Equitable Sales Company were announced today by George E. Whitwell, manager of sales and service of the Philadelphia Company. Robert E. Polk was appointed general manager of the sales company and manager of retail appliance sales of the Equitable Gas Company and the Duquesne Light Company; George W. Ousler, manager of rates and retail service, and G. A. Gardner, manager of sales engineering. Harvey A. Keys, who resigned as vice president of the Equitable Sales Company to assume a new post with the Bylesby Company, has left for Chicago.

Woman in Dry Case Fined and Paroled

Mrs. Sarah Carsinelli, a Penn avenue restaurant proprietor, pleaded guilty before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court to violating the prohibition law and was fined $200 and paroled for one year. Carl Caputo, of Rankin, saloonkeeper, was sentenced to two months in jail. Others pleading guilty to violating the liquor law were fined as follows: Samuel Greenberg, Frank Tassoni and Paul Berman, $500 each; Joseph Soupak, $400; Alfred G. Lehman, Jr., and Joseph Haser, $300 each, and Samuel Moore, $100.

NATURE Is Waking Up

The long winter sleep is about over and soon everything will be clothed in green. The cherry, peach, flowering crab-apple and lilac buds are bursting. The lovely Virginia bluebells and yellow doronicum are showing their heads. Peonies are popping up. Rosebushes, that but a few weeks ago appeared only so much dead wood, are responding to Nature's call. This is the time to begin using Fulton's PLANTABBS, odorless plant food tablets, on all garden planting. Why not get one of the large cans for $3.50, a season's supply for the moderate sized garden. No garden fertilizer is as economical as PLANTABBS when bought in this size. Other sizes $1.00, 50c and 25c at all dealers. If yours cannot supply, postpaid from Plant Products Co., Baltimore, Md.

Hats With Dignity

Yet Youthful in Effect

The Horne Millinery Salons consider well the woman who carries her years with dignity, whose social position and affluence give her certain standards of dress, but who, withal, wishes to appear as youthful as is consistent ... The hat pictured is typical of her demands.

A Paris reproduction of a Maria et Andree model, of black baku trimmed with small, white gardenias. $35.

Guinea-Hen Dots

Featured in Dress-Ensembles

Something refreshing in the vogue of dots. Dainty, white guinea-hen dots on black or navy, in the frocks of these Tailor-Type dress-ensembles, which have plain silk crepe seven-eighths coats.

Jacquard dotted silks, used in the same way, are also new. They have dots in the same shade as the background of the silk (black or navy), alternating with white dots, to produce a very smart effect.

The frocks and their accompanying coats, bear the label "Man Tailored," and they do in every way conform to the tradition of Horne Tailor-Types.

Eggshell Color Blouses

Eggshell has become the popular accompaniment for dark colors, so eggshell blouses are much demanded for ensembles.

In its different gradations, eggshell is to be had in blouses of flat crepe, crepe de chine and satin. Tailored, semi-tailored and rather dressy models, at many prices ranging from $4.95 to $16.75.

New Pedemode Shoes for the Tailleur

Trimmed With Reptile Leathers

A three-eyelet oxford of snakeskin with heel and toe of tan calf, accented with large perforations. Medium leather heel. $18.50.

A sports tie of natural elk with saddle of brown lizard. A moccasin effect on the vamp is unusual. $14.50.

A pump of snakeskin with heel, toe and banding of tan calf. Made with high leather heel. $18.50.

Rich Spring Coats

Women's and Misses'

Pictured:

A miss' individual model of rich, dull-surfaced cloth in black, with collar of white ermine. A beautiful coat for afternoon wear.

The above sketch typifies the fineness and chic of the coats offered at this price, in the women's and misses' sections.

For Women:

Coats of smooth-surfaced and mesh weaves, many in black, some also in the dark blues and in light shades . . . Trimmed with galyak, monkey, American broadtail and squirrel.

For Misses:

Striking black and dark blue coats trimmed with white caracul and ermine, coats trimmed with shaded broadtail, black caracul, and sleek, gray American broadtail. Some of them are individual models.

Daytime Dresses and Dress-Ensembles

$19.75

Here is a group which has variety, popular style appeal and moderate price, to recommend it.

Fluffy, floating printed chiffon frocks, made over firm silk crepe slips which extend to the neckline so one does not have to worry about shoulder straps—

Frocks of solid-color georgette crepe in light and dark shades, including lace-trimmed ones dressy enough for evening bridge—

Dress-ensembles with three-quarters length coats of navy blue silk crepe, and long-sleeved printed silk frocks, suited to street wear and business.

AID OF MELLON INSTITUTE CREDITED FOR 391 PATENTS

Industrial research at Mellon Institute has resulted in developments and discoveries now covered by 391 patents, it was revealed in the annual report of the institution, which was founded 17 years ago. Success in solving industrial problems is further evidenced by other contributions to the scientific world, including 15 books, 89 bulletins, 471 research reports and 898 other articles.

At the close of 1928, a total of 62 problems were under investigation at the institute. Last year, according to Edward R. Weidlein, director, especially noteworthy accomplishments were made in the fields of fertilizers, organic solvents and resins, molded paper articles, insecticides, foods, chrome plating, ceramic products, insulation, kiln studies and vitreous enamel.

Contributions to the institute for fellowships totaled $800,083, an increase of $98,399 over last year. A total of 175 scientists have been assigned to fellowship problems.

Weather Conditions.

Low barometric pressure is dominating the weather over much the greater portion of the country this morning. As a result, the skies are overcast, and it is raining or snowing over large areas. The principal rain belt extends from the head of the Ohio valley down the Ohio to Western Missouri, and southward over the lower Mississippi Valley states to the Gulf. Snowfall was heavy in Utah, Idaho and Western Montana.

The principal low pressure area is centered over Western Colorado. Low pressure extends southeastward from Colorado to Texas, thence northeastward to the Middle Atlantic coast. A high pressure area is centered over Canada north of the Dakotas and Minnesota, and covers the entire northern plains and upper Mississippi Valley section. It is causing cold weather near its center, and cool weather eastward over the Ohio Valley states to the mountains. There is no freezing weather except in the Canadian Border states and the Rocky Mountain states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling at a moderate rate, about 1.5 feet in 24 hours. Stage at Franklin is 7.0 feet; Lock No. 7, 12.4; Pittsburgh, 16.4; Dam No. 2, 8.4; Dam No. 6, 16.3; Dam No. 9, 16.8, and Dam No. 12, 16.8 feet.

Allegheny Dragged For Suicide's Body

The Allegheny River, near Aemetonia, was being dragged today for the body of Thomas Curry, 50, who walked into the stream and was drowned Saturday while his mother looked on from a window of the home near the river bank. Springdale authorities who investigated the incident said Curry had been in ill health.

Grove City Seeks Cut in Light Rates

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 9.—A reduction in electric light rates has been asked by the Merchants' Association. Council will take action on the matter.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO BOY

James McRoberts, 9, of 5004 Natrona way, died last night in St. Margaret's Hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when he and Robert Hahn, 7, of 5400 Carnegie avenue, were struck by an automobile, while playing marbles in Fifty-second street.

The boys were playing on the sidewalk when an automobile driven, police said, by Mary Walsh, of 5309 Carnegie avenue, ran onto the sidewalk and struck them. Hahn sustained lacerations and bruises. The Walsh woman was turned over to the coroner, police reported.

Fright Spoils Plan to Outwit Thief

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP.)—Thomas Veldman, a real estate broker, hit on what he thought a brilliant scheme for outwitting a robber here, but it failed miserably for lack of co-operation.

An armed Negro entered his office and ordered Veldman to open the safe he reported to police. At this point a customer arrived and the Negro, concealing the gun, ordered his victim to wait on the client. During the progress of the transaction Veldman said he managed to slip the customer a note on which he had penciled:

"I am being held up."

The customer read the note, paled and then made a wild dash for the street. He has not been seen or heard from since.

Veldman was forced to hand over the contents of the safe—$650.

Blacked His Eye, Husband Says In Suit

Having blackened his left optic when she struck him in the eye, threw his clothes out of the house and threatened to kill him, Joseph McVay, 636 Hazelwood avenue, wants a divorce from Mabel S. McVay, Maple avenue, Dravosburg.

The husband says in a bill of particulars filed in court and demanded by his wife, that the wife ill treated him, he charging her with cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in 1926. October 6, 1928 is the date he gives that she ordered him out of the house in Dravosburg.

Goodbye dandruff goodbye itching

If your scalp burns and itches, your hair comes out and you have loose dandruff, give Listerine a trial. If you do not see improvement in ten days you will be an exception. Just douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously. Keep the treatment up systematically. Note how it cleans and heals the scalp, and gets rid of those telltale flakes.

Dandruff, as you know, is caused by germs. And Listerine, safe and healing in effect, is active against germs. Even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs—200,000,000 of them are killed in 15 seconds.

We are prepared to prove this to the entire satisfaction of the medical profession and the U. S. Government. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT 'DRUNK WITH POWER,' SAYS SNOOK

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—(INS.)—Declaring Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general to be "drunk with power," John W. Snook, until recently warden of Atlanta Penitentiary, today made a scathing denunciation of her spy system as a menace to the American system of government and a "disgrace" to the nation.

"She has income tax, prohibition and Federal penitentiary departments to handle, and that is more than any single person can handle. Nothing short of congressional action can curb her wholesale flouting of justice," declared Snook.

Speaking of his recent tilt with Mrs. Willebrandt over her spy system, which caused him to resign as warden of the Federal prison, Snook said:

"I have sacrificed my position for a principle, and consider it was worth while to do so.

"It may seem ungracious to quarrel with a woman, but there are times in the affairs of a nation when wrongs must be righted regardless of sex. I feel that such a time has arrived to expose Mrs. Willebrandt and her policy."

PORTER URGES UNIFIED 'DOPE' CONTROL

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Consolidation of Federal narcotics administrative and enforcement agencies under one responsible head has been advocated by Representative Porter (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The present disjointed system, he believes, leads to abuses and hampers vigorous enforcement.

Three executive departments and two bureaus now are charged with administration of the various anti-drug laws. The Secretaries of State, Treasury and Commerce constitute the Federal narcotics control board, which determines the amount of raw opium and coca leaves to be imported legally each year. Dangerous drugs are manufactured from these raw products.

SUBORDINATES RULE

Because of their manifold duties, the secretaries never actually meet to fix the quotas but entrust the allotments to subordinates.

The Federal narcotics division, a branch of the prohibition bureau, and the customs bureau, both in the Treasury Department, divide enforcement work between them.

"It is time we stop making a stepchild of narcotic enforcement," said Porter yesterday in advocating the change.

In this connection it was pointed out that the Federal government had spent nearly $300,000,000 to uphold prohibition, while doling out but $1,200,000 annually for narcotic enforcement.

MENACE GRAVE

"It is like trying to operate a windmill with a puff of air," Porter said. "No graver menace confronts us than drug addiction. Criminals under the influence of insidious drugs commit crimes which cost the nation no less than $1,000,000,000 annually. The figure has been estimated as high as $3,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 each year.

"And yet we have no independent narcotic bureau to handle all angles of enforcement, and we spend but a trifling sum in the effort to smash this evil.

"We already load too much work on cabinet secretaries. Their burdens are so heavy they cannot devote the required attention to fixing opium imports.

FOR UNITY

"All the agencies which now are charged with the enforcement should be grouped under a single head to obtain the best results. Responsibility should not be divided. No industrial concern could survive if the important administrative functions were shifted to several lesser officials. One person is made responsible. The same procedure should be followed in enforcing the narcotic laws.

"Eternal vigilance, aggressiveness, executive skill and co-ordination are needed to break up the dope traffic."

Porter plans to lay his reorganization program both before President Hoover's law enforcement commission and Congress.

Aged Father Beaten, Paroled Man Taken

FARRELL, Pa., April 9.—Because he beat up his aged father at Steubenville, O., and broke his parole, it is charged, John Davis, convicted of manslaughter in New York six years ago, has been returned to that state. He was arrested here.

PLEA DENIED, CAUFFIEL UP FOR SENTENCE TOMORROW

EBENSBURG, Pa., April 9.—Mayor Joseph Cauffiel, of Johnstown, convicted at March criminal court on six indictments, was denied a new trial in an opinion handed down by President Judge John E. Evans here yesterday. Cauffiel was ordered to appear in court here tomorrow for sentence.

Cauffiel has been at liberty under $8,000 bail following his conviction on charges of extortion, conspiracy, perjury, misdemeanor in office and violations of the gambling laws.

It is understood that his counsel will take an appeal to the State Superior Court as the next move.

Johathan Rager, of Johnstown, indicted with the mayor on the gambling charge, pleaded guilty and testified for the state at Cauffiel's trial. He said on the stand that he had paid money for protection of his gambling interests.

Rager is recovering at his Johnstown home from bullet wounds suffered several weeks ago when he was fired upon while seated in a sun parlor of his residence.

Wilkins in Chicago; Flying to Detroit

CHICAGO, April 9.—Sir Hubert Wilkins, leader of the Wilkins-Hearst Polar Expedition, was here for a few hours yesterday awaiting an eastbound plane for Detroit, where he will attend the all-American aircraft show.

Wilkins arrived in a Boeing plane from the coast and was met by W. B. Stout of the Stout airlines. On leaving here for Detroit Wilkins refused to sit in the cabin of the ship with Mr. Stout but climbed into a control seat with Pilot W. E. Larned for the two-hour flight to Detroit.

Just A Touch Of Ice-Mint. PRESTO

Corns Wither and Lift Out With Fingers. No Pain.

Corn sufferers, gather round; get right up close and listen, here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug. Ice-Mint, the new discovery made from a Japanese product, is said to surely and quickly end all foot misery. Think of it: only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It's wonderful.

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day.

Try it. Just ask in any drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing like it.

MR. COOLIDGE in Part Two of His OWN STORY tells

Why he did not Choose to Run

WHAT he did to Stop his Nomination at Kansas City—

WHY he did not say he would refuse the nomination if it were tendered to him—

WHY he did not declare for Hoover before the Convention—

WHY he believes no man should be President for more than two terms—

You May Obtain Part One of the Coolidge Story in Reprint Form

There has been no magazine feature in our time which attracted such universal attention as has Mr. Coolidge's fine human story. Many persons eager to read the document were unable to do so because April Cosmopolitan was swept from the newsstands almost overnight.

Mr. Coolidge naturally desires that all who want to read his story of the Presidency should have the opportunity.

Rather than disappoint friends and readers, we have reprinted Part One in pamphlet form and you may have a copy for the asking.

Address Cosmopolitan Magazine, 57th St. at 8th Ave., New York City. (Please inclose 4 cents in stamps for postage on each copy desired.)

THESE are important revelations; important to you and to every member of your family. As Mr. Coolidge tells them in May Cosmopolitan, they are not only important but thrillingly interesting. For this second installment of his story is as humanly written as was his opening chapter in April Cosmopolitan.

It is, as Ray Long says, one of the great human documents of our time. Mr. Coolidge deals with events of great importance in a manner so direct that at times it is almost breath-taking.

For instance, you find that he believes no man can be President for eight years without having his head swelled by the constant adulation with which he is surrounded, and that is his common-sense reason against a third term.

His story is alive with similar human, down-to-the-ground observations. Mr. Coolidge is an American writing to Americans in the clearest American they've ever had the opportunity to read.

We advise you to buy your copy of May Cosmopolitan today—there won't be enough by many thousands to supply the demand.

As you buy your May issue, place an order for the June issue, in which Mr. Coolidge begins "The Scenes of My Childhood," the real story of a real boy who didn't dream he was destined to be President.

RADIO TO BRING DIVORCE REPLIES FROM BYRD PARTY

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—(AP.)—Testimony in the divorce suit filed here by a member of the Byrd South Pole Expedition will be taken by wireless from New Zealand, a distance of more than 10,000 miles, it was learned yesterday.

The plaintiff is Gustav L. Brown, master of Commander Byrd's supply ship Eleanor Bolling, whose home is in this city. His wife is Mrs. Vesta Jenna Brown. Suit was filed last June and subsequently Capt. Brown sailed with the Byrd expedition.

Harry T. Bauerle, appointed master to take testimony and report his findings to the court, was unable to proceed without Brown's testimony. He consulted Judge Finletter and asked permission to question Brown by wireless since that it was the only way to reach him.

CROSSING PLEA NOT YET FILED

Residents of Groveton today had 11 days left to appeal from the Public Service Commission's decision which closed the Ivanhoe Crossing of the Montour Railroad and added a mile to the distance they must travel to Coraopolis, their chief business center. H. B. Hirsh, counsel here for the commission, said no notice of action had been given.

When the crossing was closed, Groveton residents held mass meetings, and vigorously protested against the step. The commission held the crossing was hazardous and ordered use of a route to Coraopolis by way of the new Fleming Park boulevard.

Girl Hurt Seriously By Stray Bullet

RIDGWAY, Pa., April 9.—A stray bullet seriously injured Amelia Dorodzoski, 12, of Johnsonburg. The girl was playing on the porch at her home when suddenly she fell screaming. Her parents found the bullet wound in the child's chest. The girl was taken to the Ridgway Hospital. It is supposed that the bullet was fired by boys in the woods nearby.

Charleroi Man Falls Into River, Drowns

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 9.—Falling into the river from a small boat near Second street yesterday, William Cagney, 56, of 631 McKean avenue, track foreman of the West Side Street Railways Company, drowned. His body was discovered by two boys who were walking along the shore.

May Beegle brought her concert season to a brilliant close last night in Syria Mosque with a recital by Rosa Ponselle, to whom the musical world now concedes the greatest contemporary soprano voice.

It is two years since this soprano has appeared in Pittsburgh. In that time she created the loveliest and most trying soprano role in the Italian operatic repertory, "Norma." Now in her singing are the signs of that accomplishment. In the voice are spontaneity, warmth, infinite color; the scale is purity itself, rich and golden in the lower range, of vibrant beauty as it ascends. And Ponselle pours it out in a generous stream that can claim unrestricted praise.

Her operatic airs are appealing enough as pure bel canto, but she must add dramatic touches, the heritage of her ancestors, which all the more enhance their effectiveness. As an encore came the "Habanera" from "Carmen," and we may safely say, that since Calve, no other voice has had the legitimate qualities to deliver that taunting song.

The lighter songs were most agreeable. The favorite "Amarilli" was the most exquisite example of legato singing heard in a long while. In Wagner's "Traume" we had a sample of how this voice might enrapture us if Ponselle dared risk singing the "Isolde." Her brightest good humor made Leo Blech's "Heinie" a delightful touch. It was among her many encores, as well as Romsky-Korsakoff's "Rose and the Nightingale," as delicate as a dry-point, and Mascagni's impassioned "He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not." At the end of the evening the singer played her own accompaniment to Stephen Foster's "Old Folks at Home," done in the simplest and truest Foster style. Ponselle's voice is the most perfect organ of this singing generation, its quality of the kind that leaves an analyst defenceless.

Stuart Ross, as heretofore, played excellent accompaniments, and contributed two groups for piano solo. His music belongs to classic moulds, though in Percy Grainger's "Hornpipe," and a tone study of Hong Kong in rush hours, which the audience demanded as extras, he showed considerable spirit for the gayer moderns.

Sitting With Play Critics as They Review Shows of Current Week

THERE'S A FRENCH NOBLEMAN MOVES TO MAIN STREET IN "THE BIG POND"

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

THE second week of any stock company furnishes the real test of its possibilities, because there has been ample time for the preparation of the first week, but thereafter the stress of the weekly change of bill begins to make itself felt. George Sharp's Players at the Pitt Theater came bravely through this test last night, when "The Big Pond" opened the second week of the summer season. It is a pleasant comedy by George Middleton and A. E. Thomas—beginning in a Venetian romance, turning into a Main Street farce, and closing with lovers united while business is put to rout.

In one way this comedy breaks with all the traditions of the American stage. There's a foreign nobleman in it who is not a crook or a fool. It hardly seems possible. All the other characters are true to type.

There's the irascible and profane American father, played by Gus A. Forbes in finished style, evoking screams of laughter as he attempts to dictate to the women of the family who wrap him around their little fingers with ease. And there's the American daughter, who wants a thing badly as soon as it is forbidden and begins to want something else as soon as the first desire is granted. Pauline MacLean played this part with real charm and girlish spirit.

LOVERS PLAY BANTAM

The richest comedy is provided by the two lovers—the Frenchman played by Kenneth Daigneau and the American by Hugh Banks. They are ready to fly at each other like bantam cocks under the spur of jealousy. These scenes are the most amusing in the comedy and are done with all the pep and punch required to put the audience into an uproar.

Both men accomplished the difficult task of being funny without being ridiculous. And Mr. Daigneau managed his French phrases without becoming too reminiscent of Oshkosh and Ollendorff.

As a newspaper woman and friend of the family Mabel Kroman had little to do, but did that little with her customary skill. She knows how to make her points, and gets full value out of every comedy line or situation.

SO THIS IS VENICE

There isn't much for the other members of the cast—in fact, Peggy Daugherty has only a passing moment as a stenographer, while Sally Franklin's hardest work is to look stupid as a maid. Alice Ann Baker as the mother is meekly dictatorial, Robert Fiske as an Italian servant appropriately voluble, and Malcolm Hilty as an invisible tenor sounds quite Venetian. But a word or two must be spoken about this Venice.

That opening scene in an Italian palazzo is as lovely a stage setting as any stock production could build. It gets the Venetian atmosphere by some very effective lighting. You feel that the moon is above and the canal beneath the window. All that paint and electricity can do to make you feel like a Cook tourist has been done.

We believe in this Venice much more readily than we believe in the transformation of the French nobleman into an American go-getter, who fills his vest-pocket with lead-pencils and learns his love-lore from Beatrice Fairfax. In fact, a foreigner who isn't a fortune-hunter or a fool somehow doesn't fit into the scheme of things. The dramatists must have slipped up on their technique. Well, they have made a most amusing transatlantic comedy, in which the Sharp Players pass the ordeal of their second week with colors flying.

SEVERAL HITS IN PENN SHOW

Every department of the Penn entertainment forces—screen, stage, orchestra and organ, scores a hit in the program this week. On the screen, William Haines becomes a human being in "The Duke Steps Out," paying the screen fan for his patience while waiting for this star to cease being a smart aleck. He plays the part of a boxer, from Pittsburgh, incidentally, who becomes a college student, in order to win "the girl," the winsome Joan Crawford, has his trainers crazy as a result, but finally wins his big match, and the girl, too. It is an amusing picture with a better boxing match than one would see in a bona fide ring.

DANCER TOP-NOTCHER

The stage show—"Happy-Go-Lucky"—headed by the joyous Teddy Joyce, reveals among its attractions an eccentric dancer who is a real top-notcher. Al Norman is his name, and he need not take a back seat for Buster West, Jim Barton or any other high class comedy stepper. He certainly is headed for one of the big shows. Bobby Agnew, from the movies, sings and dances; the Aubrey Sisters sing and dance, and the three Swifts do their comedy through the medium of Indian clubs.

The orchestra's contribution is an overture for which the stage provides an atmospheric setting of a Swiss mountain scene, in which two singers sing and a shepherd comes whistling down the path with real sheep.

WELL DONE AND LIKED

Dick Leibert's organlogue, "My Dream Train," is a real novelty, topping anything that he has done previously, combining his organ music with motion pictures of a real train, which begins its trip with Dick in the engineer's cab. There is a thrill in its climax.

Belle Bennett Star in Harris

"Molly and Me," a picture of theatrical life, is on the Harris screen for the first three days of this week. It is a sound production and has a number of sequences in dialogue and song. Belle Bennett and Joe E. Brown are featured, Belle playing Molly and Joe, her husband. The two are prominent players on a burlesque wheel, one the "queen of burlesque" and the other the comedian. Then a chance comes to hit Broadway at $1,000 a week. But the opportunity includes only the husband—Molly is left out. And here's where the real story of the piece begins. There are numerous back stage shots, some exciting sequences and quite a few laughs.

Joe E. Brown.

DANCE REVUE SEEN

The vaudeville portion of the bill is headed by a dance revue, presented by about six entertainers, including a man who is clever at the piano and one of those strong boy dancers. Bond and Trent, feminine comediennes, deal out some laughs. Reed and Levere do tap steps, mix comedy and music and wear a couple of flat derbies. A novelty act, organ music and news pictures also are on the bill.

Regent Offers Murder, Talk

"The Canary Murder Case," photoplay of mystery and talk, is current in the Regent. The story has to do with the strangling of a Broadway show girl and the events that lead to the solving of the murder. William Powell is featured as Philo Vance, scientific detective. Louise Brooks and James Hall are in the cast. News pictures are on the bill.

Picture, Acts Sheridan Bill

In the Sheridan Square the screen feature for the first half of the week is "Molly and Me," with Belle Bennett singing for the first time in a picture. The two leading characters of "Molly and Me" are portrayed by Miss Bennett and Joe E. Brown. Stage vaudeville includes James Coughlin and company, in "The Rest Cure," a travesty. Hart and Clark are another comedy team. The Chalfonte Sisters, in singing and dancing, Boyle and Della, in a novelty act, Fox Movietone News and talking comedy films complete the bill.

Dalcroze Eurythmics Recital on Thursday

A demonstration of Delcroze eurythmics by students of the Department of Music of the Carnegie Institute of Technology is announced for Thursday night in the theater of the College of Fine Arts. The presentation will be under the direction of Miss Mary Machair and Miss Susan T. Canfield, of the music department faculty. The Student Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Prof. J. Vick O'Brien, head of the Department of Music, will co-operate in the demonstration. The presentation is announced for 8:15 and will be free to the public.

Syria Auto Club Plans Midnight Play

The George Sharp Players will give a midnight performance of "This Thing Called Love," before the Syria Automobile Club, at Syria Mosque, Friday, April 19. Arrangements for the staging of the play are in charge of James N. McGrath, Jr., technical director of the mosque.

Rochester Girl, Hit By Trolley, Killed

ROCHESTER, Pa., April 9.—Apparently blinded by the headlight's glare, Ruth Limfelt, 12, ran into the path of an Ambridge-Leetsdale interurban car last night and was killed. She was the daughter of William Limfelt, of James street, Rochester.

NEW AMUSEMENT BILLS -:- FEATURE -:- PLAYERS SHOWN HERE

Margaret Breen has featured role in "Good News," musical comedy in Alvin.

Hugh Banks appears with the Sharp Players in "The Big Pond," Pitt stock play.

Leatrice Joy, film star, appears in person in the vaudeville program in the Davis.

Milton Sills is the star of "His Captive Woman," photoplay feature in Stanley.

William Haines is a boxer in "The Duke Steps," comedy feature on Penn screen.

"GOOD NEWS" IS PLEASING MUSICAL COMEDY SEEN AGAIN IN ALVIN

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

"GOOD NEWS," lively musical comedy of college days at dear old Tait College, a co-ed institution, which was seen in the Alvin last September, returned to that theater last night, when its youthful spirit again cheered. In all principal parts the company is different from the one that appeared here earlier in the season, but it is one just as capable of bringing out the comedy of the lines and situations, and performing the numerous dances that make "Good News" a stepping show par excellence.

No Cinderella story is the basis of "Good News," which is concerned with the fact that the big football game of the season is about as good as lost to the enemy because the best player has been made ineligible to play through failing in an exam. He is given a special test on the eve of the game and fails again, but for the honor of the college on the gridiron the professor gives him a passing mark. Then comes the game itself. Through a novel arrangement one sees the great run of the hero and it is all quite exciting and surprising.

THERE'S ROMANCE, TOO

Of course there is a romance, several of them in fact, as might be supposed of a co-ed school, but one in principal, affecting the football hero, played by Max Hoffman, Jr., and the girl who tries to help him in his examination, portrayed by Margaret Breen. Comedy interest centers in the roommate of the football hero, played by Will Ahern, and a little co-ed, characterized by Jerry Downes, peppy comedienne.

All of these do well in their parts as well as in the light vocal and dancing numbers. Principal among these are the song, "Lucky in Love" and "The Varsity Drag," demonstrated to many recalls by Peggy Bernier; also an eccentric song and dance by Mr. Ahern and Miss Downes.

GLEE CLUB ALSO

Incidental singing by Charles Heffernan, Edward Alexander, Jr., and Lew Bellin, as the college glee club, is a pleasing feature.

Besides those mentioned there are pleasing performances by Joseph Allen, as the superstitious athletic trainer; George Schiller, as the professor, characterized skillfully as a bugaboo of the students whose heart was in the right place. Katherine Morris pleases as the college belle.

Grand Retains "Divine Lady"

"The Divine Lady," starring Corinne Griffith, is continuing this week as the screen attraction in the Grand. The picture is a historic drama, concerning the romance between Lady Hamilton (who began life as a cook's daughter) and Lord Nelson, England's naval hero. Victor Varconi plays Lord Nelson and H. B. Warner is seen as Lord Hamilton.

Corinne Griffith.

The picture has sound, but no talk. It displays some good photography and several big sea battle sequences. The picture story opens with Corinne arriving, with her mother, the cook, at the country house of Lord Hamilton's nephew. It intimates of a romance between the nephew and the girl and then, when he tires of her, he puts her in the way of his uncle, Lord Hamilton, who fools nephew and makes her his wife. Then Lord Nelson enters on the scene and the real romance and the battles begin. In the end, Lady Hamilton sends the brave Nelson back to duty and death.

Academy Show Is "Bohemians"

"The Bohemians," burlesque in the Academy, presents dancers and comedians in travesties, "bits" and scenes. "The Girl in Red," dancer, does her act in a special setting as an extra attraction. "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" is burlesqued. "The Garden of the Vampires" are other features. Art Mayer, eccentric comedian, and Frankie (Red) Moore, songstress, head the cast, with Dolly Lewis contributing numbers in the soubret role. Emelie Billings, ingenue, sings "Blues." Johnny Gilmore, "rubber-faced" comic; Paul Ryan, straight man, and Mickey Kane, juvenile, are other principals.

Lightning Stuns Guard, Prisoners

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., April 9.—Ed Woods, guard, and a number of prisoners were stunned by lightning near here when they sought shelter under a tree during a storm. Several of the men were knocked to the ground by the bolt.

Chaplin to Quit Artists' Firm, Reported

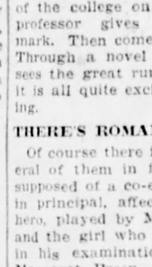
LOS ANGELES, April 9.—(AP.)—The Examiner said today it had learned from an apparently authoritative source that Charles Chaplin, film comedian and producer, planned to withdraw from United Artists Corporation, in which several motion picture stars have been banded together, and sell his pictures in the open market.

The paper said that Chaplin announced his decision during a discussion of a proposed merger of several individual artist-owned companies into one $60,000,000 corporation, one-half of which would be owned by the Warner Brothers.

It is said Chaplin stated he would "never sell" a half interest in his company "to Warner Brothers."

Powell, Film Enright Show

"Companionate Marraige," based on Judge Ben Lindsey's book, is the current film in the Enright. It concerns a young couple—in love—who fear to wed because of the unsuccessful marriages they note about them. However, at the close of the picture, acting on the advice of a well-meaning and philosophical judge, they succumb to the wedding bells and launch forth on a companionate marriage. But whether this companionate union will be any more a success than the wedded existences of their respective parents is all left to conjecture.



Betty Bronson.

NIGHT CLUB SCENES

The cast includes Betty Bronson, Alec Francis and Richard Walling. There are night club scenes, romantic clinches and quite dramatic suicide. But the production is nothing to get excited about. Rather, it is very ordinary flicker entertainment. There is no talk.

Dick Powell presents "Song Shoppe" on the stage. Among the entertainers are Rita Owin, former Ziegfeld dancer, and Meyers and Hanford, comedians. Also there is Jackie Terris, theater usher, who makes his bow as a singer. Dick sings "Down Among the Sugar Cane," leads his band in several numbers and sends the Enright Rockets through some steps. Short screen entertainment and an organlogue completes the bill.

Gilfillan, Former U.S. Treasurer, 93, Dies

COLCHESTER, Conn., April 9.—(AP.)—James Gilfillan, 93, treasurer of the United States under Presidents Hayes and Garfield, died at his home here yesterday.

Born in Belchertown, Mass., Mr. Gilfillan was a schoolmate of President Garfield at Williams College. He first entered the Treasury Department in 1861, when Lincoln was president, and served as a clerk through the administrations of President Grant, who appointed him cashier of the United States. President Hayes appointed Mr. Gilfillan as treasurer, and he served in this post from 1878 to 1883, resigning shortly after President Garfield had been assassinated.

STANLEY HAS SILLS AND TALK

Dorothy Mackaill is on trial for her life on the Stanley screen this week, the trial being part of the picture, "His Captive Woman." In the production, Dorothy, as a cabaret girl, murders her Broadway playboy. Then she flees to a tropical island. But the law isn't to be thwarted. It sends that grand policeman, Milton Sills, to bring her back. "He is a square cop and doesn't monkey with women." And he brings her back.—but not until after he marries her and meets with some rather hectic experiences.

FUGITIVE POPULAR

The girl is popular on the island and there's a band and flowers and many goodbyes for the pretty little prisoner. On board the ship Dorothy tries to push Milton overboard. A little later there is a shipwreck—and she saves his life. The two of them—the only survivors—find themselves on a desert island. Again she saves his life, this time from a shark. She dives under water and "socks" the shark on the head with a big rock. Something novel in movie shots, to say the least.

Each time she saves his life, the policeman says "thanks." But he never gives up the idea of taking her back. Then, one day, under tropical sun, he discovers he loves her.

COURT SCENE AUDIBLE

All of the story is developed in an interesting manner during the session of the court trial. The trial proper is in talk, but the flashback sequences that deal with the crime and the Dorothy-Milton romance remain loyal to the silent drama. Numerous comedy touches enhance its entertainment value. George Fawcett is in the cast. As the defense attorney he builds paper boats while the prosecution piles up damaging evidence against the heroine. However, the final fadeout brings happiness.

The stage show is offered by Hughie Clark and his gang and is titled "Aboard the Jazz Boat." It is a band show. Dave Broudy and the Stanley Orchestra and Organist Bernard Armstrong co-operate in the overture feature.

LAUGH HIT BY SAD FACE IN DAVIS

Another movie queen appeared in person at the Davis yesterday to lend glamour to the farewell week—Leatrice Joy—and showed herself an actress of considerable range, from comedy to pathos, with a pleasing personality. Her voice, too, has mellowness and velvety qualities that explain why she doesn't seem afraid of what the talkies may do to the screen.

While Miss Joy is the headliner, honors are shared by Joe Browning, who sings "I'm a Reformer," and delivers a "timely sermon." This sad-faced comedian lamenting the world that's going to the dogs gets funnier every moment of his act, till he finishes with a riotous "Hallelujah."

Speaking of the dogs, there are some very clever ones put through their paces by the Palermos. These canine equilibrists took their work so seriously that they did not even bark.

SEVEN TO ONE

Alma Neilson, a very adept dancer, seems to have cornered the man market, for she has seven of them assisting in her act, who do everything from wearing top-hats to executing the most intricate tanglefoot dances. But Hap Hazard actually does a Russian dance among other feats of dexterity on the wire. His most amusing crack was the explanation of the "railroad radio—it whistles at every station."

Corinne Tilton is a comedienne of the Fanny Brice school, with chewing gum, hiccups, and impersonations.

A SONG WITH SENSE

Yeates and Lawley sprang something of a surprise among their songs—one of the lyrics called "Punchinello" actually has sense, which is more or less of a novelty as modern songs go.

The show closes with another novelty, Large and Morgner, a pair of acrobats with only one pair of feet between them. Their real cleverness is not appreciated as it should be because the audience is wondering how they can do it at all.

For the closing bill of the season, the vaudeville at the Davis has all the qualities needed—variety, pep, charm and laughter. Which ought to whet the appetite of the patrons for the fall reopening.

Aldine Keeps "Melody" Film

"The Broadway Melody," that all-talk, song and dance film that is proving a sensation wherever it is shown, is being presented for a second and final week in the Aldine.

Anita Page.

The picture story is that of the two Mahoney Sisters, small time vaudeville actresses, who get a chance in a big Broadway musical revue, and of a song and dance artist who first loves the one sister and ends up by marrying the other. The cast features Bessie Love, Anita Page, Charles King, Jed Prouty and Kenneth Thomson.

THOMPSON CASE NEARS END

Conclusion of the J. V. Thompson bankruptcy case, which has its beginning 12 years ago in the Fayette County failure of the millionaire coal operator has been deferred until next Tuesday by Watson B. Adair, referee in bankruptcy. Numerous claims, involving several millions of dollars, were stricken off yesterday on a petition setting forth that the claimants, whose claims were secured by mortgages, collateral or other evidences of indebtedness, withdrew their claims in bankruptcy because of satisfaction or compromise through the trustees in bankruptcy over a period of years.

The allegations that Thompson possessed secret assets failed to receive any supporting testimony in the investigation by Adair and final distribution of assets to creditors is expected to be made within a few weeks. The elimination of claimants yesterday reduced the total of claims from approximately $18,000,000 to $9,000,000.

PARIS LINGERIE DESIGNER BRINGS 'SINGLETTE' HERE

When everyone began wondering what the girls were going to discard in the way of clothing, now that the red flannel days are over, along came Lucile Mauclair from Paris with an idea.

It's the singlette, a new piece of feminine "delica-tessen," which allows fair young maids to toss off three of their present four pieces of lingerie. The singlette, then, designed by Mme. Mauclair, is a one-piece affair. It has many advantages, according to Madame. Being custom built to fit the form, it removes all those bumps which, women will admit, have worried their fair selves to distraction on certain occasions. It saves laundry, and many other things.

Mme. Mauclair.

But, listen to this:

The singlette is not the only medium to counteract the illusion that women can't take anything more off. For teas, bridges, informal dinners, silk pajama ensembles are now the thing. Radiant in color, loose and comfortable in form, Madame points them out as the last word in women's wear.

Mme. Mauclair is visiting Horne's where a three-day lingerie show begins today.

FARE DECISION AIDS WALKER

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Mayor James J. Walker appeared today to have clinched the Democratic nomination for a second term as a result of the city's victory in maintaining a 5-cent subway fare.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court denying permission to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to raise the fare to 7 cents, a move that was hotly contested by the city, was viewed in political circles as removing the one possible bar to Walker's renomination.

The Mayor personally led the fight to prevent a fare increase, and with announcement of the city's victory political leaders were quick to assure him of their support.

COUNCIL PLANS RIVER JUBILEE

President James F. Malone has called a special meeting of council for 3 P. M. Thursday to consider rail and river transportation problems. The meeting was requested by Councilman Robert Garland who pointed out that preparations would be made for recognizing the dedication in October of the Ohio river for continuous navigation the year round. Garland said the celebration would be attended by Senator David A. Reed and two colleagues from Washington.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange were invited to Thursday's meeting.

Cleveland to Copy Credit System Here

Pittsburgh merchants' plans for collecting accounts and for running daily advertisements on how to maintain good credit, will be copied by Cleveland, it was announced by William H. Gray, manager of the Cleveland Retail Credit Association, at last night's gathering of the Retail Credit Men's Association in the Roosevelt Hotel. Mr. Gray said that Pittsburgh has a 15 per cent higher ratio of collections than Cleveland and that Pittsburgh must be on the right track.

TEA AND COFFEE PLEASE MILLIONS

Sugar Also Adds to Their Flavor

Millions of adults enjoy the flavor of coffee and tea as a beverage, and yet there are some who, because they do not add sugar, miss a great part of the delicate taste that coffee and tea should have.

Why do these people leave sugar out of their coffee or tea? Perhaps some do not know what they miss. Perhaps others feel that they should not enjoy any drink so much. There are people, for example, who persist in taking cold baths when a warm or tepid bath would be much more beneficial. Do they feel that they are benefiting themselves by the hardship of a cold bath? Do people who leave sugar out of their coffee or tea feel that they are benefiting themselves by missing part of the enjoyment?

Just try sugar in your coffee and tea if you haven't yet learned how much it improves it. Learn to use the amount that just suits your taste. Sugar is the perfect flavor developed by Nature. It makes nearly all foods and beverages more delightful to the taste.

Coffee and tea are America's popular beverages. Sugar enables every cup to promote happiness by affording individual flavor. The Sugar Institute.

NAMING PRISON CHIEF DELAYED

Directors of the Allegheny County Workhouse will not name a superintendent of that institution when the board meets for reorganization tomorrow. At a meeting of the Allegheny County Prison Board today it was expected the present directors would be re-elected.

The workhouse directors were expected to select a successor to the late A. H. Leslie, at its first meeting, but it was announced today that the directors want more time in which to fill the position.

The present directors, Samuel R. Kelly, W. S. Linderman, W. C. Reitz, C. C. Kohne and H. E. McClain, it is reported, have no opposition and will be re-elected. W. J. Zahnizer, former assistant, and now acting superintendent, was reported to be the leading candidate for the superintendency.

The prison board is expected to re-elect John McNeil as warden of the county jail.

Veteran Fire Truck In First Accident

"Old No. 10," Harrison Township's veteran fire truck, had its first accident in 10 years' service yesterday. JOAN LOWELL, AUTHOR OF SEA THRILLER, ON AIR

SOPHIE TUCKER, TED LEWIS WILL BROADCAST TONIGHT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

WHEN 9 o'clock rolls around tonight many a fan will hesitate between 232 and 245 meters. Variety in abundance will be found on the WJAS and WCAE programs at this hour.

Paul Whiteman ever WJAS will revive memories of "Valencia," the song that made bravados of us all a few years back. That dreamy "Dardanella," will be another selection. But the audience will not be permitted to drowse; the versatile Mr. Whiteman will offer double-barreled rhythm in "Rough and Ready," "Tea for Two," "Breezin' Along" and "Let's Do It."

JOAN LOWELL

Of an entirely different appeal is the WCAE presentation. Joan Lowell, who wrote "The Cradle of the Deep," will tell something of a girl sailor's life in all kind of company and in all kind of lands. Not since the appearance of Trader Horn and "Red" Christiansen on the Eveready Hour has there been an attraction of such exotic appeal as that tonight. If you like stories of adventure you should enjoy Joan Lowell.

A master of the "squeeze box" will be heard on the 8:30 concert from WCAE. Pietro, the accordionist, has made many phonograph records and he should delight with a lively piece or two on the Prophylactic affair.

At the same hour on WJAS the Fort Pitt Quartet and the orchestra directed by David Broudy will team in the "Prince of Pilsen" Stein Song. This should be good.

Andy Sannella, saxophonist, has composed a new piece, "Saxanella," and he will play it at 8 o'clock over KDKA.

AKRON GIRL TO SING

Helen Jepson—only 22—who sings on the Curtis Institute concert over WJAS at 10 o'clock, is a resident of Akron, Ohio.

Lannie Ross, athlete and singer, will do Berlin's "How About Me?" and "Come West, Little Girl" from "Whoopee" on the Orchestradians' concert through KDKA at 10:30 p. m.

Barring "terrible weather in the West," the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Hour will present Sophie Tucker, Ted Lewis and His Band and other stage celebrities at 11 o'clock over WCAE.

"Chasing the Fox" is the title of a special offering by Fillmore's Band, WLW at 10:30, in which "Mike, the Radio Hound" will take an active part.

JOAN LOWELL

The author of "The Cradle of the Deep" will relate some of her weird experiences as a sailor tonight over WCAE at 9 o'clock. Joan Lowell was "brought up" a sailor in the hold of her father's ship. Some of her adventures were hair-raising.

WCAE—Eveready hour.

JOAN LOWELL, AUTHOR.
Joan Lowell, descendant on one side of Boston blue stockings and on the other of bewhiskered Levantine sea rovers, became nationally famous overnight through the publication recently of her adventures in a book called "The Cradle of the Deep."
Ghostly, giant icebergs, water spouts, wild dances on lovely South Sea atolls, man-eating sharks that followed the ship like wraiths, and the fact that young ladies should not bathe in gentlemen's drinking water—all these Joan Lowell learned about and wove into her fantastic saga of the sea.

London-Japan Flight Scheduled by Black

LONDON, April 9.—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, who completed a round-trip flight to Capetown, South Africa, yesterday, plans to leave London at the end of April on a flight to Japan and to be back here for dinner on the Fourth of July.

The last lap of his African flight was made yesterday from LeBourget, France, to Croydon in a commercial plane. His private airplane now is undergoing motor repairs at Ventemiglia, Northern Italy, where it was forced down.

Stab Wounds Fatal to Woman; Man Is Held

Stabbed in the chest during a quarrel in her room at 1540 Webster avenue today, Ida Mae Hodge, 37, a Negro, died on the way to the Passavant hospital. Police began a search for William Perkins, 40, a Negro, of the same address, who, they said, had roomed with the dead woman. Lucy Ward and James Merritt, Negroes, also occupants of the house, were held on suspicious person charges as witnesses.

CITY FIRMS GET BARGE JOBS

Three concerns in the Pittsburgh district will share contracts involving $2,500,000 for the construction of barges for the Inland Waterways Corporation, the government-subsidized corporation which is developing water transport on the Mississippi, Missouri and Warrior Rivers, it was announced today by War Department officials.

The barges will be built by these concerns: The American Bridge Company, at Ambridge, 24 barges; the Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, 11 barges, and the Midland Barge Company, Midland, Pa., five barges.

Each company bid $61,000 for the construction of each barge. Four other firms submitted bids which ranged up to $107,675.

The barges are of a standard type, to be built on plans adopted by the corporation. They are to be constructed so as to be available for use on the upper Mississippi and the Missouri Rivers, six-foot channels to St. Louis, or the Mississippi from there to New Orleans, a nine-foot channel.

Boy, 16, Accused Of Stabbing Another

Police captured Willie Jones, 16, Negro, of 1219 Wood way, Braddock, in a shanty along the Monroeville road last night and held him, accused of stabbing Joseph Pogue, 16, Negro, of Port Perry yesterday. Police said the boys quarreled while they were on their way to school. Young Pogue was taken to Braddock General Hospital, where it was reported that he had suffered stab wounds in his body.

Springdale Prowler Suspect Captured

Springdale police believe they have ended the activities of a prowler who has been frightening women in and near that borough for the last two weeks. Patrolman John Troeger yesterday arrested Thomas Lucas, Negro, of Brackenridge, after a woman had complained. Justice of the Peace Lawrence Sutton, of Springdale, yesterday sentenced Lucas to serve 10 days in jail.

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 9.—Stricken by apoplexy while driving his automobile on the highway near West Newton, Fred Schmitt, 47, a chiropractor of Donora, swerved his car suddenly from the road and died before medical aid could be summoned.

VIRGINIA DELTA TAU DELTA CHAPTER DEFIES RUM BAN

BALTIMORE, April 9.—(AP.)—Beta Iota Chapter of the national fraternity, Delta Tau Delta, located at the University of Virginia, has defied the national organization over the reported use of liquor in the chapter house at Charlottesville, Va., and an investigating body will be named from alumni of the fraternity to make an inquiry into the Virginia case preparatory to revoking the chapter's charter, the Baltimore Sun says today.

Agitation over the alleged use of liquor at the University of Virginia started some months ago, and reached its peak during a visit of President and Mrs. Coolidge to a football game there last Thanksgiving day.

OFFICIAL BAN ISSUED

After that episode, when drinking was said to have gone on openly at the game, the Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Virginia Anti-Saloon League, asked Gov. Byrd to investigate, declaring that the situation at the university was a "state scandal."

An official ban was issued by President Alderman and the administrative council January 22, prohibiting the possession of liquor by students on the school property.

The Delta Fraternity House is on university property, held under a 99-year lease. The traveling secretary of the national fraternity recently visited the Virginia chapter, and reported to headquarters that liquor was openly drunk in the chapter house and that it was being made in the basement. The secretary said he was told drinking was customary in fraternity houses at Virginia.

DRINKING ADMITTED

C. E. Cuddy, president of the chapter, admitted the first charge, but denied the second categorically. Letters were then sent to all alumni of the chapter by the national headquarters, telling of the report and threatenings withdrawal of the charter.

Prior to the meeting of the Arch Chapter (national governing body) the national president received a letter from the president of the Virginia chapter telling its stand on the question:

"The dean has requested the chapters at the university to pass regulations forbidding drinking in chapter houses," the letter said, and added, "Beta Iota refuses to do so."

The national president said that the investigating body would be appointed at an early date.

22 Dogs, 3 Cats Share Room With Widow

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 9.—(AP.)—Twenty-two dogs and three cats, living in a single room with their mistress, were found by a policeman and humane society representative yesterday as they entered the home of Mrs. John Smith to serve a nuisance warrant.

Mrs. Smith, a recluse, and a widow, was not at home. She rented the whole house but furnished only one room and kept her pets locked in it. The warrant was sworn out by the house owner, a neighbor, who said he no longer could stand the kennel near his home.

Flier Escapes Injury As Plane Hits Roof

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 9.—Joseph F. Flask escaped injury yesterday when his plane and a house roof were wrecked as he crashed while attempting a take-off from a farm field near Columbiana. Flask's plane caught in electric wires and then crashed into the roof of the Russell Crumbacker residence. The chimney was wrecked and a hole torn in the roof.

Corporation Branch Manager Promoted

Hervey B. Marsh, local branch manager of the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation, has been appointed resident vice president of that organization, according to announcement by President Joseph W. Ward.

DOG BITES MAN SEVERELY

John P. Hummel, 32, of 404 Tabor street, was badly bitten on both legs by a dog said to be owned by Peter Nazinski, of 3342 Oregon street, this morning. Hummel was taken to West Penn Hospital for treatment.

According to the West End police, the same dog on Sunday bit Thomas Gregoery, 12, of 2805 West Carson street, on the right leg.

The dog was captured by police, and the Animal Rescue League was notified.

SCHOOL RUNAWAYS, 8, HIKE 20 MILES TO "SEE SIGHTS"

The lure of the city's lights and bustle called to Lawrence Clay and Marsh Tillotson, each 8. And finally it got them.

Yesterday Lawrence and Marsh left the private school they attended, near Valencia, and started back to Pittsburgh.

They trudged almost 20 miles to town and were undetected. Few motorists would grow suspicious over the sight of two small boys in overalls on a country road, and Marsh and Lawrence wore overalls, and not much more, for the day was warm.

But it ended last night. W. C. Clay, of 216 Shady avenue, father of Lawrence, found the boys on the North Side, tired and hungry. They were window-shopping, he said.

West View Church To Hold Meeting

The annual congregational meeting of the West View Presbyterian Church, the Rev. E. A. Culley, pastor, will be held tomorrow night in the church rooms.

LIGHTNING HITS HOSE TOWER

The hose tower of No. 61 Engine Company, Commercial and Homestead streets, North Homestead, was struck by lightning, hurling debris to the first floor of the fire station, last night.

Capt. John Carroll, of the night shift, narrowly escaped injury when a shower of bricks fell to the floor. The telephone lines to the engine house were broken. Battalion Chief Fred Beckett estimated the damage at $500.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. George P. Bassett, Jr., To Entertain at Tea For Lecturer

EVEN though you may grouch a little about ducking into convenient doorways to escape one of these April showers, don't you agree with me in thinking that this is the loveliest season of the year? Perhaps I may have been rhapsodizing on this topic too much, lately, but I want to stand up in defense of a season that is accused of causing a lassitude called "spring fever." To me, it is far more invigorating than the "winey air of autumn"—with the dismal undertone of a winter hovering in the offing. Even the chilly days are more pleasant because of the promise of growth everywhere about us.

The folks who are back home again after their winter trips are arranging all sorts of interesting things. For instance, Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett, Jr., of Northumberland street, is going to entertain at tea on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Hotel Schenley. Her guest of honor will be Mrs. Vance Cheney, who is scheduled to give a series of lectures on "The Spiritual Advancement of Today."

There are, I believe, five of these lectures, in all, the first to be given on Saturday morning in the Schenley. Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson is turning over her Forbes street home for the two lectures scheduled for next week, on Thursday and Saturday mornings. And on the same days of the following week, April 25 and 27, Mrs. Cheney will speak in the home of Mrs. Roy A. Hunt in Ellsworth avenue.

SPEAKING of Mrs. Bassett, did you know that she is to have a role in the Stage and Play Society's closing production of the year, which is set for April 30 in Carnegie Music Hall? At that time the society is going to produce another of the plays included in Carroll Fitzhugh's book, "Mon Ami Pierrot," with the author as a member of the cast.

This play is "Mountains of Bether," and it demands a cast of seven. In addition to Mr. Fitzhugh and Mrs. Bassett, these parts will be taken by Mrs. Percy G. Kammerer, Mrs. Howard J. Burgwin, Olivia Kammerer, daughter of Dean and Mrs. Kammerer; James W. Macfarlane and George Collinson Burgwin, Jr. Olivia Kammerer and Mr. Burgwin are newcomers to the society's audiences, and I am sure that their work will be watched with interest.

There is no need in my repeating, I know, that the society is to present Philip Barry's "You and I" tomorrow night in Carnegie Hall. This cast includes Mrs. William Singer Moorhead, Ann Watt, Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner, Thomas M. Jones III, Fielder Clarke, James W. Macfarlane and Calvert D. Camlin.

WHEN she marries Hartley Given Walker, son of the Junior Hay Walkers, of Edgeworth, on Saturday, April 20, Katherine Porter, daughter of the John Ebbert Porters, of Sewickley, will have Mrs. John Joy Edson III, the former Jane Porter, for her matron of honor. There will be two maids of honor, Emily Wilson Porter, Katherine's sister, and Bertha Bennett Brooks, Mr. Walker's niece, and the bridesmaids will include Isabel Lee Adams and Mrs. Eugene Heck Kipp, of Sewickley; Catherine Longenecker, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Allan M. Cullum, who was Elizabeth Braden, of Reading. Ruth Walker Brooks, niece of the bridegroom, will be the flower girl.

Mr. Walker is having his brother, Thomas H. Walker, for his best man and the list of ushers includes James Bennett Walker, Eugene Heck Kipp, William Booth, Walter L. Ingham and Robert McCready, all Sewickleyans; Reginald R. Church, of Pittsburgh; Allan M. Cullum, of Reading; Edward Robbins, of Cleveland, and Herbert Hersche, of New London, Conn.

The ceremony will be performed at 5:30 o'clock in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley, by the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, and will be followed by a small reception at the house, with only the families and a few friends there.

Lillian Henry Rose gave a luncheon today in her home in Thorn street, Sewickley, for the bride-to-be, and on Thursday Mrs. Walter L. Ingham and Mrs. Edward Wallis Woods will give a kitchen shower and bridge party in Mrs. Ingham's home. Catherine and Eleanor Longenecker are going to give a bridge party Friday in their home in St. James street, I understand.

A DATE early in May has been taken by Darrell Ewing Morrow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. Wilson Morrow, of Maple avenue, Edgewood, for her marriage to Robert Charles Todd, son of George A. Todd, of the Schenley Apartments. Mr. Todd, you know, is a brother of the new Mrs. G. Warren Wattles, Jr., whose wedding took place on Friday.

Saturday, May 4, is the day chosen and the ceremony will be performed at 7:30 o'clock in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church, with a small reception at the house afterwards.

MARY KATHRYN KNAPP, daughter of the Lawrence Wendell Knapps, of the Schenley Apartments, is going to have just a small wedding when she marries Nielien Otterbein, of Cincinnati, next Monday morning. The ceremony will be performed at 11:30 o'clock in the Knapp home, with just the two families and a few friends in attendance.

Mrs. Richard Frauenheim, of Detroit, will be Kathryn's only attendant, and Clemens Otterbein is to be his brother's best man.

Foster Memorial Campaign Launched

THE realization of a dream began to take definite shape yesterday when the Tuesday Musical Club launched its campaign for the $500,000 Stephen C. Foster Memorial. Captains and their teams assembled, nearly 200 of them, in Kaufmann's Auditorium for luncheon and were addressed by Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, women's organization chairman; E. T. Whiter, executive committee chairman; H. H. Bradford, in charge of the campaign, and the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day. The Stephen Foster Singers, Esther Edmundson, Elizabeth Young, Virginia Kendrick and Anne Woestehoff, with Martha Myers Murdock accompanying, dressed in period costume, made their debut and were given a hearty reception.

All four speakers emphasized the worthiness of the project, Dr. Day expressing it thus: "Stephen Foster built no factories, created no new philosophy, founded no new religion, but he was the builder, creator and expressor of a wonderful sentiment in the hearts and minds of men which all Pittsburgh ought to be glad to acknowledge. The Stephen Foster Memorial is not a debt we owe to somebody who has lived in the past, but something we owe to the future." Mr. Bradford stressed anew the fact that Pitt has set aside the ground for the building, which is to be an "intimate home" for all those seeking to express Pittsburgh musically; that the upkeep of the building will also be a gift of the university, and that the campaign has been underwritten by the Tuesday Musical Club. The opening dinner of the campaign will be held in the William Penn Hotel next Monday.

MORE than 6,000 delegates and alternates will attend the thirty-eighth continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution which will convene in the new auditorium from next Monday until April 20. The convention will be addressed by many prominent men and women including cabinet officers, women members of Congress, leaders of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps as well as civilian notables. President and Mrs. Hoover will receive the delegates at the White House during the week. The president general, Mrs. Alfred J. Brousseau, and her national board of management will give a reception to the Congress in Memorial Continental Hall on Tuesday, which is, next to the White House reception, always the most important social event of the Congress. Numerous teas, luncheons, receptions and dinners will be part of the special activities and there will be receptions in honor of the two announced candidates for president general, Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Julius V. Talmadge, of Athens, Ga. Pilgrimages to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, to Mt. Vernon and to Washington Cathedral will be other events of the week, and still other high lights will be the unveiling of the memorial statue of the Pioneer Woman and the dedication of Constitution Hall.

150 used pianos

IN SPECIAL TEMPORARY SALES ROOM
912 LIBERTY AVENUE

Ridding our workshop of every traded-in, rebuilt Piano—instruments that have never been on our sales floor, going direct from the best homes in Pittsburgh and vicinity to our splendidly equipped workshops, until such an enormous lot has accumulated that we are forced to dispose of them at once and without regard to price. In many instances the amount asked will cover only the actual work done on these Pianos—in other cases where a great number of new parts have been used an added charge will be made for these—exactly what they cost—with some, where their outstanding value is so apparent, a small part of their "trade-in cost" will be included.

On account of the extremely short time (REMEMBER THE LEASE IS FOR 10 DAYS ONLY) and the vastness of this stock, we will not be able to display any new Pianos in this special salesroom. Only these rebuilt, used and shopworn instruments will be shown.

They will be placed on this special salesroom floor in lots of 50 Pianos each (there are 150 in all).

The first lot will be on display promptly at 9 A. M. tomorrow, April 10th. None will be shown in our regular Piano Salon and none will be sold until that hour.

Decker Upright, Mahogany Finish $45
J. & C. Fischer Upright, Oak Finish $55
Emerson Upright, Walnut Finish $50
Mathusek Upright, Mahogany Finish.....$36

Wellington Upright, Mahogany Finish $77
Arion Upright, Mahogany Finish $84.50
Stanley Upright, Oak Finish $115.00
Howard Player Pianos, Mahogany Finish, full 88 note; a very high class instrument $144.50

PRICES. On Uprights will begin at $36.00. On Players at $144.50. On Grands at $220.00.

TERMS. Will be 10% down until a maximum payment of $25.00 is reached, no greater amount will be required on any instrument. For example: If you are buying a Piano priced at $55.00, your first payment will be $5.50. Your first payment on the $220.00 Grand will be $22.00. We feel that these terms are business-like and within the reach of the very people for whom this sale is intended—those who need a Piano badly but can afford to make only a small investment to secure it.

Pianista Player Piano, Oak Finish....$170.00 (This instrument has been entirely rebuilt.)
Anderson Player, Circassian Walnut Finish. A floor sample, new in every way $295.00
Hardman Grand; this exceptionally high-grade Piano is in splendid condition and will give years of satisfactory service $220.00
Sohmer Grand, finished in rosewood. Parlor size. A thoroughly reliable Grand ideal instrument for teacher or pupil $345.00
Melville Clark Grand. Wax finish apartment size. A regular $650 value at $445.50

Bench and rolls included with all Player Pianos. Duet bench with all Grands. Bench or stool with Upright Pianos. The above list adequately covers the price range in the first lot of 50 Pianos which will be ready for sale tomorrow morning.

Remember the entire 150 Pianos are to be sold in 10 days—and will be.

Of course the better selections will be possible immediately after each lot goes on the floor.

There will be no charge for delivery.

Maryland Robbers Sought in Fayette

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 9.—Fayette County officers are searching for two robbers who last Friday held up the Farmers and Mechanics Bank at Westminster, Md., and who Sunday night abandoned a sedan at Brownfield, three miles south of this city. Attempts were made by the robbers to burn the machine, Brownfield residents say. Officers say the car was stolen in Baltimore, Md.

Man Killed, Girl Injured by Auto

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 9.—Run down by an automobile driven by Andrew Danko, of Dunbar, as he and Miss Amanda Flicklinger, 17, walked along the highway near Vances Mills, Robert Swaney, 20, of Oliphant, was injured fatally late Sunday night and died in the Uniontown Hospital. The girl, also injured, was taken to the hospital. Danko was arrested.

A GREAT variety of gardens were shown in autochrome slides (a process which he explained to his audience) by Robert Nathan Cram when he spoke to the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning on famous gardens of America and England. Several of these gardens were of the homes of women known to the audience, among them Mrs. Dexter Ferry, of Detroit, formerly Miss Jeannette Hawkins, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Richardson-Cox, of England, formerly Miss Charlotte Kennedy. Many valuable hints as to planting were given by the speaker.

Parents Fighting Over Child, Heir To Millions

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 9.—(AP.)—Permanent custody of 8-year-old Diana Duff Frazier, heiress to a $3,000,000 fortune left by her paternal grandmother, again was the object of a closed hearing in Circuit Court here today.

The child's mother, Mrs. Frederick N. Watriss, former wife of Frank Duff Frazier, wealthy New York clubman, seeks custody of the child. The action is contested by Frazier.

When the couple were divorced here several years ago, custody of the child was divided between the mother and the paternal grandmother, now deceased.

Famous Maternity Center

"1929 Babies Will Be the Best Behaved," Experts Say

"The well baby is the happy baby," say authorities on baby care, "and the 1929 mother knows more about keeping babies well than any of her predecessors!"

At the famous Maternity Center in New York, one of the important things thousands of mothers learn is the safe cleansing of baby's clothes.

"If soap containing harmful alkali is used to wash baby's garments, his tender skin may be irritated," say the Maternity Center experts.

"At the Maternity Center Lux is used for cleansing all of baby's things—clothes, blankets, and even toys.

"Analysis has shown that Lux contains no harmful alkali—and therefore is safe. Since with Lux there is no rubbing to harshen and mat wool fibres, baby things washed in Lux stay soft through hundreds of launderings, keeping baby comfortable and happy."

State Insurance and State Insurance Funds

Destructive or Constructive Experiments?

INSURANCE is a business—the business of taking risks for a consideration. Fire insurance in America is upwards of a two billion dollar business.

Under the present system the public purchases security at a cost which has constantly declined for the past twenty years, in the face of greatly increased prices for everything used by everybody, including insurance people.

Insurance, in addition to the security it affords, contributes heavily to tax burdens and to the general welfare and prosperity.

State insurance or state insurance funds designed to supplant this legitimate arm of industry would place upon the state the burden of conducting a business the successful operation of which requires perpetual vigilance and painstaking intelligence. It would shift a heavy tax burden to other arms of industry. It would destroy or impair the livelihood of many, weaken purchasing power, and destroy a portion of commerce.

State fund experiments on an extended scale have been largely failures. But, in the event they may be successful, is there not a greater danger from success than from failure? Successful government operation of any project encourages new incursions in the same direction.

Are we drifting toward government ownership or operation of business, or shall we follow the plan which made this country prosperous—that of insisting that the people shall own the government and not the government the people?

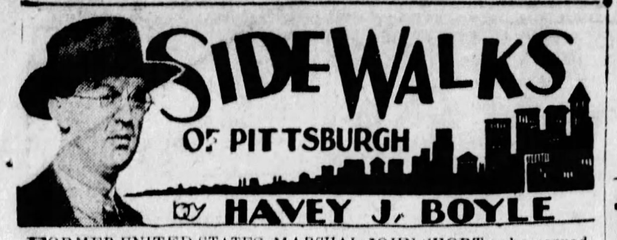
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1929

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

FORMER UNITED STATES MARSHAL JOHN SHORT, who served in the local district under the second Wilson administration and for a period in the Harding regime, is back at his newspaper desk in Clearfield, Pa., where he publishes a good weekly paper.

Mr. Short was a former reporter in Pittsburgh, going back to the days when James Francis Burke was a scrivener and when a representative group of reporters handled the biggest local story of their time—the Johnstown flood.

It was in Johnstown, the other night, where Mr. Short asked that he be remembered to his many friends here.

Workng on a Pittsburgh paper many years ago Mr. Short han an unusual experience on an assignment in Cleveland. His horse and rig, which he had hired, ran away, incurring an expense to the liveryman of $32. Mr. Short entered the item on his expense account and a callous city editor observed the entry, scratched his head, and declared that while the idea was a novel one it would be better if Mr. Short would take care of the expense involved by spreading it over a few weeks and charging it up to such conventional affairs as meals, carfare, etc.

"I don't want to set any precedent by paying for runaway horses," the city editor explained to Mr. Short.

EVEN modern newspaper boys remember when a reporter here blandly charged up a neat total for the engaging of a yacht. Another one once hired an airplane on his own initiative, but instead of thereby winning the boss' daughter, as the magazines tell it, he got canned.

The ordinary housewife around this time of the year contemplating "moving" will better appreciate the task that faces one of the big local concerns, the Koppers' Company, which is moving this week. Furniture and files to fill 14 stories of the new Koppers' Building are being transferred from the Union Arcade to the Koppers' Building.

THE average husband, bothered with moving, will observe that the Koppers' people have it easier than house-movers because once the furniture is placed in one spot a lady doesn't come along and say: "George, I don't like the piano in either of those two corners you've pushed it into—let's take it upstairs."

Automobilists will miss a familiar figure at the corner of Bigelow boulevard and Sixth avenue. Harry Meyers, long a traffic policeman there, has handed in his portfolio as a traffic policeman to take a position as a special policeman in the Koppers' Building. There is a chance here for a bad pun, if you observe the name of the building and the occupation of Officer Meyers.

DORMONT BOYS TO HOLD REINS

WEEK'S SWAY GRANTED BY BOROUGH

Dormont is to have a "Boys' Week."

Dormont boys will reign supreme from Saturday, April 27, to Friday, May 3. They will be feted by mothers, fathers—and maybe sisters.

L. C. Price.

The Dormont Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the movement, is joining in National Boys' Week, which will be observed over the country. L. C. "Sim" Price, president of the chamber, has announced the following organizations which will co-operate:

The Dormont Rotary Club, South Hills Post, American Legion; Dormont New Century Club, Downtown Branch, Y. M. C. A.; officials of Dormont Borough, Dormont School Board, Boy Scouts of the South Hills, Dormont Order of De Molay, Ministerial Association of Dormont and other civic organizations.

The definite program which was outlined for each day will start with a mammoth parade.

Saturday, April 27, boys' loyalty day, parade; Sunday, April 28, boys' day in churches; Monday, April 28, boys' day in schools; Tuesday, April 30, boys' day in industry; Wednesday, May 1, boys' day in entertainment; Thursday, May 2, boys' day in citizenship, and Friday, May 3, boys' day out of doors.

DRYS RAID N. S. BREWERY

A wildcat brewery, a whisky cutting plant on the North Side, and a residence in Brookline boulevard were raided, and a liquor laden automobile was seized by prohibition agents yesterday.

In a one-story brick stable in the rear of 1335 Reedsdale street, the agents reported, they seized 2,500 gallons of beer, six large vats of beer mash, and other equipment. Fred Bruno, 28, and Harry Hoffman, 35, were arrested. An adjoining building, rear of 1331 Reedsdale street, yielded the federal raiders 15 cases of whisky and three barrels of beer, they said.

Two quarts of moonshine and 26 barrels of mash were seized, according to the agents, in the home of George Person, 35, of 305 Brookline boulevard. Person was arrested.

Caught transporting five gallons of moonshine in his automobile in East Ohio street, John Krizmanich, 35, of 2900 Smallman street, was arrested and his car seized, the agents declared.

New Trial Sought In Orie Tax Case

Counsel for Stanley Orzechowski, alias Stanley Orie, convicted last week in Federal Court for alleged failure to file income tax returns for 1926 and 1927 and evasion of taxes, filed petitions for a new trial and for arrest of judgment. The petitions were filed by Attorney A. M. Oliver and John M. Henry. Orie is a brother of former Police Magistrate John W. Orie.

Old Lovejoy Dream Home Under Axes

UNFINISHED AND NEVER OCCUPIED, 26-YEAR-OLD "FINEST WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA HOME" RAZED

Razers' axes ringing on the Lovejoy "Dream House," South Braddock avenue, bring back the story of Pittsburgh steel prosperity in the 1890's. Francis Thomas Fletcher Lovejoy, enriched by prosperity with Carnegie, started the home to be the "finest west of the Alleghenies." He lost in a private business venture and the home, planned to cost a great fortune, was never finished.

DREAM FADES, SO DOES HOME

Francis Thomas Fletcher Lovejoy's "dream mansion," a land mark in South Braddock avenue for more than a quarter of a century, is crumbling before the matter-of-fact hammers of wrecking crews, but the dreamer dreams no more.

Lovejoy, once a millionaire partner of Andrew Carnegie's, began his dream in 1903.

His romantic mind conceived the plans for the finest home west of the Allegheny Mountains and he chose a lofty ridge between Braddock avenue and Frick Woods for the site.

His plans were elaborate. They included an elevator, an underground passageway to the barns, the finest of trimmings and gorgeous decorations. From the ground up, the three-story mansion was one of splendor and glory. Work progressed for nearly two years and then came an abrupt halt by reason of Lovejoy's financial reverses. The home was never completed. It has stood for 26 years as a grim reminder of the uncertainty of fate.

Lovejoy is still living. He occupies a position with a Pittsburgh firm, while the "dream" which started crumbling so many year before actually fades from sight as the fine old house is torn down to make room for newer, but not nearly so pretentious homes.

DERAILED CAR CAUSES TIE-UP

Thousands of workers traveling to industrial plants in the east boroughs and the East End were delayed this morning when a street car trailer left the rails at Swissvale and Franklin avenues, Wilkinsburg, a junction point.

Workmen in the trailer and its hauling car were shaken up, but none was injured. Service was restored after 25 minutes delay. In the meantime cars, which pass the point at the rate of one a minute in the morning rush hour, packed the rails for a half-mile on either side of the accident scene.

WILL DIVIDES $374,428

A decree handed down by Orphans' Court distributes $374,428 in the estate of Michael Diebold, lumberman and business man.

Each of his children, Alfred J., Edward M., Elmer A., Clarence J., L. J. and Beatrice Diebold Brady receive $45,952; the Diebold Investment Company residuary legatee under the will of Frank X. Diebold, deceased, $45,952, and Alma R. Diebold, guardian of the estate of Howard J. Diebold, $45,952.

Three Slightly Hurt As Auto Overturns

A man and two girls narrowly escaped serious injury when an automobile in which they were riding skidded and upset on Walter avenue and Mountain street, Sunday.

According to the South Side police, Arthur B. Lucas, 23, of 128 Linton avenue, Bellevue, was driving on Mountain street when the accident occurred. Miss Maria Anderson, 17, of 70 Arlington avenue, and Miss Marion Price, 17, of 906 Eureka street, were occupants of the machine. The trio were slightly injured, and went to their homes.

200 ASK WIDOW'S PAROLE FROM LOTTERY SENTENCE

A petition including 200 signatures was presented in Criminal Court today asking a parole for Mrs. Mary E. Shaffer, of Mt. Lebanon, who is serving six months in jail for operating a lottery. Judge James B. Drew took the petition under advisement and will probably set a date for a hearing.

The petition, presented by Attorney Samuel S. Rosenberg, stated Mrs. Shaffer has served one-third of her sentence and it is believed has been sufficiently punished. The petition stated, the prisoner, if released, will live an exemplary life.

Mrs. Shaffer pleaded guilty with Henry Recker and James Murray on January 26 and the three were sentenced February 8 to serve six-month jail sentences and pay $1,000 fines. She is a widow and the mother of three children, the youngest of which is 5 years old.

GIRL IS SOUGHT AS BANDIT

A girl bandit with "red hair and a hard-boiled laugh," and her male companion were being sought today by police, who also were looking for the taxicab the pair took from driver Russell Edright, 25, of 222 Jacksonia street, last night, along with $5.

Edright told police he had been hired by the couple at Allegheny avenue and Sheffield street and told to drive them to the West End.

The trip ended for Edright at Corliss street tunnel, in West Carson street, when a pistol was pressed against his shoulder and he was told to dismount. He did and was robbed of $5 by the man while the girl enjoyed what Edright described as a "hard-boiled laugh" at his discomfiture. Then the pair drove off in Edright's cab.

Edright was able to describe the girl as about 23, 5 feet 4 inches tall, with auburn hair. She wore a dark coat and white hosiery, and was hatless, he said. His description of the man was vague.

Boy, 2, Dies After Eating Rat Poison

ERIE, Pa., April 9.—The death from rat poison of John Reed, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Reed, of near Edinboro, was being investigated today by Coroner Daniel S. Hanley.

The boy died in Hamot Hospital late yesterday, after eating rat poison found in a tube in the drawer of a desk, the coroner learned. His brother, Oren, 9, found him showing signs of serious illness and called their mother.

City Has Turkish Problem All Its Own

The Turkish problem, which has troubled the chancelleries of Europe, confronted, on a smaller scale, the police of Pittsburgh today.

The police were investigating four men found in an automobile at Liberty avenue and Stanwix street early this morning. A blackjack and a pistol also were found in the car, police said.

At Central Police Station, where they were docketed as suspicious persons, the men gave their names as Ahmed Ali, 32; Abdul Raman, 27; Peher Khan, 28, and Menzan Djinp, 31. All claimed Turkey as their native land and 433 Watkins street, New York City, as their current address.

KNAPP'S CLAIM REJECTED

Charles E. Knapp, figure in the $320,000 Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company swindle, today lost his second claim against the estate of the late Attorney Rody P. Marshall.

Judge Thomas P. Trimble, of Orphans Court, in an opinion rejected Knapp's plea for $2,500, which the latter had claimed for releasing a judgment on the property of E. A. Goodfellow.

Knapp claimed that Marshall had promised to reimburse him if he would release the Goodfellow property lien so Goodfellow could use it for bail. Part of the money in the swindle was dug up on the property of Goodfellow, along Perrysville road, and Goodfellow was arrested.

Judge Trimble held there was insufficient evidence.

Knapp had also filed a claim for $2,500 which he contended Attorney Marshall had promised him if he would plead no defense to the charges he faced as a result of the bank swindle. This claim was not pressed. Marshall later purchased the Goodfellow property.

Ex-Prison Chaplain Open Forum Speaker

Former Chaplain Charles M. Miller, of Western Penitentiary, now connected with the parole department of the institution, will speak on "Parole Systems" at the open forum hour of the mid-week service tomorrow night in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church. "Prayer For a Missionary Spirit" will be the topic of the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee at the devotional period.

Columbus Knights Plan Card Party

A card party will be held tomorrow night by Allegheny Council, Knights of Columbus, in the club rooms, Sterritt Building, West Ohio and Diamond streets. Peter Hennigan is general chairman. He will be assisted by Walter Fath, William R. Claney, Sr., Thomas Hammill, Sr., Jerome Kelly, John Kelly, James L. Monahan, William Neely, Leon O'Neill, J. R. O'Brien, Joseph Schultz.

Ex-Car Dealer Jailed After 3-Year Hunt

A three-year search for David H. Smith, 38, former auto dealer, of New Castle, ended last night when Allegheny County Detective Frank Ritz lodged him in jail here. Smith is accused of obtaining $8,000 from three automobile finance companies through false pretense and fraud. He was traced to New Castle, where Ritz found him.

COUNCIL ORDERS TUBE PLAN STUDY

FAILURE MARKS EFFORTS TO KILL BILL

Council has adopted President James F. Malone's resolution continuing a special committee for further study of a street car subway from Water and Grant streets to Penn avenue west of Twenty-seventh street.

The special committee is empowered to recommend legislation for the construction and use of the subway after consultations with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pittsburgh Railways, Department of City Transit and the Better Traffic Committee.

FUNDS AVAILABLE

The resolution proposed to finance the subway with funds from the $6,000,000 bond issue authorized by vote of the people in 1919 for a subway in the First and Second Wards.

The bill proposes a connecting underground street car loop under Penn and Liberty avenues from Eleventh to Fifth streets.

Malone pointed out that the subway would permit the removal of all surface street cars from Grant street and from the congested produce district of Penn avenue.

DELAY OPPOSED

The resolution was adopted after an effort to send it to committee had failed. Immediate passage was favored by R. J. Alderdice, W. Y. English, John S. Herron and Harry A. Little. Opposed were Robert Garland, P. J. McArdle and Daniel Winters.

Objectors wanted the resolution first submitted to George S. Davison, chairman of the Transit Commission, which has spent much time and money studying the subway problem. Council is waiting a report promised by the commission since last January.

PRESBYTERIANS DEFEAT CHANGE

An overture calling for a change in the manner of selecting members of the general church council was decisively rejected by the Pittsburgh Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, meeting in First Church, Sixth avenue, today, after a debate.

The Rev. Dr. James H. Snowden, of the Western Theological Seminary, led the forces in support of the overture, while the Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney, of First Church, headed the opposition.

The proposed change would place appointment of the council, and a general advisory body to the general assembly, in the hands of the assembly. At present the members are chosen by the different presbyteries.

DELEGATES ELECTED

Eighteen commissioners, clergy and lay, were elected to the general assembly in St. Paul, May 16, as follows:

Clergy—Charles R. Zahniser, Council of Churches; A. E. French, Sharpsburg; David Lang, Shady Avenue; T. C. Tears, Waverly; S. T. Brown, Forty-third Street; D. Halenda, Ruthenian; R. W. Porter, assistant pastor, First Church; A. L. South, Finleyville; W. R. Farmer, Western Theological Seminary; alternates, J. W. Miller, Rennerdale; H. C. Gilson, Castle Shannon; Vernon Baker, Mayview; A. W. Davies, Hazelwood; A. L. Hall, Donora; Robert Humphreys, McKees Rocks; George Taylor, Wilkinsburg; O. D. O'Dell, Sewickley; W. L. McEwen, Third Church.

LAY COMMISSIONERS

Lay—Thomas Hood, Pleasant Hills; John G. Brant, Central, North Side; W. R. Reynolds, Lemington avenue; Roy B. Loerner, West View; G. D. Yeager, Troy Hill; Rudolph Cerny, Coraopolis; J. R. Ross, Oakmont; W. P. Barker, Sixth Church; Edward Betz, Knoxville; alternates, H. C. Feil, Central, Tarentum; T. P. Hepler, Natrona; C. A. Stokes, West Elizabeth; W. A. Boothe, Third Church; Paul Stuart, Cheswick; R. Jones, Tabernacle; William Schuette, South Side; R. O. Fulton, Highland; T. S. Brown, Bellefield.

The Rev. A. L. South, of Finleyville, was chosen moderator for the ensuing year, and the Rev. Dr. W. A. Jones was re-elected stated clerk.

Trolley Breaks Ribs, Sues for $15,000

Lizzie Graff, knocked down by a Pittsburgh Railways Company street car at Federal street and Park way, August 12, breaking two of her ribs, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court through her counsel, Morris D. Canter, for $15,000 damages. The plaintiff also alleges that she received other hurts which will be permanent.

TWO BRADDOCK DRIVERS FINED

Burgess W. L. Callahan in Braddock Police Court yesterday fined two motorists $5 and costs each following an accident at Eleventh street and Braddock avenue, Braddock. Each blamed the other for the collision in their testimony.

Joseph Smulczinski, Talbot avenue, Braddock, and John Audreysak, Indiana Harbor, were the drivers of the machines. No person was hurt in the collision, but both cars were damaged.

Today's Flagism

This is the anniversary of the surrender in 1865 of the army of Gen. Robert E. Lee, Confederate commander. Since that time there has been no further efforts to disrupt the union of states symbolized by the Stars and Stripes. On April 9, 1682, LeSalle, the French explorer, took possession of the territory at the mouth of the Mississippi River and named it "Louisiana," in honor of King Louis of France. The realm finally reverted to the United States in the form of the Louisiana Purchase—another rare financial bargain struck by early Americans.

Knocked Down by Auto, Asks Damages

Anna Kowalski, knocked down October 29, 1928, in Carson street, at Twentieth street, by a car owned by Frank Wamos, of McKees Rocks, has brought suit against the latter for internal hurts and injuries to her back, chest and head. Her husband, Andrew Kowalski, joins in the action. It is claimed that the defendant's automobile was being operated in a reckless manner.

Robbed of $15, Then Thrown Into River

An involuntary bath in the Allegheny River cost Joseph Grabowski, 275 Jones avenue, $15 early today.

He reported to police that two men tossed him in the river after holding him up and taking $15 from him at Twenty-ninth street and the Allegheny River.

New Cold Rolling Mill Held Success

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 9.—A. P. Steckel, president of the Cold Metal Process Company, announces that a new cold rolling mill in process of experimentation for the past year, is a mechanical and commercial success. The mill reduces cold steel from 1-10-inch thick to 1-1,200-inch. The mill is especially adapted for rolling strip tin plate and one such unit is now in operation at the Warren plant of Republic Iron and Steel Company.

Workman Loses Arm In Sheet Mill Roll

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., April 9.—Byron J. Yockey, 28, suffered a crushed left arm when it was caught in flattening rolls in the Arnold sheet mill of the United States Aluminum Company. His arm was amputated above the elbow in Citizens General Hospital.

RAIL HEAD APPROVES RADIO IN SCHOOL DRIVE

"It is my belief that the originators of the campaign to place radios in our schools are entitled to much commendation," says E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, of the Sun-Telegraph-Stanley-Warner Brothers' Radio-in-the-Schools campaign.

"The educational possibilities," he continues, "will be of great value, because programs suitable to all school grades will surely follow the installation of radios. Good programs oof music, lectures, and talks of general information will hold the attention of pupils and help them to remember what they hear, just as moving pictures give them better understanding of what they see. Radios will also aid teachers in their work of instructing."

IS HIGH TRIBUTE

Looking at the campaign from the point of view of a business man with the clear insight into the details of the plan attendant upon that attitude, Mr. Whiter's indorsement is a high tribute to the Radio-in-the-Schools campaign.

The arrangement which makes possible the accomplishments of this ideal without initial cost to the schools has been one of the main causes of the hearty approval of the campaign by many business men and educational leaders. By enabling any school or schoolroom which secures 125 orders for 13-week carrier delivery of the Sun-Telegraph to obtain a $138.50 8-tube No. 53 Atwater Kent Electro-dynamic free, many Pittsburghers see the accomplishments of the radio-in-the-schoolroom ideal.

MEETS APPROVAL

Schools and school children in and near Pittsburgh are taking the campaign seriously. Subscriptions are coming in to the Sun-Telegraph offices from huge high schools and tiny country school houses. Teachers and pupils are all taking an equal interest in securing this fine radio set for their own use.

Plans are nearly complete for initial broadcasting of school programs and will be completed as soon as installation is well under way. Installation of the sets should begin this week and increase in number as the campaign grows older.

The Stanley Theaters report a growing demand for blanks, both from children and from persons who desire to credit a school with their orders. Business firms are preparing to include the blanks in their delivery packages while interest in the campaign rapidly grows.

The slogan "Put a Radio in Every Schoolroom" is rapidly being caught up.

Drug Clerk Jailed For Selling Liquor

Herman Lowenthal, 24, a clerk for Ben L. Moses when the latter conducted a drug store at Craig street and Center avenue, was convicted in Federal Court of violating the prohibition law and sentenced to two months in jail by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. Government witnesses testified to having purchased two pints of gin from the defendant in the store last March.

THOUGHT SHE WAS INVALID FOR LIFE

Lady Asserts World's Tonic Helped Her Over a Crisis.

"Only a few weeks ago I thought I was sick for the rest of my life, and I did not care much how short that was, except for my children," said Mrs. C. Morgan, of Butler, Pa., to the World's Tonic interviewer. "I had been getting worse and worse in spite of the treatments I took, until every day my stomach would swell up after eating and I belched a great deal of the time. Sometimes there was much pain over my heart, and when I tried to go upstairs or walk up a hill I had to stop and get my breath frequently. These things came on after the birth of my baby, and I had to bottle feed the child, which has never been very strong. I had pains in my back and legs, and when I would stoop over I got so dizzy that I had to hold to something to get up. My bowels were very obstinate, so that I had to take a strong physic nearly every day. I had dark circles under my eyes and the back of my neck felt like it would break; the bottoms of my feet were so hot I had to stick them out from under the covers at night.

"Nothing I took did me any good. One day my husband heard one of the men in the mill talking about how much World's Tonic, the new medicine, had helped his wife, and on his way home he stopped and got a bottle of it. I scolded him for wasting his money, but it was one of the best investments he ever made in his life. That first bottle went right to the trouble. My bowels became regular, and one by one the troubles I had cleared up. Now I am on my fifth bottle, and it is wonderful how much better I am. The pains have left me, I am no longer dizzy, and I relish the food I eat.

"If I had known of World's Tonic six months earlier I would never have suffered so much, and I feel sure my baby would have been stronger and livelier. I certainly recommend World's Tonic to women who suffer as I did." This valuable medicine can be obtained of all Dow Stores (formerly McCulloch), or at any other first class drug store. (A-62)

TEN HERBS IS A WONDERFUL TONIC

Says Pittsburgh Lady; Promptly Relieved Her Chronic Ailments.

Probably no other medicine on the market today gives such far-reaching results as Ten Herbs, the famous new natural medicine, which has thousands of friends throughout this section. The remarkable success of Ten Herbs—its amazing power often to promptly end stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general weak, rundown condition—lies in its ten wonderful herbal ingredients. No matter how long you have suffered, or how many other medicines you have tried in vain, get a bottle of Ten Herbs today at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this medicine is being introduced. If you have read the local papers during the past year, you must know what astonishing results Ten Herbs has been giving your fellow citizens.

"Ten Herbs surely is a wonderful tonic and health builder," said Mrs. Anna Herman, 2706 Glasgow Street, Pittsburgh. "Even the first bottle made a great change in me. I used to be troubled with severe indigestion. Even the lightest food caused gas to form, and this gave me a terrible bloated feeling. My diet was very limited, for most food caused awful distress. Nothing I tried gave me relief from this condition. I had violent headaches that would last for days at a time. Terrible dizzy spells would cause me to faint. I was so nervous at night I could not sleep. There were pains across my back, and I had to arise several times during the night. I was also troubled with constipation, having to use physics several times a week. I felt tired and worn out most of the time. This condition existed for two years, and although I tried almost everything, I never got satisfactory results.

"I read of so many local people getting good results from Ten Herbs that I started using your medicine. It soon made a big change in me. Now I feel much better in every way and give all the credit to Ten Herbs. I am glad to endorse such a wonderful medicine to the public."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. D. M. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

NEURITIS FINDS DEADLY ENEMY IN NEW KONJOLA

Hospital Worker Relates Splendid Experience With Master Medicine of 32 Ingredients.

If there are those who may have the unhappy belief that there is no escape from the dread clutches of neuritis, they may take heart in the knowledge that Konjola, the new medicine, is triumphing over this torturing malady in thousands of cases.

MR. D. W. MANNING

Neuritis is a stubborn affliction, but Konjola is renowned for its success in stubborn cases. How Konjola achieves its remarkable results, with speed and thoroughness, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company, (formerly McCulloch's) Penn avenue and Sixth street, this city. There he is answering the questions of those who have heard and read of this amazing medicine, and who would like to know what it means to them in their quest for health. The Konjola Man does not deal in promises, claims nor honeyed phrases, but points out actual, proved, known, verified cases wherein Konjola has conquered where all else has failed. Konjola stands, not on high-sounding words, but on a foundation of deeds, of facts, of amazing recoveries. Take, for instance, the fine experience that Mr. D. W. Manning, hospital worker at the Mayview City and Home Hospital, this city, had with this master medicine. To the Konjola Man he said a few days ago:

"I had just about given up trying to find anything to rid me of the tortures of neuritis. It was, in my case, no doubt, the result of accumulated poisons in my system. Before I realized it this dread disease had a hold on me and an awful hold. Pains throughout my body were at times almost unbearable. I often felt that I could not stand them another minute. But I had to stand them, for not a medicine I tried did me the least bit of good. For ten years I constantly searched for the right medicine, but not finding it, I lost hope of relief and was losing in stamina steadily.

"Konjola came to my attention through the printed indorsements, and these seemed so sincere that I finally made up my mind to take a chance with Konjola. The new medicine worked like magic. My neuritis pains became less and less severe. Remarkable as it may seem, this new medicine gave me amazing relief with the first bottle. Imagine my happiness and surprise at being relieved of neuritis after ten years of intense suffering. There can never be another medicine like Konjola—it is the peer of them all. My body is free of pains and I know now what it means to have glorious health. I can readily understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends. It has certainly made a lifelong friend in me."

Konjola is made up of 32 scientifically blended ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs. They work directly on the ailing organs, attacking the disease at its very source. That is why Konjola conquers where all else fails.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company, (formerly McCulloch's) Penn avenue and Sixth street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away go indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

The BROADWAY MELODY by Jack LAIT

(Condensed from Yesterday.)

Eddie Scolds Queenie After She Calls Warry on The Telephone

(From a Scenario by Edmund Goulding.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Eddie Kerns, song plugger, has written the music for "The Broadway Melody," a big revue to be produced by the famous Zanfield. For two years Eddie has been engaged to "Hank" Mahoney and now he sees his way clear to marry her. She and her younger sister, Queene, are playing in vaudeville and Eddie summons them to New York and tells them he has managed to place them in the revue. They are overjoyed, but Eddie suddenly discovers that he's lost his heart to Queenie who has developed into a startling beauty in the two years since he saw her last. He keeps his secret from "Hank" and the girls turn down a long vaudeville contract for a chance to make good in the revue. Zannie, after seeing the "Mahoney Sisters" perform, decides that he could only use Queenie. She, however, appeals to him to also give her sister a chance in the show. He consents. "Hank" believes that she put it over. During a dress rehearsal Eddie shows the sisters the big ad in the newspaper announcing their coming to Broadway. When Hank kisses Eddie, Queenie cries. Zannie gives Queenie a place in the revue. She makes an impression and the two "angels" of the revue invite her out to dine after the show. Dore, one of the show girls, tells Queenie to watch her step with Worthington. Eddie questions Queenie about "Warry" and tells her to keep away from him. Ignoring Eddie's protest she goes out with Warriner. When "Hank" arrives home with Eddie she discovers Queenie in. The two "angels" are disappointed when Queenie wouldn't play their game. However, "Warry" sends the other half of the $1,000 bill to Queenie. Just as she is talking to him over the telephone, "Hank" returns and finds the torn $1,000 bill. She is worried about Queenie, who hides her sudden riches.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE Francis Warriners are not easily beaten. Generations of money, polish, influence, contacts, experience, education, power, give them weapons and the skill to use them.

Warry had gone as far as to openly admire and "go after" Queenie; he had given her the $1,000 bill, which, while not much to him, symbolized much; he had sent her an almost pleading note after she had curtly returned a "turn-down" in refusing his supper bid and the other half of the "grand" note; and now she had pleasantly but easily walked off with Hank and Eddie instead of remaining on stage to talk with him; and she had let Hank all but insult him after he had tried to "wish" himself into Queenie's birthday party.

Warriner, who knew the psychology of big bills, also knew a few other ticklers. When he left the theater he stepped to the nearest telegraph office and wrote the following message:

"Queenie Mahoney,
"Princeton Hotel,
"City.

"Please telephone me at the club some time this afternoon; regards.

"WARRY."

The message cost exactly 20 cents. A special delivery letter would have cost 12. A messenger boy with a note would have cost not less than half a dollar. Or Warry could have left a line at the desk, himself, for nothing. The difference of a few pennies had little to do with his telegraphing. But Warry knew that telegrams draw attention where other forms of communication do not.

Even in this day and age, even among men of millions, even in "show business," where an enormous share of all written interchange is via telegraph, there is still a lingering remnant—and a powerful one—of the old days when only extraordinary messages came in the well-known envelopes of the wire companies.

If you find a telegram and a letter on your desk, which will you open first? The letter may have come a long distance, via airmail, and its postage far exceed the cost of the dispatch from a nearby station; so it isn't that original outlay, as ratiocination of comparative values of the messages. There is just an impulsive sense back of telegraphing that makes it seem sudden, excited, last-minute—couldn't wait. The telegraph companies, themselves, recognize and traffic on this. Their wrappers are vivid colors, discernible immediately and in contrast against most mail envelopes.

Warry was right. Queenie received few telegrams. They were usually addressed to Hank or to the Mahoney Sisters. The clerk handed her this one, which she tore open with a perceptible tremble of her hands. A thousand possibilities flashed through her mind—was it from a relative announcing a legacy, or what? By this time she was reading it. Hank asked what it was all about. Queenie showed her. Hank sniffed—"H'm—he's got a lot o' crust, that bigtime beezark. I wouldn't spend a nickel on him."

But Queenie had already decided. Nothing could stop her from calling Warry . . . there was something mysterious about it . . . the magic blank had clicked just as Warriner had anticipated . . .

Queenie was more profoundly in the clutch of her love for Eddie than ever, since her altruistic resolution to tear herself from him and let Hank have him, and Warriner still seemed the only medium for reasonably accomplishing her reluctant but determined desire. Moreover, he intrigued her. She wasn't used to $1,000-bills, imported towncars, even telegrams.

When they reached their room, Hank sulked. Queenie had not answered. Hank did not want to press the question. She did not want to forbid Queenie. But she had hoped at least that Queenie would say "All right, Hank—if you don't want me to that's that." Or still better, "What do I want to call that pest up for?" But Queenie hadn't said a word. That was most unusual between these sisters who until a few hours before had never held a secret from one another, had known minor differences, but never a quarrel.

When Queenie said, with an obviously phoney yawn, meant to register annoyance, that she had to run back down and [illegible] herself a jar of lemon cream, Hank was too sick to protest. She knew that Queenie was not only disregarding her wishes, but was deceiving her—and that the girl meant to keep up the situation with Warriner.

Hank's only comment was to reach into her purse and hand something toward Queenie—it was a nickel!

A nickel would not buy lemon cream. The allusion was unmistakable. Queenie blushed and was about to "say her say"; for the youngster was not without temperament, or even temper! She wasn't Irish for nothing. She had never let loose on the more fiery Hank. But Hank had heard her at her best.

Queenie, with a toss of her pretty head, took the nickel and walked out. The slam of the door was pronounced enough to mean something but not sufficient to demand that Hank open it and demand how she got that way or where she got that stuff, which would have precipitated their first harsh exchange.

Queenie hurried to the drug store and bought her lemon cream. Then she telephoned. Warriner did not make love—his words were direct and plain—would she be his guest at a party on her birthday next evening?

For years Queenie had heard much backstage buzz-buzz about the parties "flung" by the rich Johns. She had never attended one. Hank wasn't much for that atmosphere, and hitherto Queenie had never gone, not only where Hank didn't want her to, but where Hank wasn't present, herself.

The scene with Hank, her plan to cut away from Eddie at any cost, even breaking with the sister she loved—since it was for Hank's own sake she was tearing herself from the boy she adored and whom she knew she could take from Hank if she tried to or let Eddie try to—abetted by this fascinating invitation and with the truly charming vision of Warriner on the horizon, prompted her to say yes on impulse. But she added that she must spend part of the evening in—she had promised.

He told her his car would be at her door—from 9 o'clock on—and at whatever time she thought best, she need only enter it and she would be driven to the roof bungalow apartment—there would be other ladies there, of course—thanks.

Queenie walked back with a consciousness of guilt, yet with an anticipation of excitement. After all, she was now in New York, glorified, entitled to taste the thrills that went with her position.

Behind it all was a noble purpose, she told herself, or it would never have gone so far. Besides, she must take a stand—not a hostile or belligerant one, but a definite and positive one—against further complete domination by Hank. Her sister had raised her, been a mother to her—but in time girls quit the apron strings of their mothers, and she was to be 19 in a few hours. That seemed a rather defensible demarkation at which to assert a bit of independence.

When Zannie had elevated her to the prow of the gorgeous love boat, he had, in fact, caused the first cutting of the knot. Queenie had never stepped a foot or spoken a word on a stage except with Hank. Now the two-act number had been scrapped before it was even warm, and the great producer had chosen her — alone — for the most conspicuous high spot in the greatest revue.

Everything had worked toward "splitting out" the unfamous Mahoney Sisters, standard on the "family time," but unknown elsewhere. They had clung together as long as they were allowed to.

Now the exigencies of a show on top of the world had acted; her sister's fiance had shown signs of falling in love with her; a handsome, rich and romantic metropolite had singled her out for his favors, his overtures and his attentions.

To defy all these gestures of the fates seemed impertinent to the young beauty.

Why shouldn't she step into a limousine with a uniformed chauffeur and be whirled to a skyscraper and swished up to the heavens and be wined and toasted? Warriner seemed "that way" over her, and not through any overt act on her, not through any framing or digging or maneuvering—he had seen her and he had fallen hard.

After all, if she succeeded in her painful yet imperative plot to take herself from the relations between Hank and Eddie, they would soon marry; then, herself bereft of the man she ached for, what would she be? Still the third in the proverbial "crowd." And every minute would be an agony of memories, maybe regrets.

She might as well find her own circle where there were at least fleshly and rosy offsets.

Having been just-a-sister all her life, it would be quite intolerable to become just-a-sister-in-law!

She entered the living room of the little suite.

Not Hank, but Eddie greeted her.

"Hank's gone over to see Uncle Bernie—she'll be right back," he said.

A weird feeling possessed Queenie.

It was the first time in all her life that she had ever been alone with Eddie—with Hank out of sight and hearing. What would he say? What should she say?

"H'm—wh-why Uncle Bernie? He's a vaudeville agent, that's all."

"So—you called up that Warriner!" he exclaimed, ignoring her query, and advancing toward her.

A look in her eyes that flared up suddenly, stopped before his outstretched hands could touch her—hands in an unfinished move which might have been to choke her or to embrace her.

"Who wants to know?" she shot at him.

His hands dropped. He gave a painful shrug.

"Nobody," he answered, weakly. "Nobody at all. Only your sister, who's eatin' her heart out over you, after all she done for you and has been to you—"

"Is that all? Just my sister?"

"What do you mean?" he asked, but not fiercely.

"I mean this, Eddie—I never worked in a three-act in my life—I've worked double, but never played double—if the team spilts I'll go single—is that clear?"

And before he could answer she swept past him, into the bedroom, and shut the door.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

BASIL, DO YOU KNOW THIS LITTLE CAT THAT HAS ENGAGED HERSELF TO OUR BULL?
OH! YES I KNOW HER FAMILY, WELL.
JUST BECAUSE BULL SAVED HER LIFE IS NO REASON WHY HE SHOULD MARRY HER, I DONT THINK IT'S FAIR AT ALL!
NO, I SHOULD DISLIKE A GIRL THAT WOULD TAKE AN UNFAIR ADVANTAGE OF A MAN!
OH! BASIL, I'M SO GLAD THAT YOU NEVER SAVED MY LIFE!

"My dear, I'm ALL-of-a-TWIT, no less, because BASil and I've just had the most Inty disCUSH about this strange affair of BULL'S, my dear, and I was ACtually TOO imPRESSED because he feels exACTly the same WAY about the situation that I do, my dear! I mean he thinks that little cat just got ROUND Bull and he said he'd dislike ANY girl who took such an unFAIR adVANtage of a man as to make him MARry her just because he saved her LIFE— can you BEAR it, my dear? Well, ANYways, I told him at that point that I was TERribly glad he'd never saved MY life because I mean if he HAD he might have conceived the notion that was the REASon we got enGAGED, but my dear I was emBARrassed to TEARS because he looked sort of BAFfled and nonPLUSSED and I s'pose it wasn't too TACTful a reMARK because I mean he can't SWIM a STROKE, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, you'll exPIRE with a faint PLOP when I confide the strange DEtails of the CONfab I had with ARab on the matter, my dear, because I HONestly think it's one of the most SCREAMING Incidences I've ever tried vainly to COPE with, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

The Big Crash

By N. Florence Leech

Daily Short Story

BRUCE MELTON, tall and dark-haired, entered the fashionable Hyacinth Tea Room, which was filled at this hour with leisure diners, vibrant with gay music and subdued conversation. Entering it was like a plunge into icy water—breath taking, but exhilarating.

He made his way to the empty table nearest the musicians, glanced at them quickly, then grinned with satisfaction. She was there. Under cover of his menu card he studied the slender, dark-complexioned violinist, and the fair-haired, lovely pianist. How beautiful the pianist was—every line of her body spelled grace, every movement was silent melody. Her name was Doris Clyde—Doris Clyde—a lovely name—Doris Clyde Melton.

Bruce presently became aware of a patient figure at his elbow. His glance shifted, annoyed. "Your order, sir?" the meek-voiced mulatto murmured.

"U-m," he scowled fiercely at the menu. "Bring me hot rolls, coffee, corn pudding and tomatoes, veal." Then he returned to his study of the lovely pianist.

It was exactly a week since Bruce, who was a prosperous young attorney, had brought a difficult client here for luncheon. The room had been crowded, and they had taken a table directly in front of the musicians.

The meal was half over, and his client appeased, before Bruce noticed her. But from that moment the dinner and his guest receded into hazy distance. As plainly as the address on a parcel post package, that girl was marked: "Mrs. Bruce Melton."

Next morning Bruce called himself a romantic fool, but at noon he found himself with fast beating heart at the same table. Doris' fingers, he noticed, were long, slender, unringed. She played smoothly, easily, as unaware of the crowd around her as a goddess.

The third day he sought to attract her attention, but she apparently did not see him. He had learned her name by bribing an interested waitress, plus information that she was a very particular young lady. Bruce was discouraged, but determined. He knew he would make headway if only he could manage to be presented to her. But the delay was maddening, for every time he saw her he loved her more. The shape of her little head, with its close cropped hair; the slender white neck, her quick moving, graceful fingers, thrilled him like the music of a great symphony.

Finally he determined to write. "I enjoy your music so much, and come every day to hear you play. I would like to speak to you if I may. If you will nod to me tomorrow, I shall be waiting for you when you leave. Most respectfully." But a literally cold shoulder was his only reply to the carefully worded note.

That was on Friday. Bruce decided to avoid the tea room on Saturday. He would put women from his mind, and go to the football game. He needed relaxation.

Who shall say that the gods do not enjoy an occasional sly jest? Bruce had barely settled himself in his seat when two girls, in bright sport coats and small hats, came in and found places nearby—Doris and the violinist, not 10 feet away, in the row below! What a piece of luck! Bruce leaned forward, listening for the sound of her voice. He beamed with satisfaction, and thrilled at her nearness.

By now preliminary cheers were echoing, and rival colors waving defiantly. The players were on the field. One brilliant play followed another, until the bleachers rose as one man and let out a roar as Roxie, the season's idol, made a touchdown.

That instant seemed prolonged, suspended in space, as with a sudden mighty cracking and rending the supports gave way, and a section of the bleachers crashed to the ground, carrying with it hundreds of spectators. Shrill screams of pain and fright rent the air, and a gasp of horror went up as attention shifted from the mimic warfare in the field to stark tragedy. Crises reveal leaders, and men of this caliber took charge. "Steady—no pushing. Keep your places, you're safe."

But Bruce was gone—he had plunged headlong into the vortex, among the struggling victims. The break had occurred not three feet from where he sat, Doris had disappeared, and he instinctively plunged down after her.

"Doris—Doris—Doris—" he shouted hoarsely.

"Here's Doris," a voice answered him. Peering through the dim light, he saw her crumbled on her side, lying half across a woman in black, and pinned under a long piece of planking. He managed with frantic tugs to push aside the long, heavy board. Slipping his arms under her, he lifted her out tenderly. Her friend was apparently unhurt, but hysterical. Suppose Doris was dead! Bruce pressed his lips to the cold cheeks, the closed eyes, the unresponsive mouth. A policeman spoke to him sharply. "Get her to a hospital; kissin' won't revive her." The words clarified his brains.

"Come on," he ordered the violinist. Out in the open air, he laid Doris down reluctantly, while a bare armed, grimy handed doctor—who was taking an afternoon off—hastily examined her. "Bruised, and I'm afraid her leg's broken. Are you her husband?"

"Not yet," Bruce answered, distinctly. The next instant he realized that her eyes were open, and fixed on him.

Chaotic, happy, miserable hours followed. Bruce was astonished to find, when he reached the hospital, that his ankle was hurt. All at once, he couldn't walk on it. "We'll order you a taxi," the doctor in the emergency room offered.

"Nothing doing. Since I can't walk, I'll stay right here," he replied.

After a time, he had his reward. Doris' mother came and wept on his shoulder. Her sisters and her brother thanked him excitedly, and shook hands with him over and over. "He saved her life," the little violinist kept repeating.

Late that night he was permitted to see his beloved. He hobbled in painfully, and sank into a chair by her bed. Doris opened her eyes, and looked at him and smiled. All the beautiful things he had planned to say to her were gone. He gulped. Then, he leaned down and kissed the faintly smiling lips.

"Darling," he said, "let me call in the nurse. I want her to introduce us."

New Skin Beauty

Sallow, Dingy Skin made Lovely —Coarse Pores become Fine— It corrects oily skin, heals eruptions and dissolves blackheads

Creamed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia is much better for the complexion than any soap or cleansing cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruptions and corrects oily skin.

And because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Being greaseless, it cannot fatten the face or grow hair. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. Until recently, creamed magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives, and nurses. But now the large druggists everywhere find it hard to keep enough on hand to supply the demand. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So, get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight. It costs almost nothing to try. It's Guaranteed!

No More Ugly Nose Pores

DENTON'S

Facial Magnesia

Makes poor skin lovely—keeps fine skin fine

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

Meditations of a Wife

Woman's Endurance Record

"AVIATRIX, up in the air two hours, shatters woman's endurance record." News item.

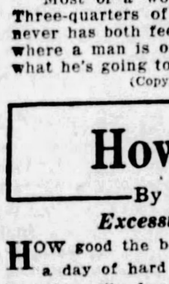
Magnificent! But it will take more than a daring flying feat to shatter woman's "endurance record."

* * *

Woman's ENDURANCE record goes back thousands of years, to the time when the first man went off and left her hanging up in a tree, wondering if he would ever come back.



HELEN ROWLAND

It dates back to the time when Anthony left Cleopatra "up in the air," while he sailed away to see what the boys were doing in Rome.

And to the time when Aeneas sneaked stealthily away and left Dido "up in the air." And to when Theseus lit out and left Adriane "up in the air," all alone upon an island. And to when Ulysses went wandering around from one woman to another, while he left Penelope "up in the air."

Yes, and even back to the time when Adam left Eve "up in the air," while he went off to see what the world was like, or to spend a few days with Lilith—and called it "going fishing."

* * *

Men are always leaving women "up in the air." And the average woman's "endurance record" is anything from 10 minutes to 24 hours a day. From half a year to half a lifetime!

Waiting for him to come back!

Waiting for him to telephone her!

Waiting for him to answer her LETTERS!

Waiting for him to look at her, or to dance with her or to discover that he loves her!

Waiting for him to propose MARRIAGE!

Waiting for him to come home to dinner!

Waiting for him to get up mornings!

Waiting for him to finish his newspaper, or to finish shaving, or to relinquish the bathroom, or to get out of the house mornings.

Waiting for him to find his shoes—or his hat—or his pipe—or his motor-gloves—or the tickets he left in his other clothes.

Waiting for him to get over a bad habit, or a foolish infatuation!

Waiting for him to TELL her something, or explain something, or admit something or SAY something or do something!

* * *

Most of a woman's life is just one long endurance record! Three-quarters of her existence is spent "up in the air." She never has both feet on the ground—because she never knows just where a man is or where he's going to be or what he's doing or what he's going to do!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Excessive Fatigue Warning of Trouble

HOW good the bed feels after a day of hard work! There is nothing like honest fatigue to give you a night of quiet, refreshing sleep. To get up in the morning with the desire to dance and sing is the enviable lot of perfectly healthy, right-living persons in youth and early adult life.

DR. COPELAND

It is natural to grow tired after a full day of toil, physical or mental. That is the feeling you should expect to experience.

But to get up in the morning just as tired as you were on going to bed is not natural. It is not a feeling that should be passed over as of little importance.

Unaccustomed fatigue and loss of ease in carrying the unusual load of daily duties is a state of affairs that demands attention. There is something wrong with you, and you should find out what it is.

Little children are in everlasting motion if they are healthy. The energy and activity of a young child are amazing.

Some time ago I was a caller at a home where there was a son about four years of age. We sat on the veranda, which was ten or twelve steps above the lawn. That boy must have gone down these steps and returned at least twenty times during the hour I was there. Each time he came back with a tale about some wild beast he had seen in the yard. I didn't know there were so many varieties of ferocious animals in the world.

Any normal youngster can keep up such efforts for hours every day. You don't need to be told there would be something wrong if a day came along when he refused to play and demanded to be held on the lap of his mother.

Once in a while I see a Senator, usually full of life, holding his head or leaning back in his chair for a half hour at a stretch. He is tired out and probably hates to admit it. In the cloakroom it is not unusual to see a tired legislator stretched out on a couch, attempting to get back his energy.

If there is a real excuse for fatigue, it is all right to experience the feeling. But if there is no explanation for being terribly tired, something is wrong.

Let us see what are legitimate excuses for being tired: Hard physical labor, continued mental effort, unusual work of any sort. Any one of these causes would explain satisfactorily the sense of fatigue.

But if the things that have a right to make you tired have not been done, something is wrong. To be tired out morning, noon and night, all the time, is a sign of trouble. Where is it?

Many a person is suffering the effects of a hidden infection. There may be abscessed teeth where the inflammation is so slight as not to be noticed at all. This is a common cause for lowered vitality, with excessive tiredness as the chief symptom.

Lack of nourishing food or a well-chosen diet, may result in undernourishment with inability to do the usual work. You just can't do your duties unless you are properly fed.

Constipation or failure of the kidneys to carry away the wastes of the body—both these conditions are capable of lessening vitality, with fatigue as a symptom.

If you are tired more than you should be, find out why. You are out of order.

Answer to Health Queries

ALICE B. Q.—What will correct round shoulders?

2.—What causes headaches in the morning?

A.—Try to walk erect. Wearing shoulder braces is also helpful.

2.—The common causes of headaches are: Eye strain, infected teeth, tonsils and sinuses, constipation, indigestion, auto-intoxication, high blood pressure, kidney conditions or catarrh. Have a careful examination including an eye test, to locate the cause of the trouble.

SISTERS—yet, what a contrast! Each seeing and enjoying life in her own way. Each secretly thinking the other rather foolish in her choice. I wonder with which one you agree?

It's rather plain, isn't it, which has chosen the wiser course?

A butterfly existence may have thrill after thrill until the butterfly loses her beauty and other butterflies flutter on the scene. Then she is ruthlessly cast aside for the newer, lovelier ones. And regretfully she thinks of her lost opportunities when it's too late.

But her sister who has chosen the harder road is by far happier. For in contrast to the butterfly, she has built for herself a home where love and happiness reign supreme. Tiny baby fingers take the place of caressing, flattering hands. Even Pat knows this home is ruled by love, for isn't he considered one of the family? Isn't he the self-appointed guardian of this realm of Love.

Contrasts! Each condemning while secretly envying the other yet one wouldn't change places for all the riches of the world. For love lasts—Beauty is fleeting.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

You Are Right

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When entering a drug-store and a total stranger (male) assists the young lady by opening the door, is it not proper for her to say "Thank you?" I have made it a habit of saying this; however, my girl friend says that I am wrong.

2. Also, knowing that it is always proper for the young lady to speak to the young man first is this also true when a young lady reports to work and says 'good morning" to her employer? Is it compulsory for her to say this first? My reason for asking you is that oftentimes an employer does not answer. Of course I presume that he is feeling grumpy just then.

3. A is introducing B (a gentleman to C (a young lady), but thinking that they have met, A asks B if he has met Miss C. Is it proper for A to ask B this question or C? If B does not recall meeting Miss C and Miss C does not recall the meeting shall she forget about it or would it be proper for her to make mention of the fact that they have already met? L. W.

NEVER mind what anyone says against your sure sense of politeness in this case, dear girl. Say your polite "Thank you," for it is the appreciative and mannerly thing to do.

2. Yes, say your "Good morning," even if Mr. Employer doesn't answer enthusiastically. He probably has many things on his mind, and part of our job is adaptability.

3. This is often an embarrassing moment, and each time it happens it must be solved anew. What generally happens is that neither (if he and she are accustomed persons) answers the question if apparently there is doubt in the expression of the other. For such an answer would be sure to embarrass. And really it is not necessary to answer this question. Of course, if A is explicit about where the meeting took place, then all is well: "Miss Allen, you remember Mr. Gear, whom you met at Helen Hillman's tea the other day?" Then of course everyone is at ease, and the conversational ball is set a-rolling.

No One Will Listen to Katie's Choice Bit of News

"WHAT'S the matter with our Katie?" Lillian asked with a grin as she came out on the veranda where Katherine and I were enjoying the view of rolling farmlands and meadows dipping down to the ocean-girt village miles away. "She's scuttling back and forth from the kitchen to the window in the dining room which commands a view of the front gate, with the fear of something burning written on her expressive countenance. And ever and anon, also occasionally, she is casting the most reproachful glances toward you, Madge. Haint you done right by her?"

"All I've done is to keep out of her way since she came home from the mysterious errand for which she asked to have luncheon set ahead," I returned morosely. "She's very anxious to talk to me, I gather from her manner, and—"

"Then you certainly can be hauled before a court for inflicting 'cruel and unusual punishment'—isn't that the way the Constitution reads?" Lillian retorted. "I can't imagine any more fiendish torture for Kate than being obliged to keep her mouth shut when she wants to spill something. But what's she running to the window for?"

"That's easy," Katherine said, smiling. 'Mary and—young Mr. Jackson—haven't returned from their drive yet and Katie's afraid they won't be here when she's ready to put dinner on the table."

"If Katie guessed who young Jackson really was," Lillian said, lowering her voice, "not even a burning dinner would keep her nose from being glued to the window pane until he arrived. Here's hoping she remains in ignorance until our royal butterflies flutter back to their fatherland."

"You seem very sure they're going back," I said despondently.

Lillian put an imaginary lorgnette to her eyes, looked at me intently, then turned to Katherine.

"Is this just ordinary blues, or a case for a doctor?" she demanded. "I haven't seen the old dear so dolorous since the hound pup lost his ear. What's happened this afternoon? I've nearly slept the clock round, only wakened a few minutes ago."

"And a good thing, too," Katherine commented, "if you carry out your plan of starting at daybreak day after tomorrow on that motor trip. I want you to do the same thing tomorrow afternoon, also. But being asleep, you've missed some of the vaudeville acts we've been staging, and which are responsible for the grouch of our revered hostess."

"Then hurry up and serve the soup before it gets cold," Lillian told her impudently, settling deeper into her chair and curving her arms comfortably over her head.

With voice cautiously lowered, Katherine told her of Katie's trip to Quogue, accompanied by the suitcase, bulging with flamboyant mourning garments, of Mother Graham's tantrum at Katie's request to have luncheon a half hour earlier for our little maid's convenience, and of Mary's telephoned request to Prince Georges that he take her to Easthampton, which had made me drive hastily to that charming relic of old Colonial life on Long Island.

"But though Madge quartered the streets of the village and the roads leading out of it, not a sign of the young people did we see," Katherine finished. "No wonder she's grouchy with a whole afternoon wasted."

"I wouldn't call it wasted," Lillian said, as she changed her indolent attitude to an alert attentive one. "She's proved pretty conclusively that Mary didn't go to Easthampton. The corollary to that is that she didn't intend to go there, and purposely misled any chance hearer of her conversation. Perhaps our super-sleuth, Katie, had better luck."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, April 10

ACCORDING to the position of the planets ruling this day, many steps may be taken in the direction of important destinies. Continued efforts in the service of long-established institutions, fidelity to elderly persons, as well as industry and application in all lines of endeavor, are slated, according to the stars, for reward and recognition. The feminine interest may be conspicuous, not only in matters of favors and preferment, but sentimentally. Personal affiliations should be happy and prosperous and new projects should flourish. But be on guard against flighty or hasty judgments or scandal.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of recognition and reward for faithful service and diligence, especially to elderly persons and institutions. Purely personal associations also should thrive and have happy denouments. New projects share the auspicious rule, but be on guard against rash jurgments or false reports.

A child born on this day may have many substantial talents and virtues, reaping happiness and prosperity for worthy endeavors.

HILL FACES TIGERS TODAY

Entitled: Local Boy Having a Good Time at Hot Springs

"HORTON SMITH"

Alias James (Red) Mason, the veteran local manager of boxers, as he appears at Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been resting up for several weeks to get in shape for a season of raucous rooting for or against the Pirates at Forbes Field. In a letter accompanying these exclusive pictures of himself, Mason asked if there wasn't a marked resemblance to Horton Smith, the great young golfer, in this picture of himself in the role of "What the Well-Dressed Golfer Will Wear."

THE TRAIL BLAZER IN THE "COVERED WAGON"

Another view of James (Red) Mason in a playful moment. Note the Tom Mix hat, the Conestoga wagon, or prairie schooner, and the two oxen, which likely are the latest additions to his stable. There is no extra charge for the scenery. Incidentally, since the advent of Mason at the Spa, the residents have petitioned the government to change their postoffice address to read "Hot Air Springs, Ark."

YODELER

Mason in another trick pose. He is supposed to represent an Alpine mountain climber who doubles in brass as a Swiss bell-ringer and yodeler on Sundays. These pictures are being treated as strictly confidential matter because Mason, in enclosing them in his letter, requested that he be given no publicity whatever on the subject, a most unusual request, indeed, coming from him.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Tauscher Ninth to Go.
Pirates Have 29 Left.
Plaid May Have Boxing.
Steffen Not Coming.
Fuchs Sees Its Folly.
Hoppe at Three Styles.

RAIN PREVENTS ONLY TWO BUC GAMES

THOUGH Donie Bush has never massed his cutting-down operations to such an extent as John McGraw diid the other day in releasing seven young Giants at one clip, the Pirate skipper's ax has been swinging at a rapid rate since he began the work of reducing the size of his spring squad. When Walter Tauscher's head fell into the basket it marked the ninth Pirate release since the opening of the training camp.

Walter Tauscher

Pitcher Lee Roy Mahaffey and Outfielder Carl Frey were sold to Portland, Mahaffey to complete the deal of Larry French, and Frey under option; Pitcher Glenn Spencer went to Wichita under option; First Baseman Willis Windle was transferred to Omaha under a similar agreement; Pitcher Homer Blankenship was turned back to Dallas; Pitcher Duncan MacKay, Outfielder Louis Martin and First Baseman Basil Panella were let go unconditionally, and now Pitcher Tauscher goes to Dallas to complete the deal for Blankenship. The latter transfer shows one of the queer angles of baseball dealings. Pittsburgh bought Blankenship from Dallas, and as part of the consideration agreed to turn over another pitcher this spring. Blankenship was a failure and was sent back to Dallas several weeks ago, but the Pirates had to keep their word just the same and give Dallas another pitcher in the person of Tauscher to pay for a hurler who was not kept.

ANOTHER minor league deal in which the Pirate owners were stung was the purchase of Pitcher Heinie Meine from Kansas City. The Pittsburgh club gave Kansas City both cash and playing material for Meine, but the latter demanded a salary of $15,000 and was allowed to remain at his home in Luxemburg, Mo.

No club claimed Meine when waivers were asked, and as his refusal to join a big league club for less than $15,000 naturally would deter any minor league club from buying him, He is a total loss to the Pittsburgh club, and the latter is "out" the entire sum paid for him. He will automatically go on the ineligible list 10 days after the season opens. Counting Meine, the Pirates still have 29 players on their roster, or only four above the summer limit. The list is made up of four catchers, 13 pitchers, seven infielders and five outfielders. Two more from among Chagnon, Erickson, O'Connell and Jones are to be released today or tomorrow.

CARNEGIE TECH may widen the scope of its intercollegiate athletic competition next winter by having a boxing team. Graduate Manager Clarence Overend thinks college boxing is a fine sport and admits that he would like to have a team developed at the Schenley Park school.

The carrying out of the plan will depend upon what sort of material is found available in the fall. There are two good boxers on the football squad in Johnny Dreshar and Alexander Ducanis, but both are heavyweights, Dreshar scaling 190 pounds and Ducanis 184.

Clarence Overend

IF good prospects for the various other divisions can be uncovered when school reopens in the fall, a boxing coach will be engaged and a team developed for competition in the college ranks. In this section the only chance for dual meets would be with Penn State and West Virginia, as Pitt and Washington & Jeff are not represented by glove teams. Carnegie Tech had a boxing team for about three seasons more than a decade ago, but was forced to give it up as its football income, which carries most other sports along, was not so heavy then as it has since become.

FOR the present, the Plaid athletic officials are giving all of their attention to the spring football practice, which opened yesterday, and which will continue for two weeks under the direction of Coach Bob Waddell. No attempt will be made to do any work beyond mere fundamentals.

In connection with the gridiron practice Advisory Coach Wally Steffen has changed his plans again. He sent word yesterday that he could not be able to come here next Saturday from Chicago, as proposed, and requested that instead, Coach Waddell make a trip to the Windy City to confer with him. Accordingly, Waddell will leave Friday night and will spend Saturday with the judge going over the Plaid football situation.

HAS it finally dawned upon Emil Fuchs that it takes a real baseball man to run a team on the playing field, and that he would be only standing in the way of his own club's chances for success if he were to carry out his plan to manage the Braves?

Grover Alexander

No official statement is yet forthcoming, but it is significant that Fuchs has left the Boston team in Johnny Evers' charge for the remainder of the training trip and has gone to Boston to attend to the business arrangements for the opening. One of Fuchs' friends say that Evers has been made manager of the team in the full sense of the word and that it is unlikely Fuchs will sit on the Braves' bench.

JUST how far Grover Alexander is from being through in spite of his 42 years may be judged from the fact that the Cardinal management is seriously thinking of picking him to pitch the opening game against the Reds one week from this afternoon. Alexander appears to realize that he has reached the sink-or-swim stage in baseball this year, and that they'll be putting him on the skids at the first sign of a weakening. Accordingly he has trained so hard that he is said to be in better spring shape than in any previous year since he joined the Cards, and there is a chance of his being sent to the mound for the first game of the pennant race. Against the Yankees the other day he pitched six innings without being scored on. Alex hurled the second game of the opening series against the Pirates last spring and shut them out, 5 to 0.

SUCH a development as the calling off of the Pirates' scheduled exhibition game with Detroit in Shreveport yesterday means no worry to Pittsburgh fans. It has been a fortunate spring for the Bucs as far as weather conditions were concerned. The only other game knocked out was the one with the Giants scheduled for the first day in San Antonio, and even then the squad was given a workout. Only two days' work was lost at Paso Robles, and with just one other day lost in traveling on March 26, it will be seen that the Bushmen in 45 straight training days to date have been wholly idle on only three.

So in a general sense, the club is certain to be in good condition for the opener next Tuesday in Chicago. The only individual exceptions are Pie Traynor, Paul Waner and Sparky Adams, and of these Waner will be fairly well advanced in his training and Adams' injured leg probbly will have completely recovered. Traynor is the one source of worry, and even in his case reports are daily becoming more encouraging. There is no longer any doubt that when Pie is ready to play he will go back to third base. Bush has definitely decided upon his starting team, and also to take another chance with Adams at shortstop, as a last resort, with Bartell at second, Traynor at third, and Grantham in left field. Gratham failed to impress in his tryouts at either second or third.

ALLEN HALL'S sensational winning streak at three-cushion billiards was broken last week, when Willie Hoppe defeated him in

BUCS EAGERLY AWAIT PAY CHECKS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SHREVEPORT, April 9.—The present jaunt of the Pirates has been a pleasant one for the boys in many respects, but right at the present writing they are like the young fellow who went up to hit with important runners on the bases and who played a waiting game instead of swinging at a good pitch.

"What are you waiting for?" exclaimed the angry manager.

"Pay day," retorted the rookie.

"Eight days more and the pay will start," sang a Pittsburgher yesterday, and he was not recruit either. It's a long grind from the middle of February to the middle of April without any visit from the paymaster.

GET MEAL MONEY

The Pirates give the players a liberal sum for their food, but at this time of year some of the youngsters divert the cash into other channels. They get sufficient to eat and still take in a movie or two.

But once the pay checks do start, there are many big-leaguers who beat the bricklayer, the plumber and candle-stick maker, to paraphrase an old one in a rather sour manner. Just imagine what Boys like Paul and Lloyd, Harleigh Grimes, and Pie Traynor draw for two weeks fun.

Once a ball player always a player, and a major league club cannot get to any town that doesn't produce a celebrity or two. Poi Perritt, a star of the Giants some years ago and Harry Kane, a Pirate southpaw back in 1903, were among the visitors yesterday. Perritt is in the oil business, while Kane has been a Texas League umpire for ten years.

GOOD GOLF COURSES

The Broadmoor Country Club attracted a few non-combatant members of the party yesterday. Texas has all kinds of good golf courses and when the team came across the Louisiana line more pretty layouts were found.

Sparky Adams was all set to go into battle yesterday when rain interfered. Adams is due to play the shortfield this afternoon, with Dick Bartell cavorting around the keystone sack. George Grantham is the regular left fielder for the present.

Hickory Bob Harmon, who used to do his stuff on the mound for the Buccos, is a farmer in this neighborhood. Bob is expected in from the cross-roads before the Buccos leave.

BUTCH WINS IN NATIONAL TOURNEY

BOSTON, April 9.—Mose Butch, of the Pittsburgh aggregation, was the only member of the Steel City squad to win in the first round of the National A. A. U. boxing championship tourney which started here last night. Butch won in the 118-pound division, outpointing Henry Schmid, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

One Pittsburgher was knocked out. Anthony Stropos, of Philadelphia, put away Johnny Toth, of Pittsburgh, in the second round in the 175-pound class. Joe Lillich, of Holy Cross, defeated Frank Novak, of Pittsburgh, in the heavyweight milling, and Al Santora, of New York, won over Harold Taylor, of Pittsburgh, in the 126-pound fighting.

SIXTY-FOUR SURVIVE

Sixty-four boxers from 16 cities remained in the tournament when the first night's program came to an end early this morning. Thirty-nine of the successful battlers fought their way into the second round bouts and the other 25 had the good fortune to advance on byes.

After eight hours of boxing, first honors went to the New York team, which placed eight of its members in seven of the eight classes. Boston and San Francisco each had seven survivors and Philadelphia followed with six battlers advancing into as many classes. Buffalo, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Baltimore

HEIDELBERG TILT ORDERED TO CLEVELAND

By TOM BIRKS

What appeared to be the parting of the ways between officials of the United States Football Association and the Western Pennsylvania soccer fans was reached late yesterday when a telegram signed J. J. McEwan, of Cleveland, secretary of the National amateur cup committee, reached Harry Fairfield local commissioner and member of the same committee, saying: "Have had a conference with Patterson, (meaning Armstrong Patterson, president of the United States Football Association,) and he recommends that on account of the Magyars being unable to field a full team in semi-final game at Pittsburgh that game be switched to Cleveland same date. Letter follows."

FAIRFIELD RESIGNS

This telegram, in the first place, caused the immediate resignation of Harry Fairfield from the National amateur committee, and probably will mean that Heidelberg will not make the trip. On the other hand, the local former National amateur champion may carry its case to the National commission.

Of course, there is a dule in the competition stating that no appeal may be taken from the ruling of that committee, but no committee can have final say to a question of that sort.

Never in the history of soccer in the states has a team refused to make a trip on such an excuse. The Magyars are apparently afraid to meet Heidelberg here, fearing that the Green and Gold will repeat the dose it handed them two years ago, when Heidelberg won, 5 goals to 0.

OFFICERS BADGERED

It is common knowledge that Ohio is clamouring for the National trophy, but it was hardly thought its National officers would be badgered into submission by the officers of the Magyars.

It was a similar attitude former national officers held in making Pittsburgh teams do all the traveling becaise Sunday football, is not permitted here. President Armstrong Patterson is on record recommending changing this, especially when Pittsburgh is the only city to show a profit for the National body in a amateur final game. Heidelberg appealed to Patterson last night on the committee's ruling.

New York Co. Buys Raceland Equity for $100

GREENUP, Ky., April 9.—(A.P.)—The S. S. Lyric Company, of New York, purchaser of Raceland track, at a mortgage sale, yesterday bought the equity of redemption for $100, and costs of court action.

The sale was made under the law which provides that when property is sold on a court order for less than two-thirds its appraised cost the equity of redemption is accorded to the original owner. The New York concern bought the track last November for $200,000. Its appraised value was $400,000.

MAYS DEFEATS CON O'KELLY

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—(AP.)—Harold Mays, Bayonne, N. J., heavyweight, won the decision over Con O'Kelly, Ireland, in a 10-round bout at the arena last night. Mays weighed 181 pounds, seven less than O'Kelly.

Mays, a sparring partner of Gene Tunney in the latter's two fights with Dempsey, was far too clever for the wild-swinging O'Kelly.

Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles, 140, knocked out Jackie Brady, 147, Syracuse, N. Y., in the eighth round of the scheduled 10-round semi-windup. Gans dropped Brady for short counts in the seventh and then sent him down for the count in the eighth.

Maurice Holtzer, French lightweight, won a 10-round decision over Al Gordon, Philadelphia, by a narrow margin. Holtzer weighed 136½ and Gordon 131½.

BUCS IN SHAPE FOR OPENER NEXT WEEK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SHREVEPORT, April 9.—One week from today will bring the zero hour for the shock troops of baseball. The 16 clubs of the two major leagues jump off next Tuesday with exciting races and much interest freely predicted.

The Pirates and Cubs, as they swing into action in Chicago, are almost sure to play to more than 40,000 people if the weather is anything like the kind desired for a diamond festival. The fascinating Bruins have charmed the folks of the big city on Lake Michigan and the Buccos look for an interesting four games while they sojourn at Wrigley Field.

BUCS IN CONDITION

Aside from Pie Traynor, whose hip injury makes him a problem, the Buccos are all set for the ordeal. Conditioned almost to the point of perfection, the Freebooters ask no quarter and they will give none with the arrival of the day that brings glory and pay checks.

For almost two months the Pittsburgh hosts have traversed the West and South in pursuit of youthful vigor and their search has not been in vain. Practically every man in the squad is close to top condition, and even Capt. Traynor, provided he could get an O. K. on his hip, could be in shape to do his stuff in a few days.

The Pirates and Tigers will make another attempt to compete at the Shreveport Park this afternoon. Wet weather kept the major league clubs apart yesterday, but both Donie Bush and Bucky Harris, rival pilots, have hopes of getting together today.

HILL TO WORK TODAY

The elements have been very kind to the Pirates since they left California two weeks ago, so that the day of idleness did not cause any annoyance; in fact, more than one athlete was glad of the chance to be free. Manager Bush ordered his pitchers and catchers to the ball park as soon as the contest was declared off, but Bush changed his mind about the practice session as the rain continued to fall. The sharpshooters, therefore, were excused from the contemplated drill.

Bush stated this morning that he probably would use Carmen Hill against the Tigers in today's game. Hill was ill Sunday in Dallas, but he is just about O. K. again. Jess Petty is the second choice, in case there is the need of another twirler.

MAYS DEFEATS CON O'KELLY

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—(AP.)—Harold Mays, Bayonne, N. J., heavyweight, won the decision over Con O'Kelly, Ireland, in a 10-round bout at the arena last night. Mays weighed 181 pounds, seven less than O'Kelly.

Mays, a sparring partner of Gene Tunney in the latter's two fights with Dempsey, was far too clever for the wild-swinging O'Kelly.

NEWTON DROPS AND BEATS GOLDSTEIN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

By actual count, Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., led one and three-quarters times in his eight-round windup battle with Phil Goldstein, of the Hill, at Motor Square Garden last night, yet he carried off the unanimous decision of the judges and the referee. He earned it through his harder punching, and a couple of knockdowns he scored in the second round, but I shudder to think what a fight it would NOT have been if Goldstein had been as lacking in aggressiveness as the light-haired clubber whose knock-out victories have made him more or less of a sensation in these parts.

Strictly a counter fighter, Newton could not be coaxed into leading. Throughout, he lay back with his right fist cocked, waiting for Goldstein to lead and then blazing away for the chin with everything wrapped up in the sock. A few times, Goldstein, who is nobody's chump in a padded ring, slowed down and waited and even motioned for Ray to cut out loafing and do his share of the leading, only to be told by the referee to get down to business and keep leading himself.

KNOCKDOWNS DECIDE BOUT

Goldstein, through his boxing and forcing, carried off five of the eight rounds, but he did not do enough damage to even up for the heavy hitting of his opponent, and the second knockdown in the second round definitely swung the tide against him in the balancing of the score at the finish. He fought gamely and willingly, only to find the cards stacked against him in the form of a foe who would not lead but always had one loaded up for him when Phil took the initiative.

The decision was popular with the fans, who naturally like the punchers. But some night they'll find Newton in a ring with the same type of counter fighter as himself and then they'll be yelling to have both thrown out and run outside the city limits.

Goldstein carried the first round by a shade. He did all of the forcing, was whipped with a hard right on the button midway in the round and shook it off and finished cuffing Newton in a clinch.

Phil also was out in front in the second round until he almost met sudden death in the closing minute. He was outstepping Newton and scoring points on his boxing when suddenly Newton let go a left instead of a right to the head and Goldstein, partly off balance, went down in a sitting position. It was a knockdown, but only a momentary one, and so anxious was Goldstein to show that he wasn't hurt that he scrambled up without a count and tore into Newton in his characteristic fashion. Clear across the ring he dashed, to a neutral corner, only to run into a socklologer on the chin that sent him down again, this time badly dazed. He took a count of nine on one knee and got up woozy and had all he could do to get by until the bell. It was a close call from a knockout defeat.

RALLY FALLS SHORT

Newton scored heavily at the start of the third round, but Phil continued to set the pace and won the round by a shade on his more frequent scoring. He also carried the fourth round by a slight margin.

Eastern College Net Tourney "Open"

NEW YORK, April 9.—(INS.)—P. S. Van Bloem, president of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, announced today that this year every college in the country would be eligible to compete in the Eastern intercollegiate tennis championships, which will be held in Brooklyn during the week of June 17-22. Heretofore, the championship has been restricted to a number of colleges in the metropolitan district.

Van Bloem predicts that the Eastern tourney will soon rival the national intercollegiates, and that it will not be long before it takes its place with the major tennis tournaments of the season. In fact, this year's Eastern championship is expected to draw an entry of close to 100 college stars from all over the South, for invitations have been sent to 30 universities, from East, West and South, alike.

DE MAVE TO BOX M'FOWLER IN GARDEN RING

And now come the heavyweights.

Announcement was made at Motor Square Garden last night that Jack DeMave, the Golden Boy, of New Jersey, and Ike McFowler, Negro heavyweight, of Johnstown, will meet in the 10-round main bout in the East End arena next Monday night.

McFowler has been cleaning up all manner of opposition, and the promoters have found it difficult to sign worthy opponents for him. In facing DeMave he meets one of the most experienced big fellows in the game. A week ago, Jack boxed a draw with Bud Gorman at Newark, N. J., and, among others, he has fought Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Jim Maloney, Johnny Risko, Arthur DeKuh, Johnny Grosso, Jack Warren, Chuck Wiggins, Harold Mays, Sandy Seifert, Young Bob Fitzsimmons, Maxie Rosenbloom and Carl Carter.

DeMave has engaged in 60 bouts and never has been knocked out, despite the high-class opposition he has faced. He floored Jim Maloney eight times in one of their fights and is known as a great club fighter.

Harry Spencer and Red Ryan, rival 155-pounders, of Washington, Pa., will box in one of the six-round preliminaries to the Battling Gizzy-Joe Boychan bout at Little Washington next Monday night.

Al Singer, the New York featherweight sensation, is matched with Willie Michel, the Belgian, in Cleveland, April 22, and with Ignacio Fernandez in Madison Square Garden, New York, May 3, in the main event of a card for the benefit of the Bronx Hospital. Michel, who recently drew with Davy Abad, boxes Al Greenfield in Chicago tonight.

Promoter Jim Mullen is trying to arrange a Mickey Walker-Rene DeVos bout for the middleweight championship at White Sox Park, Chicago, in June.

CHAMPS BUSY FRIDAY

Three world champions will be in action Friday night. Joe Dundee, the welterweight ruler, despite the fact that the National Boxing Association has handed his title to Jackie Fields, meets Al Mello in Boston; Corp. Izzy Schwartz, generally regarded as the flyweight champion, boxes Boy Walley, of Manilla, at San Francisco, and Sammy Mandell, undisputed lightweight champion, meets Benny Duke, of Grand Rapids, at Grand Rapids. Bushy Graham and Kid Chocolate box a 12-rounder in the new Coliseum, New York, the same night.

Billy Wallace and Tommy Grogan, a couple of solid hitters, collide in the main bout at Olympia, Detroit, Thursday night, with Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, an Johnny Mellow boxing the 10-round semi-final.

Walter Taylor, Cleveland promoter, will hold popular price shows in the Taylor Bowl, Cleveland, weekly beginning May 21. He will have 6,000 seats at 50 cents, as many more at $1, 3,000 at $1.50 and only six rows of ringsides at $2. He plans to run every Tuesday night.

TWO BOUTS FOR RISKO

Johnny Risko meets Frank Florian, recent graduate of the amateur ranks, in the main bout of a show at Lorain, O., next Monday night, and Joe Sekyra at Dayton, O., May 6.

Tommy Freeman boxes Gorilla Jones in the 12-round main bout of a show in Public Hall, Cleveland, tonight. Paul Pirrone and Russie LeRoy box the semi-final and other bouts include: Jimmy Borde vs. Joey Goodman, Pablo Blanco vs. Johnny Holstein, and Billy Ineman vs. Frankie Rio. Tony Canzoneri boxes Eddie Anderson at Milwaukee, and Sammy Tisch meets Lou Massey in New York.

Johnny Hooper, who works in the press room of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, is one of the entrants in the open amateur tournament at McKeesport Wednesday and Thursday nights. He is a lightweight and hails from Beechview.

Joe Dubranski, of McKeesport, manager of Teddy Welch, wants to match Teddy with Young Rudy, victor over Tiger Joe Randall. According to Dubranski, Welch and Rudy have fought each other only 11 times and that hardly seems enough. It's always a great fight when they get together, and the fates have been keeping 'em apart lately. Welch, who is 22 years old, has had 173 bouts in the six years he has been in the ring, of which he has won 144, drawn seven and lost 22.

BRODD FACES CRUTCHFIELD

Charley Brodd, the McKeesport Swede, faces a tough one in Kid Crutchfield, the Negro veteran of the Hill, in the semi-final to the Tommy Milton-Jackie Rodgers bout at the Moose Temple Friday night. Crutchy started out as a middleweight and has grown into a 185-pounder and is tricky and a good hitter. Promoter Flynn will round out his program today.

James (Red) Mason announces that neither U. S. Carpentier nor Johnny Windsor is any longer under his management.

Billy Henderson, of Boston, manager of Andy Martin, who last week thrilled the local fans with his neat exhibition against Midget Mike O'Dowd in the Motor Square ring, writes that Andy is resting up his left hand, which he injured in that battle, but will be able to go again in a week or so, and the Boston Madison Square Garden is trying to secure Kid Chocolate, Benny Bass or some other worthy opponent for him at an early date.—HARRY KECK.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

What difference, if any, should there be in the assortment of clubs carried by a woman golfer as compared with those carried by a man?

Answered By

ABE G. ESPINOSA

One of America's Leading Professionals. Western Open Champion, 1928. Chicago District Open, 1928.

A first-class woman player should have just as large an assortment of clubs as a first-class man player. There should be a difference in weight and whip, but there is no reason for a difference in assortment.

NEWTON BEATS GOLDSTEIN

with Newton always dangerous as Phil led the fight to him.

The fifth round was Goldstein's best. He forced the going all the way and appeared to be en route to an uphill victory when he got home an overhand right to the jaw that jarred Newton and made him hold on in a clinch. Goldstein tried hard to follow up his advantage, but was wild and ran into three hard counters that slowed him down. He went back to boxing and outscored his opponent until the gong sounded.

In the sixth, Newton several times rocked Goldstein with rights to the head. Phil took them and then tried to escape being a target by coaxing Newton to lead, but Ray wouldn't and the fans and the referee hopped on Phil. It was Newton's round.

Newton had the seventh round by a shade. He nailed Goldstein with a hard left and then a right along the ropes and they traded rights in a slugging bee. Phil stood the punishment well.

The final round found Goldstein the aggressor from bell to bell and winning the session, despite some hard counters by Newton, but he was unable to overtake Newton for the decision.

Goldstein weighed 136 pounds and Newton 133 at 3 p. m.

BILLICK BEATS DUGAN

Dan Billick, of Duquesne, Goldstein's stablemate, defeated Mickey Dugan, of Cleveland, who was seconded by Tom McMahon, former heavyweight, of New Castle, all the way in the semi-final, an unsatisfactory fight because both were boxers working at their trade against each other and their styles didn't blend. Billick, however, was the aggressor and lost only one round, the fifth. The judges disagreed, and Referee Joe Keally's vote gave the fight to Billick, to whom it belonged. Dan weighed 120 pounds against 122¾ for his opponent.

The second bout was the best on the card. It was a "murder" such as might be expected with Leo Kyburski, of Swissvale, and Johnny Windsor, of Herron Hill, in there against each other. Kyburski came from behind to win it after taking a severe drubbing in the first three rounds. He weakened Windsor with body blows and finished in much the better condition. The judges agreed on Leo, while the referee's vote, which didn't count, was for a draw. Kyburski weighed 156½ pounds and Windsor 159.

MAHAN KNOCKED OUT

Paddy Mahan, of Charleroi, was the victim of a sudden technical knockout in the sixth round of the opening bout, also scheduled for eight rounds, after he had piled up a big lead on Ken Hargraves, Negro, of New Kensington, with his classy boxing. With Mahan going along setting a pace well witnin himself, Hargraves suddenly uncorked a right to the jaw that dazed Paddy and followed it up. He forced Mahan into a neutral corner, where he clipped him with another right that caused Paddy to sag to the floor. Hargraves hit him again as he was down and was chased back by the referee. Paddy started to get up, but went down again and took a count of four. He was groggy when he arose and ran into another crashing right on the chin and then Referee Keally stepped in to save him from further punishment. The round had gone 1 minute 58 seconds.

Mahan had won the first, second and fourth rounds, lost the third and held his own in the fifth, and was coasting along nicely until he met disaster.

The crowd was fair in size. The judges were Frank (Bull) Brown and Frank Ferris, Red Robinson refereed the main and second bouts and Joe Keally handled the other two.

WEST VIRGINIA NOT TO STAGE BIG TOURNEY

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 9.—As the 1929 basketball season has now reached its dying moments, a number of colleges have been making final efforts to complete next year's schedules. One of the consequent developments in West Virginia basketball circles has been the request made of Director H. A. Stansbury of West Virginia University by two or three degree-granting Mountain state institutions that his department sponsor an annual state collegiate court tournament in the new Mountaineer field house.

The situation, as broached to Director Stansbury, would call for the participation of practically the same institutions as those which are eligible to compete in the annual state collegiate track and field meet, which will have its initial trial May 11 of this year. These institutions, in addition to the university, would include: Davis-Elkins, West Virginia Wesleyan, Marshall, Bethany, Concord State, Salem, Fairmont State, Morris-Harvey, Broaddus, New River State and Bluefield colleges.

Pitt Mermen To Be Honored Tonight

The Panther varsity and yearling swimming teams are slated to be honored at the University of Pittsburgh Faculty Club tonight at a banquet. It is anticipated 50 guests will attend.

A member of the Pitt varsity squad will be presented the Harry Quigg Taylor Memorial Trophy, which was won last year by William Wright.

A captain for next season will also be elected. Varsity and freshman letters for swimming are to be announced.

Homestead Grays Prep for Opener

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 9.—Arriving here late yesterday afternoon, the Homestead Grays, who will do their training in a local baseball field, plunged into their initial session this afternoon. Every day until April 14, Manager Posey, of the Pittsburgh team, which will play American Negro League baseball this season, will have his charges out for a few hours' work each day. The addition of Nash, leading southpaw of the Birmingham club, gives Posey three portside hurlers.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden—Ray Newton defeated Phil Goldstein, 8 rounds; Dan Billick defeated Mickey Dugan (referee's decision), 8 rounds; Leo Kyburski defeated Johnny Windsor, 8 rounds; Ken Hargraves won by technical knockout over Paddy Mahan (bout stopped), 6 rounds.

At Memphis, Tenn. — Blondie Davis knocked out Tom Winn, 3 rounds.

At Trenton, N. J.—Paulie Walker defeated Sailor Matty, 10 rounds.

At Wichita, Kan.—Angus Snyder defeated Big Boy Peterson, 10 rounds.

At Decatur, Ill.—Jimmy Sayers and Joey Rychell drew, 10 rounds.

At Rochester, N. Y.—Joey Manuel defeated Johnny Dundee, 10 rounds.

At Williamsport, Pa.—Jack (Kid) Wolfe and Georgie Pavlick, drew, 10 rounds; Eddie Leroy defeated Joey Barnes, 8 rounds; Jimmy Herman knocked out (technical) Young Sharkey; Jimmy Dundee and Butch Bower drew; Nick Stovink knocked out Harry Troup.

At Philadelphia—Harold Mays defeated Con O'Kelly, 10 rounds; Baby Joe Gans knocked out Jackie Brady, 8 rounds; Maurice Holtzer defeated Al Gordon, 10 rounds.

At New York—Izzy Grove defeated Vince Dundee, 10 rounds, George Hoffmann defeated Pietro Corri, 10 rounds.

At Brooklyn—Dominick Petrone defeated Al (Rube) Goldberg, 10 rounds.

At Chicago—Pete Wistort defeated Mike Mandell, 10 rounds; Eddie Ballantine defeated Joe Phelan, 8 rounds; Joe Azzerella and Jackie Moore drew, 8 rounds; Hirschie Wilson defeated Danny Delmont, 8 rounds.

At Little Rock, Ark.—Billy Podraza defeated Joe (Kid) Peck, 10 rounds.

At Mobile, Ala.—Jack Britton defeated Grover Mallini, 10 rounds.

At Toronto, Ont.—Steve Rocco defeated Routier Parra, 10 rounds; Black Bill defeated Johnny McCoy, 8 rounds.

At Newark, O.—Nordi Smith defeated Chink George, 10 rounds; Kid Sanderson and Kid Green drew, 6 rounds; Bobby Brennan defeated Joe Montenaro, 6 rounds.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 9.—(AP.)—Billy Podraza, of Houston, Tex., outpointed Joe (Kid) Peck, of Kansas City, in 10 rounds here last night. Each weighed 133¾.

Grimm Pounds Homer, Triple, Double, Single

HOUSTON, Tex., April 9.—(AP.)—Claude Jonnard, former Milwaukee pitching ace, made good in his first start with the Cubs yesterday, holding Houston hitless in the five innings he toiled. The Cubs walked away with the game, 10 to 1.

Jonnard was relieved by Mike Cvengros in the sixth inning, and Cvengros held Houston to three hits. Capt. Charley Grimm led the Cub attack with a home run, triple, double and a single.

FINLAY LEADS NORTH-SOUTH AMATEUR

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9.—(AP.)—Phillip Finlay, the long-driving sophomore from Harvard, led the qualifying field of the North and South amateur golf tournament yesterday with a card of 70, two strokes better than par.

The 36 holes of qualifying play will be completed with another 18 holes today.

Trailing Finlay at the end of the first half were George Voight, of New York, defending champion, and Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., Canadian amateur champion, with 71 each. A stroke behind that pair came Eddie Held, of New York, and John Dawson, of Chicago.

Finlay took 25's on both sides to lead a field of 150 players. Twenty-three of them broke 80, a record for the 29 years of this event.

W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, former amateur champion, scored a 76 and stands eighth from the top of the list.

RCA LOUDSPEAKER 100B—With the rich, mellow tone characteristic of the popular "100" type of reproducer. $22.

Buy with confidence where you see this sign

RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse have again achieved the "impossible" in radio—the production of a console radio set of fine quality to sell at the low price of $77.50.

The same principles as used in the nationally popular "17" and "18" models, which revolutionized radio set manufacture.

Console type cabinet of an entirely new design.

"All-electric" operation from the house lighting circuit.

Extreme simplicity of control.

Balanced selectivity and sensitivity never before to be had in a set at this price. Music and the voice from near and far stations reproduced with the fidelity and realism characteristic of the RCA Radiola.

Only the great research and manufacturing resources back of the Radiola make possible such a fine instrument at such a low price.

See and hear the "33" today. Ask your RCA Radiola Dealer to demonstrate it in your home—free of charge. Tune in on one of the fine programs on the air. The performance of this wonderful set will amaze you.

The RCA Time Payment Plan is available to all purchasers of Radiolas at RCA Dealers everywhere.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP.)—Frank Taberski, world champion, and Ralph Greenleaf, former titleholder, split even in the first two blocks of their 12-block pocket billiards match here yesterday. Taberski won the afternoon block, 125 to 55, but Greenleaf came back last night to win, 125 to 94.

PITT MAY CARD MONTANA S. C. AND PURDUE

By JESS CARVER.

Dr. Carlson.

Montana State College, champions of the Far West; Muskingum, always a good drawing card here, and possibly Purdue, co-champs with Michigan in the Big Ten last season, may appear on Pitt's home basketball schedule next year. All three schools, through their athletic officials, made overtures to Dr. H. C. Carlson Pitt mentor, at the annual meeting of the basketball coaches of the United States at Chicago last week.

The good doctor expressed himself as being well pleased with the changes recommended and entertained by the coaching gentry, chief of which is the plan to abolish the tip-off at center. This rule was not recommended to the rule makers, but will be tested by various teams next season. Pitt will try it out against Iowa, playing one of the games with the tip-off in use and one-half without. In the event that Muskingum plays here, the game will take place prior to Pitt's departure on its opening Western trip, and the same idea will be tried out.

RECOMMEND CHANGES

Two imported changes in the rules will be presented to the rules committee when that body goes into session. One has to do with the two fouls after a field goal. The coaches feel that the ball should be ruled dead after the second foul, whether it is made or not. Too often during the past five points have been made on what was almost one play. A field goal would be shot, two fouls called and with the first one made, the second would be missed and turned into a goal.

The mentors also decided to ask the committee to declare it illegal for a man to catch a ball on a jump until it has been touched by a third man or hit the floor. The players could tip the ball repeatedly, but would not be permitted to gain complete possession.

Dr. Carlson hopes that affairs will permit taking his Panther squad to Chicago May 6 for a special exhibition game. The Windy City people who broached the matter to Carlson are anxious to bring the Golden Cats on for a game.

If the contest is arranged, various rule changes will be tried out, with coaches, critics and rule makers invited to look on and make suggestions.

MAY MEET MUSKIES

Pitt could go further and do a darn sight worse than to bring Bill Lang and his Muskingum team here for an early season game during the next campaign. In the first place, the contest should be a financial success, for the Ohioans have been packing them in hereabouts for the past four years, and filled the Dukes' gym last year after having lost three games to district teams.

And then, as the Muskies and Dukes are not going to meet in '29, it will be the only game in which Pittsburghers will have an opportunity to see Coach Lang's bald head.

BULOW RULED MAX'S PILOT

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission asked the New York state boxing fathers a hard one today, but the latter came right back with a ready answer which will be bad news to Max Schmeling, German heavyweight.

"Who is the rightful manager of Schmeling?" was the question from Chicago and the reply revealed there has been no change in the boxer's status here despite the recent action of the German Boxing Federation in suspending his Teuton manager, Arthur Bulow.

"Bulow and Bulow alone is the manager of Max Schmeling," ruled the New York solons, explaining that a separate contract drawn up to comply with the state's rules which differ from the German rules is on file here and is binding no matter what may be done in Germany."

A copy of this contract which is for two years was forwarded to the Illinois commission.

McMillen Is Named Coach at Jeannette

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 9.—Blair (Tuffy) McMillen, of Wilkinsburg, former Pitt athletic star, has been appointed athletic director of Jeannette High School, succeeding Joe Harrick, who recently resigned to accept a similar position at Johnstown. McMillen has been assistant to Harrick at Jeannette since last fall and had charge of the basketball squad during the winter, piloting it to a county championship.

At the same time announcement was made here that Charles W. Beachman, for the past several years athletic director at Mt. Pleasant High School, has resigned. He has accepted a position as alumni secretary at Gettysburg College. No successor to Beachman has been appointed.

All four teams will be composed of boys from the Greenfield district.

Ohio State Signs Mary Browne as Net Instructor

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—(INS.)—Selection of Mary K. Browne, former national women's singles tennis champion, as women's tennis instructor at Ohio State University here, was announced today. The appointment, made by the university's board of trustees, becomes effective April 12.

Miss Browne was singles champion in 1912, 1913 and 1914, and held the national doubles title in 1912, 1913, 1914, 1921 and 1925. She won the national indoor net title in 1926 and, paired with William (Bill) Tilden, she held the national mixed doubles championship in 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1921.

Girl Seeks $50,000 Balm From Boxer

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Pierre Charles, Belgian heavyweight boxer, was taken into custody as he arrived on the liner Arabic today on a civil order of arrest issued at the behest of Miss Germaine Monterri, who seeks $50,000 for alleged breach of promise to marry.

After courting her through most of 1928, Miss Monterri charges Charles went to Detroit in September and married another woman. Her attorney, asking for the order of arrest, said he was afraid Charles would leave New York after his arrival.

Olympic Officials Discuss Amateurism

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, April 9.—(AP.)—Meeting here today in its twenty-sixth general session, the International Olympic Committee took up the amateur problem where it left off at Amsterdam.

Such questions as a final definition of amateurism, reimbursement of olympic athletes for salaries lost while competing, or vacations with full salaries during Olympic games, were up for discussion. It was expected the session would last most of the week.

Count Debaillet Latour, president, urged the delegates to make all possible haste as "the American organizers are awaiting a solution of questions pending before the committee so they can draw up the schedule for the 1932 games including the winter sports."

Izzy Grove Victor Over Vince Dundee

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Izzy Grove, East Side welterweight, pounded out a 10-round decision over Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, at the St. Nicholas arena last night. The fight was close throughout. Grove weighed 150½, Dundee 151½. George Hoffman, Yorkville heavyweight, defeated Pietro Corri, of Brooklyn, in a dull 10-rounder.

Morenz to Boston Ice Deal Denied

MONTREAL, April 9.—(INS.)—Cecil Hart, manager of the Montreal hockey Canadiens, was on record today with a denial of a report that Howie Morenz, speedy forward of the French team, would be sent to the Boston Bruins in exchange for Lionel Hitchman and $50,000 in cash. Hart declared Les Canadiens would not part with any of their stars.

A.B.C. WINNERS ARE NAMED

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP.)—The Hub Recreation quint of Joliet, Ill., today was crowned champion of the 1929 American Bowling Congress after the last of 2,523 team entrants had completed its efforts.

Their mark, a 3,063 total, rolled March 20, had withstood all attacks, although it remains 136 pins short of the record score made in 1927 by the Oh Henrys at Kansas City. The Klinger Bucks, of Watertown, Wis., finished second with a 3,041 count, and the Edelweiss combination, of Chicago, accumulating 3,030 pins, ended in third place.

Two hundred doubles and singles rollers were to make their bid for grand honors today, completing an event marked by the high scores hung in place by 13,000 exponents of the alley pastime.

Rolling in the minor events yesterday was the high calibre with first place in the singles and second in the all-events going by the board. A. Unke, of West Allis, Wis., bowled 728 pins in the singles, 607 in the five-man division and 617 in the doubles to push himself into the leadership of singles entries and to second place in the all-events.

Schmidt and Frank, of Louisville, tied Meurer and Drescher, of Jamestown, N. Y. in the day's doubles contest with a 1,293 total, which gave the Kentucklans a joint claim to tenth position.

The Lauterback Coal and Ice five, of Cicero, Ill., featured the day's rolling in that class with a 2,998 score. This gave them a tie for tenth place with the George Springguths, of Chicago.

Western Pennsylvania bowlers shared in the five-men event prize money as follows:

Pope Tailors, Erie, 2,845, $35; National Hotel, Erie, 2,811, $32; Stowe Company, Erie, 2,776, $30; Hale Builders, 2,933, $135.

The final standing in the five-men event, with the prize money, follows:

Hub Recreation, Joliet, Ill., 3,063, $1,000.
Klinger Bucks, Watertown, Wis., 3,041, $975.
Edelweiss, Chicago, 3,030, $925.

Kelly to Remain At Mercer High

MERCER, Pa., April 9.—Howard Kelly, former Westminster College athlete, has been renamed athletic director of Mercer High School for the coming year. Kelly served in that capacity the past football and basketball seasons and met with much success.

He gave Mercer its first football team in many years and, despite the fact that the school did not win a game, the squad shaped up in good style. His basketball squad was a good one considering the lack of material he had.

Mercer will have a fine new gym next winter and Kelly should be able to get his cage men working much better. He will also have time to develop players for the future.

MOBILE, Ala., April 9.—(AP.)—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, last night won a 10-round decision over Grover Mallini, Mobile, although Mallini forced the fighting throughout.

WILL SCHENLEY HAVE ONLY 16 HOLES AGAIN?

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Possibly the most serious question that faces local public linksman at this time is whether or not they are going to have to play on a 16-hole golf course again this year.

If the first and tenth greens at the Schenley Park links remain unfinished and closed again this year, a record of three consecutive years will have been set up with the many golfers contenting themselves, without a whole lot of fuss, with two holes worthless to their game, and worthless to the course.

AND THE PRACTICE GREEN?

While the Schenley course is said to be in fine shape for an opening next Monday, I have it first hand that practically no attention is being paid to this vital problem. John Kauffmann, greenkeeper at Schenley Park, will centainly have a tough time living it down if he doesn't bring the two greens around to playable shape this season.

Al McBride

Which reminds me of another "feature" of last season. The practice putting green in front of the Schenley clubhouse, a beautiful piece of work, was open for 15 days—or it might have been 16—during the seven-month season. Which is also something of a record.

Al McBride, pro; Bill Super and Chuck Onoratta, assistants; Andy Petrolia, caddie - master; Eddie Kunold, superintendent and Tom O'Keefe, time clerk, will all be back again this year.

HARRY JOINS NELSON

The annual problem of "who's who" among district golf professionals is simmering down daily.

Harry Zimmerman, professional last year at the Valley Heights Country Club, near Oakmont, and assistant pro at the Westmoreland Country Club prior to that time, will take up his duties this season with his brother, Nelson Zimmerman, at the Wildwood Country Club. I have learned definitely. Ben Loeffler has succeeded Harry at Valley Heights.

No one seems to know definitely what has happened to Cecil Barber, pro last year at Montour Heights. A mighty fine boy, and a really good golfer, the former public links amateur star has likely hooked up with an out of town club.

It is nice to know that an original contemporary has picked up one of my favorite column heads for several years: Short Putts.

Barons to Obtain Three Robin Players

ATLANTA, Ga., April 9.—(AP.)—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Nationals, announced today he will turn over three players to the Atlanta club of the Southern Association when the Dodgers end their two day visit here tomorrow. They are Al Lopez, catcher last year with Macon; Jim Richardson, pitcher formerly with New Haven, and Max Rosenfield, outfielder, who played with Birmingham last summer.

Local Star Signed By Greensburg Club

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 9.—The Greensburg Generals have added the names of two more players to their roster for the coming baseball season. Gregory Sands, a lefthanded first baseman, has been signed up in addition to Harry Miller, a lefthanded pitcher. Sands comes from Pittsburgh and Miller from Pitcairn. Both will report for spring training early next month.

Ryder Cup Team In Last Home Drill Today

NEW YORK, April 9.—(INS.)—Deciding that they could not get too much practice for their coming international match with a picked team of British professionals, several members of the American Ryder Cup team planned to squeeze in another round at Garden City today before sailing for England tomorrow. All 10 of them were here this morning except Walter Hagen, the captain.

Yesterday the professional stars were feted at a luncheon and later were fitted for the navy blue flannel suits which will be their official apparel. A red white and blue shield, marked with the letters R. C. T., will be sewed on each coat.

THEVENOW'S IMPROVES

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., April 9.—(AP.)—Tommy Thevenow, injured Philadelphia National League shortstop, was in harness again today. But it wasn't baseball harness. It was that which holds together the broken bones o' his face, sustained last week in an automobile accident.

At his hospital in Lakeland, Thevenow was dressed in the specially designed head harness which his physician believes will aid him greatly in recovery. The player's condition continued favorable today.

RAIN HANDICAP TO PYLE RUNNERS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 9.—(INS.)—A steady rain, which blanketed this region today, gave promise of "tough going" for C. C. Pyle's bunioneers as the pack of cross-country runners headed this way across the rugged Appalachian chain of mountains.

With the exception of a five or six-mile stretch between Anderson and Farmington, the entire 62-mile run from Cumberland here is mountainous, the slopes rising to 2,600 feet.

The vanguard of the runners is expected here about 4 p. m., if the derbyites encounter no unusually bad conditions en route.

Ed Gardner, Seattle (Wash.) Negro, was in the lead when the runners left Cumberland, Md., this morning. Gardner won yesterday's lap and wrested the lead from John Salo, Passaic policeman, who finished sixth yesterday, behind Arthur Newton, South Africa; Sam Richman, New York; Giusto Emek, Italy, and Philip Granville, of Hamilton, Ont. Gardner now leads Salo by 34 minutes.

Schools Favor Entry Reduction

WESTON, W. Va., April 9.—The coaches of the Monongahela Valley, representing 47 scholastic institutions, went on record in favor of limiting the state basketball tournament next winter to 16 teams.

This season 32 teams were selected to compete in the Wesleyan sponsored event. Their plan allows the winner and runner-up of the sectional tourneys to enter the state tournament. In 1922, 61 teams competed in one event for the state honors.

a 600-point match in New York. Before he was stopped, however, Hall made a record that will not be paralleled in a hurry by defeating Augie Kleckhefer and Otto Reiselt and then downing Johnny Layton, present champion, twice within 14 days.

Hoppe wants to get back to balk-line play for a change and may make a match at that style with Kinrey Matsuyama, though he is also tentatively booked to meet Layton in a 600-point contest at the angle game.

Allen Hall

IN talking of making a match with Matsuyama at balkline, Hoppe expresses the opinion that his changing of styles of play has not injured his game. He calls attention to the fact that he has demonstrated this more than once in the past, as far as balkline is concerned, and says that his victory of last week shows that his balkline play has not been hurt by his pocket-billiard activities. As a test, he may attempt before the season closes to play three hard matches at three different styles of billiards in three successive weeks. He says he would like to have as opponents Ralph Greenleaf or Frank Taberski at pocket billiards, Layton or Hall at three-cushions, and at 18.2 balkline any of the players who took part in the recent international championship tournament at that style.

ALUMINUM USE INCREASING IN POWER FIELD

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

ALUMINUM, the rarity of a few years ago which has made itself indispensible to hundreds of industries, steadily has been taking a greater place in the work of power distribution. In the minds of most people, copper is considered as the only metal for transmitting electricity. But the high price of the red metal and the search for substitutes which it has caused has brought attention to the fact that aluminum started to make inroads in the power field even before the recent flurry in copper.

Under normal conditions, when copper is quoted at about 17 cents a pound, the price of aluminum may be 30 to 40 per cent higher. But the weight of aluminum is only about one-third of that of copper. To get aluminum of the electrical equivalent of copper it will weigh only 41 to 48 per cent of the necessary amount of the red metal. Thus, while aluminum is normally the more expensive metal, its cost for use on a transmission line may be lower than that of copper.

At present the price of the two metals is close together, so that a very substantial saving can be made by the substitution of aluminum by power companies on new work.

THE use of aluminum on transmission lines has been made possible by the development of steel reinforced cables so that the necessary strength can be combined with adequate ability to transmit power.

The longest span on any transmission line in the world has been made of aluminum cable. The Knoxville Power Company has a stretch of wire between towers which is 5,010 feet long, nearly a mile.

Aluminum is also finding increased demand in central stations. Bus bars, which are used for interconnections between large numbers of outgoing lines or generating units, are being made of aluminum to an increased extent. Both flat aluminum and aluminum tubes have been used for this purpose.

STEEL conduit is giving place to the white metal in many installations where exposure to corrosion would quickly make any metal useless which is not rust resisting. Light weight has also resulted in the installation of aluminum conduit on some of the newest electrically operated railroad cars.

Pittsburgh's industries are being served with power conveyed by aluminum cables in many places. The Duquesne Light Company has an 18 mile aluminum transmission line with one of the spans across the Monongahela river 2,303 feet long.

Of course, the differences in the characteristics of the two metals still make the use of copper indispensible for many electrical purposes. The recent advance which carried copper to 24 cents a pound will probably increase the substitution of other metals but the present price was achieved under the pressure of demand while consumers were fully aware of the extent to which other products could be used.

DURING the past few weeks the new offerings made by investment bankers have shown the bond issues to be in excess of the total offerings of stocks. Apparently the unsettlement of the prices of stocks has driven many of the more conservative investors to look for future returns more in attractive bond yields than in possible appreciation of value.

Practically all new bond issues have been carrying warrants to purchase stock or conversion privileges to add the bait of speculative possibilities. Recently, however, even these issues become less popular and some bankers declare that industrial bonds with good yields and no speculative features may become more common.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Rally Meets Savage Attack.

An attempt to rally the stock market in the early part of the session today brought out one of the most savage selling bombardments since the present disturbance began several weeks ago. The trading community was so surprised and shocked at the evident determination of the sellers to force the list lower that many threw stocks overboard without further consideration and another fairly large liquidating movement took place. The decline has now reached the manipulative stage, where traders are as easily influenced in the bearish direction as they were a few weeks ago on the up side. The steady wearing away of equities in trading accounts is reported to be having some influence on the current selling. Margin accounts are being rubbed off the books as the traders find it difficult to provide more cash to keep their accounts in the ratio demanded by the brokerage houses. This, apparently, is the design of the interests campaigning against the market, and as more and more investors are forced out, the technical position will be that much improved and the list made ready for the inevitable advance which always follows the shake-down. Money conditions were extremely tight today with no explanation forthcoming for the withdrawal of almost $50,000,000 from the call market and a consequent bulge in the rates. Some resistance to the decline was evident in the late market, but this seemed to be coming from some of the stronger bulls and was not followed to any extent by the so-called public or smaller traders.

The Cost of Quackery.

The editor of the Wall Street Journal, acknowledging with generous tolerance, some of the amateurish prescriptions offered as a panacea for what the self-appointed physicians think is "Wall street's ills," veers a little from that particular angle of his subject to point out what appears to be the underlying reason for the present credit strain. He says in part: "It seems impossible to show these amateur physicians that there is nothing the matter with the patient; that he is, in fact, not a patient at all because he is not sick. It is not stock speculation which has thrown the call money market out of gear, but well-intentioned meddling with the market for credit, by people with an imperfect knowledge of the subject. It might almost be said that certain members of the Federal Reserve Board, certainly not including Secretary Mellon, have GABBLED the country into dear money."

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCKS BREAK UNDER BEAR ATTACK

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—The stock market ran into some real liquidation today, and prices broke sharply after an early interval of irregularity. Failure of speculators for the advance to attract an outside following, coupled with the increasing tenseness of the credit situation, led to a resumption of heavy "bear" attacks, which dislodged a number of "stop loss" orders placed by cautious investors and traders.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent but advanced to 8 as banks called $40,000,000 in loans, and threatened to go higher. Time money held firm at 9 per cent with little business done at that figure.

CHANGE POSITIONS

Recent backing and filling movements have proved disappointing to big traders, who crave action, and a number of them are reported to have switched from the "bull" to the "bear side. Although business generally continues favorable, the drop in copper prices in London, which was taken to foreshadow a similar reduction here, had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment.

American Express, which established a new high record at 409 yesterday in anticipation of the announcement that it will be taken over by the Chase National Bank, broke to 343 on the traditional "selling on the good news." Adams Express dropped 44 points to 625.

Federal Mining and Smelting, which dropped 16 points yesterday, fell 25 more today to a new low for the year at 225. International Telephone slumped 7½ points on selling inspired by the announcement that the Washington administration regarded the proposed merger of that company with RCA communications as prohibited by law, and that it must be approved by Congress to be effected.

Wright Aeronautical dropped 10 points and Kolster Radio, which has sold as high as 78¾ this year, fell 8 points to 41. Columbia Carbon, Advance Rumely common and preferred, National Cash Register, Allis Chalmers, Safeway Stores, Radio and Baldwin sold down 4 to 7 points.

TRACTIONS SLUMP

New York tractions were again liquidated by speculators who bought them in expectation that the 7-cent fare would be approved by the United States Supreme Court. Manhattan Guaranteed broke 8 points, Third Avenue 6 to a new low at 20, or about half the year's high, and Manhattan Modified Guaranteed fell 4¼ points. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit moved up 1½ points in the early trading to 68 and then slumped to 65, a new low for the year.

Rails yielded with the industrials, with some of the selling undoubtedly inspired by the failure of the U. S. Supreme Court to hand down a decision in the celebrated St. Louis and O'Fallon case. Delaware and Hudson, New York Central, Norfolk and Western and Western Maryland were the hardest hit, dropping 3 to 4 points.

U.S. Grain Exports Decline for Week

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Grain exports from the United States last week were 1,443,000 bushels as compared with 1,582,000 bushels the previous week.

Commerce Department figures today gave these comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before: Wheat, 274,000 bushels against 932,000 bushels; oats, 16,000 against 68,000; corn, 796,000 against 403,000; barley, 297,000 against 179,000.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports amounted to 1,694,000 bushels against 1,883,000 bushels the week before, while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 289,000 barrels against 315,000 barrels the previous week.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 3 to 8 points on a less favorable view of the weather news and steadier Liverpool cables. There was considerable realizing, but covering was quite active and there seemed to be local or commission house buying on prospects for rains or showers in the central belt.

July sold up to 20.08c and December to 20.05c, making net advances of both 12 to 17 points. The market was within 2 or 3 points of the best at the end of the first half hour.

Private reports from Houston said rains in the Southwest had been beneficial. Some traders thought that showers in the eastern belt would do no harm, but the weather news as a whole seemed to have rather a bullish impression on sentiment.

Private cables reported continental and Bombay buying in Liverpool.

Buying became more active later in the morning on apprehensions that rains in the central belt would work eastward and that there might be another wet spell in the South. July sold up to 20.15c and December to 20.14c, making net advances of 19 to 24 points on the active months. These prices brought in considerable realizing, however, while demand tapered off somewhat late in the morning. The market at midday showed reactions of 8 or 10 points from the best.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Raw sugar was firmer early today with better demand. Prices advanced 1-16c to the basis of 5.92c for spots, duty paid. Sales included 21,000 bags of Cuban at 3.61c, and about 20,000 bags Porto Rican and 45,000 Cuban at 5.92c for second half April shipment.

Influenced by firmer spots raw futures were higher. After opening unchanged to 1 point higher, prices continued to advance and at midday were 1 to 2 points above yesterday's close. The principal demand seemed to consist of covering against spot sales, although there was also some trade and Cuban support. Withdrawals of refiners of near months selling later deliveries.

Refined withdrawal demand was fair, but new business light. Prices were unchanged at 6.85c for fine granulated, with some reselling below this level.

Hoover's Vision of Vast Waterways Is Coming True

—By B. C. FORBES—

SAID Mr. Hoover: "In the days of the glory of the Mississippi commerce the river was one vast system of main channel and tributaries. It was the artery of the great valley. Vessels from the upper reaches of the Ohio voyaged uninterruptedly down to New Orleans." He added: "We intend to restore what once existed."

Big developments are under way to make Mr. Hoover's promise—he denied that this was "any day dream"—come true.

SPEAKING at Kansas City when Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover presented this inspiring vision:

"I visualize the Mississippi system as 9,000 miles of connected waterways—a transportation system of which home 3,100 miles are trunk lines and 6,000 miles of laterals. That is, a main north-south trunk line 1,500 miles in length, reaching from New Orleans to Chicago and there connecting with the Great Lakes system, and crossing this, a great east-west trunk line 1,600 miles in length, from above Pittsburgh, through Cairo to Kansas City. Over a large part of these main stems we can maintain nine feet of depth.

"In addition to these main trunks, we must diligently improve feeders through the Tennessee, the Cumberland, the Arkansas, the Upper Missouri, the Upper Mississippi, the Monongahela, the Allegheny and other streams to workable depth for modern craft.

"It will serve the vast heart of American agriculture and will place great commercial and industrial cities with upward of 7,000,000 people in the cheapest of communication with each other to cheaper transportation of agricultural and bulk commodities over a great hinterland of states.

"In this conception your project for the further improvement of the Missouri between St. Louis and Kansas City has a most important setting."

WHAT progress has been made since that picture was drawn fully three years ago? When in the Middle West a week or two ago, I was given these facts:

The Ohio River throughout its length is ready to be thrown open to barge line operation by the end of 1929.

The Mississippi has been in operation to St. Louis for several years, and above St. Louis to the Twin Cities, government barge operations began in 1928.

The Warrior and Alabama rivers have been in use for several years including the inter-coastal canal from New Orleans to Mobile.

The Tennessee River will be in operation its full length within two or three years.

The Missouri River to Kansas City will be ready for government barge line operation by the end of 1930.

This leaves the Missouri River from Kansas City to Sioux City as the only leg of this great inland waterway system for which no adequate preparations have been made.

PRESSURE is being brought to bear upon Congress to make immediately available more substantial appropriations for constructing the projected six-foot channel in the Missouri River from Kansas City to Sioux City so as to have it completed within five years. I attended a gathering of leading delegates to a session of the Missouri River Navigation Association, when Gov. Weaver, of Nebraska, president of the association, expressed confidence that President Hoover would use his best endeavors to hasten the completion of his statesmanlike vision. Other delegates echoed their sentiment and emphasized the urgent need for inland water transportation facilities to offset the handicap that part of the country has labored under since the opening of the Panama Canal.

A LARGE section of the Middle West feels that they are being ground, so to speak, between the low transportation rates available to states adjacement to the Atlantic and those adjacent to the Pacific. They pin their faith to the thorough development of cheap transportation down and up the Mississippi River and its far-flung tributaries. Already higher prices are being enjoyed by grain growers whose crops can be shipped all or part-way by water.

The importance of what is happening is little recognized by those of us who live far from the scene and who hear much more about Wall street's watered stocks than about livestock and wheat and corn.

PERMIT DENIED EXPRESS CO.

RICHMOND, Va., April 9.—(AP.)—The state corporation commission today denied the Railway Express Agency, Inc., permission to do business within this state. The right of the agency, the new railroad organization which took over the property of the American Railway Express Company, to do interstate business is not affected by the order.

The opinion of the commission suggests that the Railway Express Agency, Inc., create a Virginia corporation to handle its business in the state and merge it with the Railway Express Agency.

This would enable the new agency, it was pointed out, to conform to section 163 of the state constitution, which the commission ruled now expressly prohibits a foreign public service corporation, chartered after 1902, from doing any intrastate business.

COUNTY OPENS $2,000,000 WORK BIDS

This was contractors' day at the meeting of the County Commissioners.

Bids for construction and reconstruction of numerous highways were opened, and so plentiful were the contractors that the commissioners had to adjourn to a courtroom to accommodate everybody.

The bids, which totaled almost $2,000,000, included estimates for the removal of the county morgue from Diamond street to Third avenue, and the building of a branch of the new Saw Mill Run boulevard.

The John F. Casey Company was the lowest of 10 bidders to erect the north branch of the Saw Mill Run boulevard, a distance of 16,030 feet from Warrington avenue to Woodruff avenue. Its bid was $845,541.80.

Five firms bid for the work of removing the morgue, the lowest figure being submitted by J. H. Fetterman for $135,000.

The Austin-Givens Company was the lowest of three bidders for the work of wrecking the Third avenue buildings, the figure being $1,948.

Among other bids opened were:

Babcock boulevard: 1,940 feet in Millvale; low, Harrison Construction Company, $72,035.50.

Brownsville Road Bridge, Baldwin Township; low, W. J. McMahon Company, $72,095.

Cow Run Bridge, Mayview branch, Washington Pike; low, Union Engineering and Construction Company, $63,242.50.

Allegheny River Boulevard, testing—Low, Sprague & Henwood, Inc., $6,336.

Thirty-first Street Bridge, screening over stockyards—One bidder, Taylor & Dean, $7,810.

Reconstruction of Washington Pike, Greentree Borough—Harrison Construction Company, $126,361.

Reconstruction of Windgap road, from Ingram and city line to Chartiers Creek—Claire McDermitt, $93,717.

Talbot avenue, Bradock—McCrady Bros. Co., $97,376.

Braddock avenue, Swissvale—McCrady Bros. Co., $93,594.

Island avenue McKees Rocks—Claire McDermitt, $67,977.

Liberty way, Liberty Borough and Port Vue—John F. Walsh, $34,895.

Prince Not Keen About "King Business"

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Being a prince "is very agreeable," Prince Cyril of Bulgaria observes, although being a king "is a very different business."

The Prince, an automobile enthusiast, is making a brief visit in Washington after a tour of all of the centers of the American automotive industry and a number of other cities since his arrival in January. He has a few more engagements to visit other cities before he sails May 1.

$100,000 GEMS FOUND IN TRUNK

MIAMI, Fla., April 9. — (AP.) — United States customs officers today were holding jewelry and uncut diamonds valued at approximately $100,000 taken yesterday from the false bottom of a trunk shipped here on a steamer from Havana in what is believed to have been an attempt to smuggle them into this country.

The owner of the trunk, whose identity could not be learned here, was said to be in custody of Havana police. Steamship officials said the man left the steamer just before it sailed from Havana, and wired ahead to Miami asking the return of the trunk to Havana.

Customs officials, however, had made their discovery before his request was received. The man was said to have been accompanied by a woman and child.

Included in the jewelry were uncut diamonds, watches, brooches, pins, rings and other articles, packed in cotton and resting in a tin box in the false bottom of the trunk.

Clubs Told to Leave Door Open to Police

MERCER, Pa., April 9.—All Mercer County social clubs must leave their doors open for admission of police at any time, Judge J. A. McLaughrey ruled here today. The court heard testimony on the padlocking of the Mannaerchor Club, of Sharon, the oldest social club in Mercer County. It was testified that on a recent visit of police there was delay in admission.

BRANDON HITS FAULKNER CHARGES

No evidence that would justify holding Mrs. Pearl Kanarek, of 1925 Beaver avenue, North Side, for the grand jury was presented by the police when the woman was brought into Morals Court Saturday for alleged violation of the liquor laws, Magistrate A. D. Brandon declared today, in reply to Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, who asserted yesterday the magistrate erred in discharging the woman.

"In the first place," said Magistrate Brandon, "the woman's home was searched without a warrant.

NO PROOF OF CHARGE

"No testimony was given that she has sold liquor. It is true the officer who testified against her said he believed she had been arrested before, but he was not certain about it, and I myself can hardly expect to remember all of the 50,000 cases that have been before me during the last three years."

In justification of his decision Magistrate Brandon presented the following from his record of the hearing.

"Officer W. D. English, sworn, testified: 'About 9 last night arrested Pearl Kanarek at her store at 1925 Beaver avenue. We found two bottles of moonshine there. A small bottle was in the icebox and a large bottle was upstairs in the dresser. We have had complaints about this place and believe she has been here before.'

SALE EVIDENCE LACKING

"Pearl Kanarek, 1925 Beaver avenue, sworn, testified: 'I have run this store for about five years. I just had a little bit there for myself.'"

"No evidente of sale, and the defendant discharged."

"It has been my invariable practice," said Magistrate Brandon, "not to hold defendants charged with violation of the Snyder Act for court unless there is evidence of a sale."

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DAINTY FROCK FOR A TINY TOT

Light blue crepe de chine was selected for the development of this style. A trimming of narrow Val or filet lace would be pleasing, or embroidery on the bertha sections, would also be attractive. This style lends itself likewise to a development in radium silk, taffeta, voile or dimity. Pongee in a natural shade with stitchery in a favorite color is also suggested. The dress is gathered to square yoke portions over which the bertha sections are arranged. The dress is sleeveless but the bertha forms a cap over the top of the arm.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6 months, 1, 2 and 3 years. To make the dress for a 2-year size will require 1 1-3 yard of material 32 inches wide or wider. To trim the bertha with lace or edging will require 1½ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ALUMINUM CO. DEFENSE HEARD

Presentation of testimony by the Aluminum Company of America in denial of charges that the company monopolizes the aluminum industry, continued today at the hearing before the Federal Trade Commission here, with witnesses from other cities listed to be heard.

Charges of unfair practices, developed in testimony produced before the commission since its investigation started in February, 1926, were disputed yesterday when the commission hearings were resumed to receive testimony on behalf of the Aluminum company. Representatives of industrial and aluminum corporations testified that trade practices of the Aluminum company had been fair and that it had not withheld supplies of metal to cripple trade, as alleged.

C. G. Taylor, general purchasing agent of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; F. W. Ochsenhirt, purchasing agent of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation; O. H. Harer, general manager of the Light Alloys Company, of Painesville, O., and Philip G. Wagner, assistant manager of the Wagner Manufacturing Company, of Sidney, O., were the witnesses.

Wagner testified that in recent years his company purchased its supply of aluminum from the British industry because its product was better adapted to light cast aluminum ware manufactured by the company and because of a consistent advantage of a fraction of a cent a pound in price. Previously his company obtained its aluminum from the Aluminum Company of America, he said.

A motion on behalf of the Aluminum company to strike from the record voluminous exhibits of correspondence of the company on the ground that it was not the correspondence of executives or responsible officers, was refused by Maj. William W. Sheppard, trial examiner.

TRUCK IN CRASH, FIREMEN HURT

On their way to extinguish a fire in the paint plant of the James B. Sipe Company, near Bridgeville, yesterday two Glendale firemen were injured and the Glendale fire truck was wrecked in a collision with an emergency truck of the Duquesne Light Company at Third and Railroad streets, Heidelberg. Frank Scott and Andrew Huntley suffered cuts and bruises when they were hurled from the fire truck, which knocked down a large gasoline tank in front of the garage of C. E. Kumpf. Samuel Yokobitis, 24, of 731 Line street, driver of the emergency truck, was arrested. The fire was extinguished by other companies after damage estimated at $1,000 had been done.

River Inspection Party at Warren

WARREN, Pa., April 9.—(AP.)—Col. Jarvis J. Bain, U. S. Engineer at Pittsburgh, and a party from Pittsburgh headquarters, arrived here at 10 a. m. today aboard the speed boat Monongahela.

Auto for Every Five Persons In U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(INS.)—There is now an automobile for every five persons in the United States or one for every family.

These figures were arrived at today by the Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture from a survey of 1928 registrations and estimated population of 120,013,000.

During 1928 24,493,124 motor vehicles were registered, a gain of 1,359,883, or 5.9 per cent over the 1927 registrations. The figures include passenger automobiles, taxicabs, buses, motor trucks and road tractors. In addition 148,169 trailers and 117,946 motorcycles were registered.

OPPOSE MOVIE TRUST INQUIRY

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—(AP.)—An unprecedented legal move was made by attorneys for nine leading motion picture corporations yesterday in a request for a restraining order to prevent a federal grand jury investigation of alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust laws by movie combines.

The attorneys branded the investigation "an abuse of the law."

Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, before whom the motion was made, ordered all grand jury witnesses to appear tomorrow morning when he said he would rule on the argument.

The specific objection of the attorneys was that the investigation would duplicate the processes of law already exercised in a criminal complaint filed against their clients. They charged that the investigation was being made either to obtain additional evidence or in retaliation to the movie companies' refusal to submit their records.

Judge McCormick accordingly suspended a subpena which would make available to the grand jury truckloads of records which the companies claim could not be released because of the necessity of daily use.

The companies involved were West Coast Theaters, Inc., Paramount-Famous-Lasky, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, First National, Universal, United Artists, Fox, Vitagraph and Pathe.

"I GOT DRUNK" —MRS. INMAN

RENO, Nev., April 9.—(INS.)—Further grilling cross-examination today faced Helene Garnet Patton Inman, pretty defendant, in the sensational suit of Walker P. Inman, wealthy Duke tobacco fortune heir, for divorce. Mrs. Inman is fighting for a divorce for herself and a $250,000 property settlement.

Although she emphatically denied all of her husband's allegations concerning her conduct, Mrs. Inman on cross-examination did not deny over-indulgence in liquor.

"I drank too much," she frankly told the jury. "I got tight. I'll admit that."

At the same time she alleged her husband drank from two to three quarts of Scotch a day during the latter part of their married life. But liquor had a different effect on her husband than upon herself, she explained.

"It opened my eyes and closed Walker's," she said.

Asked why she had written a letter in endearing terms to Bill Grant, which she said she never intended mailing, Mrs. Inman said:

"Perhaps it relieved my mind. At least it was sweet after the beatings I received."

This letter, it was previously testified, Inman retrieved in torn fragments from a waste basket.

No. 217.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the Clark Lumber Company, its successors and assigns, the right to construct, maintain and use concrete piers extending into Tripoli street a maximum of 2' from building line at a minimum depth of 2' below grade of street for the purpose of erecting a proposed building, property of the Clark Lumber Company, Twenty-third Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Clark Lumber Company, its successors and assigns are hereby given the right and authority at its own cost and expense to construct, maintain and use 5 concrete piers extending into Tripoli street a maximum distance of 2' from building line at a minimum depth of 2' below grade of street for the purpose of erecting a proposed building located 165' 8¾" east of Middle street, property of the Clark Lumber Company, Twenty-third Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa. The said grant shall be in accordance with the provisions of this Ordinance and in accordance with the plan hereto attached and identified as Accession No. B-343, Folder "B" in the files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works, entitled, "Proposed extension of concrete piers into Tripoli street for a proposed building property of the Clark Lumber Company, Twenty-third Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SECTION 2. The said Company, prior to the construction of said piers, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works a complete set of plans showing location and all details for the construction of said piers, and the said plans shall be subject to the approval and supervision of the Director of the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over city streets, and to the Ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and to the provisions of any general ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of the City streets and compensation for same.

SECTION 4. The said grantee shall bear the full cost and expense of the repaving and repair of sidewalks and street pavement damaged, repair of sewers, water lines and other surface and sub-surface structures which may be in any way damaged or disturbed by reason of the maintenance and use of the said sidewalks and streets. All of the said work shall be done in the manner and at such times as the Director may order, and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.

SECTION 5. The rights and privileges granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of the said piers, upon giving six (6) months notice through the proper officers pursuant to resolution or Ordinance of Council to the said Clark Lumber Company, its successors and assigns, to that effect; and that the said grantee shall, when so notified, at the expiration of the said six months, forthwith, remove the said piers and replace the sidewalks and streets to their original condition, at its own cost and expense.

SECTION 6. The said grantee shall assume any liability of the City of Pittsburgh for damages to persons or property, including the streets and surface structures therein, by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of concrete piers in said sidewalks and streets and it is a condition of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.

SECTION 7. The foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to the following condition, to-wit: This Ordinance shall become null and void unless within thirty (30) days after its passage and approval, the Clark Lumber Company, shall file with the City Controller its certificate of acceptance of the provisions thereof, said certificate to be executed by the President and Secretary of the Company, with its corporate seal attached.

SECTION 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Passed in Council, April 1, 1929.
Approved, April 5, 1929.

"Everybody should have ideals," says John D. Rockefeller.

But it must be remembered that Mr. Rockefeller is 89, and very comfortably fixed.

The trouble with this country is that most men regard ideals as luxuries that come with retirement.

* * *

Doubtless Mr. Rockefeller has always had ideals; but he wouldn't be where he is today if he had always had the same ones.

How Great Fortunes Were Founded

It was Banning Donkes, more than any other man, who discovered the possibilities of what is laughingly called the corner drug store. Under the banner of "Greater Sanitation," he introduced the paper cup for soda fountains, thus making it possible to serve 11 customers from one bottle of pop.

Would be no trick at all to diet.
But who would live on saeurkraut!
It's worse, by far, than being stout!
They say it's simple to reduce
By merely drinking citrus juice—
Never any meat but lamb!
Then let me stay the way I am!
Nibble spinach, cabbage, dry dates—
Deny myself all carbohydrates!
Eat no bread and butter—say
How do reducers get that weight?

VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Just a satisfied mother and child, who indorse our system. The boy's given name will be furnished on request.

FATHERS and mothers bring their children to us daily for vocational guidance. We have quite a large department devoted to character analysis—and, of course, we are glad to do what we can for the little ones. There is no charge except for time and materials. The rates are usually $1.49 an hour and up. Our initial test may be of interest to prospective clients. We ask the child frankly if he would like to be a certified public accountant. But we do not take "No" for an answer. The child is placed in a stuffy room with a buzz-fly. The attendant then tip-toes out. If the child naturally chases the buzz-fly all day then we recommend that he take up book-keeping.

BUGS BAER Says

MRS. HOOVER PARKS HERSELF.

(Copyright, 1929.)

THE Republican administration absorbed its first defeat when Mrs. Hoover tried to find parking space in Washington.

"Bugs" Baer

Washington was designed by a Frenchman. He laid out the town and then escaped back to France.

The city consists of a series of avenues and circles. There is a monument in every circle.

Increased traffic has made bowling alleys out of the avenues and converted the circles into bunkers.

The Frenchman had an idea that everything would be all right if he could get traffic going around in circles.

He succeeded. The only way to get anywhere in Washington is to act like Mr. Coolidge. Leave town.

It is no unusual sight to see a Washingtonian spinning around a circle in his flivver like a squirrel in a revolving cage.

He goes round and round. And on every completed circuit he tips his hat to the statue of Gen. Grant who knew that the only way to get anywhere was to sneak through the woods.

Therefore, Mrs. Hoover took on a tough junket when she tried to locate some wheelbase real estate in the capital city.

She tried first in front of the Senate Office Building, not knowing that Senators were so thick that Congressmen have to ride bicycles.

Her next try was in front of the Washington monument. You are allowed a six-second stopover there to buy a souvenir postcard.

After buzzing around in a couple of gears for three hours, Mrs. Hoover spotted a municipal right-of-way and started to snatch it.

But another Washingtonian saw the automobile picnic grounds at the same time.

Mrs. Hoover tooted her horn at the claim-jumper who waved his mitt at her.

It was a question of squatter sovereignty. Did the first lady of the land possess the rights of eminent domain or would a mitt land on the first lady of the land?

When identities were established, the mitt-waver apologized. He claimed that he was not waving the mitt in anger but as a token of departure.

Which sounds reasonable. But when waving good-by to the first lady of the land you should wave at her feet and not at her nose.

Mrs. Hoover did get the parking space. But it will be a lesson to her.

Our Orchestra, Success, Earns Faith of Public

Having completed its second season, in which public interest was even greater than that manifested in its first, which was most successful, the orchestra of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society may be said to have definitely established itself as a worthy institution.

The first season was an experiment, the second a period of development. The first was a season of worry for the promoters, who, in addition to the trouble of shaping into form a group of musicians not seasoned as an ensemble, had to carry on a fight against forces opposed to Sunday concerts. Successful in this, they faced the season just closed with more confidence and strong faith that Pittsburgh would support its own orchestra.

While we cannot say that it is all that it ought to be or all that it will be eventually, we are sure that it is far more perfect than reasonably could be expected under the handicaps that have prevailed. Our music critics have been generous in their comments on performances, but fortunately, have not been sparing of the rod that proverbially is said to spoil the child. Faults have been mentioned and it is right that they should be.

But this need not be regarded as discouraging. In fact, it is most encouraging. It intimates that, instead of having something hopeless, we have something upon which real hopes for the highest in musical art may be reposed. The public looks forward to healthy growth in the Pittsburgh Orchestra during the third season, which will begin in the fall.

Direction of Workhouse Position for Big Man

The governing board of the Allegheny County Workhouse tomorrow will take up the matter of electing a superintendent to succeed the late A. H. Leslie, who served as head of the institution for many years.

Ordinarily this might be considered a matter merely of assigning a fat political plum to some favorite of the dominant political faction. Perhaps the assumption that that is just what the outcome may be accounts for the fact that there are few applicants for the position. But this does not necessarily have to settle the matter finally.

The board hardly will be doing its duty in making a hasty selection and then attempting to justify itself by stating that it picked the most promising among available candidates. It is to be noted that this position pays $10,000 a year, a sum that would be tempting to any man of wide experience in the kind of work to be performed.

If the county is going to pay a salary that should claim the services of one of the best men in the country in that line, the board certainly will be remiss in its duties if it shall select a candidate merely on political grounds. The tendency in correctional institutions is to put them in charge of men who have made a study of their profession and are prepared to give their jobs the benefit of modern ideas in the treatment of criminology.

Booth Centennial Marked By Salvationists Here

April 10, 1829, in England, was born a child destined to become one of the great leaders of the world. The child was named William Booth. Tomorrow the Salvation Army, in Pittsburgh, and in every town in which the Army is represented, the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the late William Booth will be celebrated, because this child became the founder of the Salvation Army, the beloved general who lived to see the stones and epithets that were hurled at him in the early days of the organization transformed into flowers and tributes.

The Salvation Army became a vast force for betterment throughout the world. It outgrew cramped and squalid quarters and came to occupy palatial structures, of which the magnificent building the local Army owns in the Boulevard of the Allies is a shining example. Yet in its prosperous days continues its work as it was originally designed to be—continues to demonstrate that "a man may be down, but he never out."

Hobgoblins? Yes.

But Sometimes They're Real.

Mr. Houghton, retiring as Ambassador to Great Britain, speaks of the "hobgoblins of war," and says Americans and Englishmen mean to live at peace.

They do, but those hobgoblins were a reality only 11 years ago when Foch was made commander of the Allied forces.

And the case of a British rum-running ship, "I'm Alone," shows how easily a quarrel might arise.

It is, of course, preposterous to tell us we mustn't sink a British ship engaged in rum running from port to port on the Gulf of Mexico when such a ship refuses to stop.

We might as well tell the British they must not disturb an American burglar engaged in robbery from room to room in a London hotel.

It is easy to change hands across the sea to airplanes across the air. Nothing like adequate preparation to preserve peace and friendship.

JUSTICE DEMANDS REDUCTION IN TAXES ON EARNED INCOMES

THERE IS A GROWING DEMAND FOR FURTHER REDUCTION IN TAXES ON EARNED INCOME, A POSITION WITH WHICH I HAVE ALWAYS BEEN IN SYMPATHY.
WINSOR McCAY

"THRICE is he armed that hath his quarrel just." The demand that taxes on EARNED INCOMES be reduced is an ABSOLUTELY fair and JUST demand.

A man owning an oil well or coal mine is allowed each year to deduct something from income tax on his profit, because his well is wearing out, worth less from year to year.

Isn't the doctor, lawyer, business man, school teacher earning an income and paying an income tax also WEARING OUT, and WORTH LESS FROM YEAR TO YEAR?

One man inherits a fortune, does nothing in the way of work to get the income. He gets a coat of Winter tan at Palm Beach, then crosses the ocean for a coat of Summer tan on the Lido.

He goes shooting grouse in Scotland. Then hurries off to catch tarpon in Southern waters.

He gets on his yacht to explore strange places, or visits the Monte Carlo roulette wheel.

Meanwhile his income keeps pouring in, money for which he never worked, income for which he does nothing. When he dies, the same income will go on to his children.

Should the man who stays working, in America, pay as heavy a tax on income that represents his life blood, as the man that does nothing?

Secretary Mellon expressed the feeling of all just men when he said over the radio:

"I have always been in sympathy with the demand for reduction in taxes on earned income."

Shakespeare's line, from KING HENRY SIXTH, above, "Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just," is followed by two other lines, encouraging to those that demand fairness in income taxation.

"And he but naked, though locked up in steel, Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted."

Justice is more powerful than any weapon in the long run, and able to pierce through any selfish armor. Marlowe said it before Shakespeare:

"I'm armed with more than complete steel—
The justice of my quarrel."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 9.—The collapse of night life along Broadway and its "buyways" is a curious phenomena to those who have watched the gushing cascade for years. It was not a sudden debacle, but instead a gradual drift of pleasure seekers to new amusements—new thrills.

There are still nocturnal haunts, and the whine of jazz is almost as pronounced as ever, but it lacks the old-time enthusiasm. The familiar faces are missing. Broadway after dark is not exactly Main street after curfew, but the wallop is kitten powered.

Two years ago there were a half dozen places where stay-outs gained admittance by bribing an imperious head waiter. Today it is seldom necessary to phone for an advance reservation. The clubs are as gaudy, intimate and just as wet, but the customers are coy.

One of the contributing reasons for the White Way detour was the sudden rise of peeping journalism, fostered chiefly by tabloid inquisitiveness, but countenanced to an extent by the more sedate feuilletons. Night club patronage is composed largely of philanderers.

And for those on a romp for the evening to read next day in intimate columns of gossipy chatter of their didoes is, putting it mildly, slightly disconcerting. Such items as: "Joe Eppis, the big rubber man, and Dotty Hikique, of the Follies, opened the sixteenth quart in the Club Kazoo, at 6 a. m." were frequent.

There are always unholy gleaners, too, who delight in clipping out such salicious paragraphs and mailing them anonymously to innocent wives. The philanderers of this type were the heavy sugar boys who made it possible for hostesses to buy diamonds and limousines. Without them, a night club expires.

So it was the keyhole exposes drove the occasional and high spending play boys to hide-aways where derelictions would not be juicy tidbits for gossip mongers. The new sanctuaries are intimate and discreet, and who's who is nobody's particular business.

There were, of course, other reasons for the night club flop. It was well known, for instance, that one popular rendezvous employed no bouncers for those who went gay. Bouncers inspired damage suits, so they resurrected an old expedient. If a patron grew troublesome a waiter slipped a Mickey Finn into his drink. This is a tasteless but nauseating mixture that brought on violent illness and oblivion.

* * *

The new under cover bazars are luxurious and quiet and range eastward. They aim for ultra exclusiveness. Perhaps the only music will be soft pedal on the piano by one of those pale dinner-coated boys whose rythmic fingers play by ear. Not more than 20 are admitted and frequently prominent folk are turned away. The proprietors know the New York psychology. Those turned away vowing never to return are back within the week.

Another obstacle for the Broadway night club was its tiresome standardization. You saw one—you saw all. The same jazz orchestras playing the same tunes with the same muted moan. There were the same dim lights and uncomfortable chairs at jammed-up tables. Even the hostesses became standardized—extravagantly dressed, glittering with jewels, husky voiced and featuring wined-red lips against a sallow background. They did not even offer youth. But simulated youth by shouting and throwing things. If they passed your table they left no impress of an engaging personality, but instead a nagging whiff of extravagant perfume. They mocked life with ribald jests at night and spent their days in beauty parlors fighting off that terrible specter—old age.

"Somebody told me," writes G. F., "you wrote for eight years without selling a single line."

Something like that. They called it McIntyre's Folly. And you'd be surprised how many still think it is.

There is a story that Helen Morgan, who moans all her miseries from a piano top, sits on the piano most of the time even when she is in her own apartment. There are many others we'd like to see sitting on the piano instead of playing on it.

Bible Passages

Fear of God

Proverb 1; 7-19.)

THE fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction.

My son, hear the instruction of my father, and forsake not the law of thy mother:

For they shall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck.

My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not.

If they say, Come with us, let us lay wait for blood, let us lurk privily for the innocent without cause:

Let us swallow them up alive as the grave; and whole, as those that go down into the pit:

We shall find all precious substance, we shall fill our houses with spoil:

Cast in thy lot among us; let us all have one purse:

My son, walk not thou in the way with them; refrain thy foot from their path:

For their feet run to evil, and make haste to shed blood.

Surely in vain the net is spread in the sight of any bird.

And they lay wait for their own blood; they lurk privily for their own lives.

So are the ways of every one that is greedy of gain; which taketh away the life of the owners thereof.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I'VE always had a hard time telling right from wrong.

Such difficulty is, of course, against all popular traditions. Theoretically, we're equipped with consciences which make it perfectly easy to tell good from evil. But in practice it's quite another matter.

As a child I expected my conscience to go off just like an alarm clock at the approach of evil. It went off all right, but its reports weren't dependable. Sometimes that which approached wasn't evil at all. Sometimes it was merely an unusual act which alarmed my conscience because of its novelty. But my conscience didn't discriminate between unconventionality and actual vice. It hollered just as loud when a thing was risky as when it was actually bad.

Now, it was plain that many of the finest acts in the world were risky acts. Every progressive step in history had been branded as dangerous, if not actually vile, by numbers of good and careful people. Undoubtedly their consciences had worked on all six, and yet what was the result?

Thousands of consciences had shrieked in sincere horror when Lincoln freed the slaves!

Thousands of consciences purred in sincere relief when Christ was crucified!

Obviously, this business of conscience was all tangled up with one's own fears and prejudices.

It was all very puzzling. The more I asked for guidance, the more puzzled I became.

"How can I tell what's right or wrong when life presents so many strange dilemmas?" I wondered. "No two people are alike or have the same obligations. You can't make a set rule that will fit every person and every occasion."

"Yes, you can," I was told. "DON'T EVER DO ANYTHING THAT WILL HURT ANYONE. You have a right to independent action as long as it doesn't hurt someone else. But if it does hurt someone else, you should stop it."

That sounded reasonable, so I tried to adopt that plan.

But it speedily became apparent that if I did anything in the least unusual it was bound to hurt someone. The world was full of good and cautious people who were horrified by the slightest departure from the conventional code. If I listened to them I would have to forego every healthy instinct of my own energetic nature. I would become about as useful in the scheme of things as an animated marshmallow.

Should I slacken my pace to suit their sluggish gait? That didn't seem right. Yet, if I didn't, I would surely hurt them.

Suddenly the truth burst upon me. People like that needed a little healthy upheaval. Their hurts were on their own heads! They might be saints, but they gummed up the wheels of progress as effectively as though they were devils. Their righteousness wasn't constructive. It didn't forge ahead, break trails for human development. It shrank from risk or action. It was really founded on laziness and fear. The thing that might be "right" for their timid natures would be cowardice for me.

It was evident that I couldn't determine good or evil by trying them out on a lot of 'fraid cats. I must make my own rule—and gradually I have made one.

When Life takes strange turnings and I am in a quandary, as to what to do, I say to myself: "Will this act go ahead with Life? It may be misunderstood; it may cause me pain and loss, but that must all be discounted. The great question is, will it play in with the building plan of Life? Will it result in more life—better life—wiser life—richer life—not only for me but for all those whom I may serve? Is it a step forward? If it is, I'm going to take it, whatever the risk."

That's my test of right and wrong.

Does it always work? No, it doesn't. No test always works. But it is the only test that seems to me to be consistent with that proud spark my Maker put within my common clay.

Tales That Are Told

Far Too Fresh

HE was fresh to the job, was the youthful-looking reporter, and very keen on his work.

He was determined to make good, and no effort was too much for him if it resulted in "copy" for the paper.

Every evening without fail he went around to certain places where he knew there was a chance of getting something new, among them being the rally season ticket office.

"Anything fresh this morning?" he asked of the clerk one day.

"Yes," replied the clerk.

The reporter whipped out his notebook.

"What is it?" he asked.

"The paint you're leaning against," was the answer.

The Best of Reasons

MRS. WARING entered her milliner's in a state of exceptional excitement.

"My new hat has been trimmed on the wrong side," she cried angrily. "I want it altered."

"The trimming is on the right side, as it should be," replied the assistant.

"It makes no difference where it ought to be!" shrieked the infuriated woman. "It's got to be on the church side."

"Church side, madam?"

"Yes, church side. I sit close to the wall and I'm not paying for trimming that can't be seen. I want it on the other side so's all the congregation can see it!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a woman that talked at her husband too much. I don't know what made her do it, and I guess she was the only one of the kind in the world. But she did anyhow, and the poor man wasn't very happy about it.

One day she was telling him about how much she suffered at the dentist's.

"He kept hurting me and hurting me, and he had a kind of a machine in my mouth that kept my mouth open so wide that I couldn't say a word."

"Say, Madge," says her husband, "would you mind asking the dentist how much one of them machines costs? If it ain't prohibitive, maybe we could install one here at home."

Short-tailed Foxes

By Herbert Kaufman

FLEXNER and Noguchi both failed to isolate the "flu" germ. Even the Rockefeller Institute lacks equipment fine enough to corner so small a pest.

Elemental rages do not threaten us nearly so cruelly as such infinitesimal creatures.

We're in constant peril of obscure blights, which continue to prey upon society and upset its poise, only because average folk can't adjust resources and philosophy to cope with them.

Conflict never abates between creative and destructive forces.

The chestnut, after weathering the gales and storms of aeons, is exterminated overnight by the gypsy moth.

Pine forests, that remember Pocahontas, find themselves desperately struggling for existence against attacks of blister.

And terrapin scale may yet denude the continent of its tulip and ash stands.

There's an incessant quarrel between the mite and the mighty. The pigmy people ever wage war on Brobdignag.

But all the weevils and under-cover workers don't belong to the worm or insect family—not by a long sight.

Prying, snooping, two-legged maggots are also searching the body of power and the activities of genius in hopes of discovering some vulnerable frailty or blemish.

Borers into the private lives of statesmen and notables are just as busy girdling their careers.

They assassinated Parnell, nibbled at Wilson's heart, bore false witness against Malvy and hounded him to the grave.

Innuendo ambushed Harding en route to the Presidency, and despicably sought to smear his name with the tar-brush.

Scoundrelly whisper intermittently pictured Roosevelt in his cups, as it had slanderously painted Cleveland as a confirmed toper and household bully.

Lie-mongers and Paul Prys are forever fouling fair repute with their venomous spittle.

Repulsive little slugs sooner or later leave their slimy libels and unsupported insinuations in all high places, broadcasting suspicions which truth never quite overtakes.

Carpenter ants gnaw at the happiness as well as the foundation timbers of homes.

Laymen call 'em busybodies, but psychiatrists recognize their cruelty as a Saddistic longing to inflict suffering and witness humiliation.

Celebrity cannot expect to escape the slurs of empty-headed and abnormal men and women, infuriated by envy, baffled by personal failure and saturated with the bitter toxins of chagrin.

Wherever achievement is in fullest flower, social weeds sneak in to strew the spores of vindictive imagination.

When you encounter a chronic knocker, you're meeting a short-tailed fox.

He hates what he cannot reach, resents what he cannot be, and finds solace for non-success and wounded vanity only in malicious mischief and character mutilation.

Ninety-nine times in a hundred, "they say" is the prelude of inaccuracy and vicious gossip—the overture of a pole-cat preparing to commit defilement.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you at cross purposes with the superintendent, the department manager where you work?

Do you consider him a driver—a person you would like to change places with for a while in order to impose hard tasks upon him?

If he is not financially interested in the business do you think that he should consider you more and the firm less?

So long as production does not mean money to him except as wages, do you feel that he is all for the concern and shows no consideration for you?

It is hard for you to understand, perhaps, why he should have such an intense desire for quality and output while others take the profit.

You think that you, as a poor individual, should be favored instead of what you call a wealthy corporation?

Doubtless you fail to consider the fact that your boss has to answer to some one above him for results.

If he does not attain the results called for by his boss higher up, he knows that he will be replaced by one who will come up to the standard sought.

The new boss might be more exacting than the one you have and you know that you would be shown no favors by a stranger, so let well enough alone.
